Students and faculty of Madison: Can you picture that?

What is there to picture, you ask? Well, for starters, there are many strange and interesting people scattered among the pages, each doing his own thing. With their weird faces and odd actions, the students sometimes seem to be just like the untamed animals from a zoo, but in reality they are just the ordinary students of Madison High! On a calmer note, there are also pictures which feature students posing for the camera in what is, for some, likely to be their last picture in a high school yearbook. Friends bunch together, boyfriend and girlfriend embrace, and even teachers take time away from their busy schedules to pose for the yearbook, each person determined to capture the precious moment in a picture. What a ton of students! Ninth grade through twelfth grade students encompass a major portion of the book. The academic section — what a shocker! Students actually learning and striving to absorb as much of the education offered to them as possible. Take a look at that section! There are so many Madison students who go through sweat and blood to be all they can be (no, it's not the Army!). Has anyone ever tried to picture the preparation for all of the fun and exciting events that take place? It's all here! Students putting their precious time (we all know how busy serious high school students can be) and effort into different organizations and activities. A new spirit committee, a recycling program, even powder-puff football and a new Homecoming skit were all installed into the already wide range of activities. What pride in but a mere high school! Madison is totally new and revitalized. Now, friends, can you picture that? NO?! Well just take a look inside . . . it's all there!

After years of hard work and determination . . . Seniors Finally Made It!

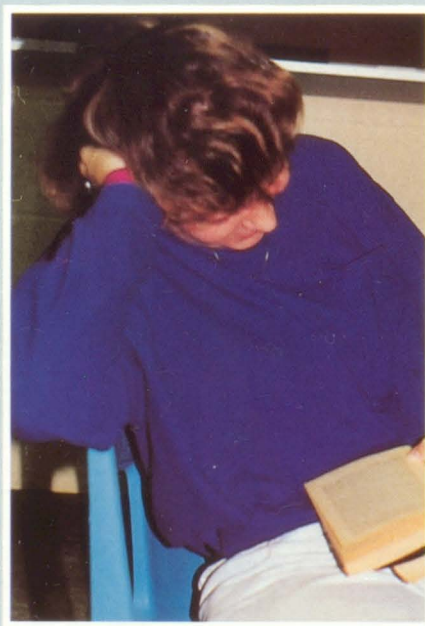

The year had finally arrived. All of the seniors' hard work had paid off. The seniors had to decide where they would be going after they graduate. Some chose to go to college, while others decided to work. They shared the excitement of being accepted to the college of their choice, but also shared the sadness of leaving people special to them behind. Over the last four years, the graduates of 1992 have been through thick and thin with their classmates. They have yet to face the real world alone. But in their last school year, many felt that they were able to experience the best year of their high school career. Leah Snitcher commented, "Your senior year is so much fun! Friends realize that this is your last year together, so they try to make the best of what is left of the time. Before you know it, everyone will be leaving for college." But finally the seniors were on top! They received the choice of participating in "senior only" events like the homecoming court, senior night for fall sports, and the senior trip to Geauga Lake. With being at the top, the seniors began to feel more unity with each other in the sense that they were the oldest and have been with each other for the last four years. As the seniors look back at their high school memories, one of the biggest things that will stick out in their minds are the friendships and memories they received in their high school years.

"With all of the seniors' hard work, everyone accomplished our goals." — Melainie Floyd

What are we gonna do now? Senior Nina Jameson waits patiently for Mr. Deering to assign the next News-week article for politics class.

The spirit within.

"This year was hard and there was a lot of homework," stated Heather Hoffman. This seemed to be a unanimous statement from many Juniors. It was a very stressful year for a lot of students: making the grades, having a job, and thinking about their futures. Juniors began to attend the college meetings, discuss with their counselors choices of careers, and most of all they started to prepare for "entering the real world." But with all the hard choices and time-consuming homework, there was always time for fun.

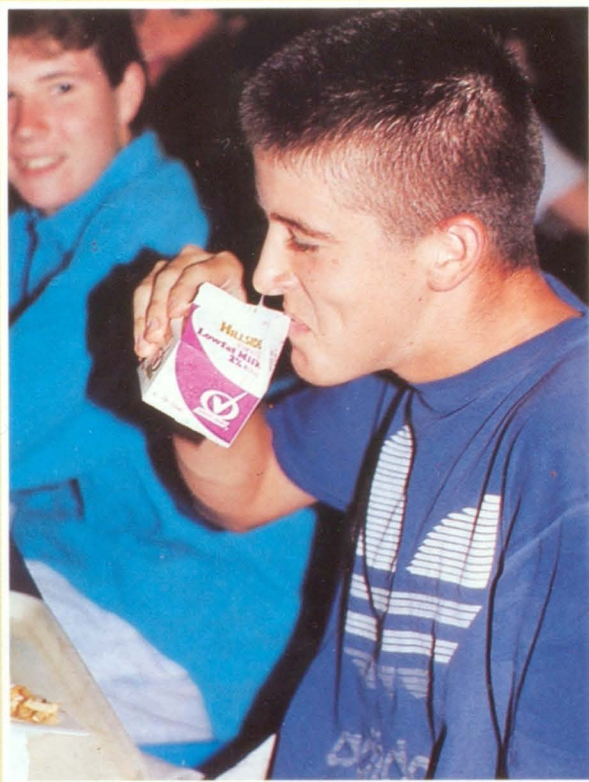

Juniors had a good time attending sports functions, dances, and participating in groups and organizations. Rachel Webster, the Junior class secretary-treasurer stated, "Our class was a great group of people to represent, and I was excited to see all the Juniors that got involved in school activities."

"This year was really exciting. I was impressed with the amount of spirit the Junior class expressed."
— Julie Bowler

Although many Juniors had pessimistic thoughts on the abundance of homework and stressful decisions, they agreed that it was, overall, a fun and spirited year.

Squash! Squash! Zubin Meshgingpoosh tries hard to cram his books in the newly remodeled lockers upstairs, which are definitely much smaller in size.

Milk, It Does a Body Good! Mike Hawes supplies himself with the essential vitamins and minerals his body needs.

"I really enjoyed representing the class of 93. It was a lot of fun." — Dawn Piros, President

"The class of 93 really bonded together to show leadership and spirit. It was a great experience to be a part of the pride our class showed." — Karen Behm, Vice President

"Our class was a great group of people to represent, and I was excited to see all the juniors that got involved in school activities." — Rachel Webster, Secretary Treasurer

Sophomores Go Wild . . .

With new-found craze

Craze, as defined by Webster's dictionary, is an exaggerated and often transient enthusiasm. The only word to be found in the High School comparatively close was the term sophomore. This group of crazed students became more commanding as the year went on, acting as a tremendous support behind all activities. The Madison High School sophomores had a desire to excel, moving on to harder, more challenging courses such as Chemistry, Algebra II, and some in their second year of a language. A fever was brewing throughout the year to be included with upperclassmen. Sophomore Kyle Horne commented on his sophomore year, "I was nervous my freshman year because I didn't know exactly what was going on. This year, I was more aware and relaxed, and I knew more people." An appetite grew as students gained a taste of freedom. For example, one of the most important newfound freedoms was for many to get a driver's license. After experiencing this, the sophomores were hungry for more, and varsity letters and class rings were flying everywhere. This craze was a mania among students, ready to be unleashed at all times.

Freshmen Enter New World

Making their first appearance in high school . . .

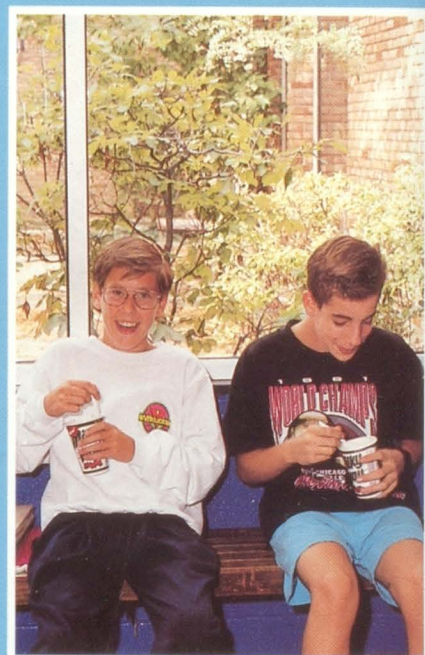

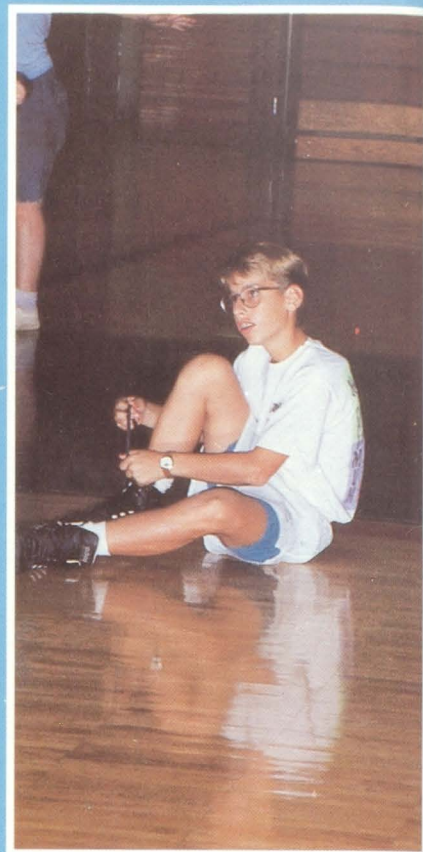

New principals, new faces, and a totally new atmosphere welcomed the class of 1995 on August 27. Over two-hundred freshmen entered high school with a frightful attitude. Many rumors circulated throughout the halls, such as having a swimming pool on the third floor. Another rumor was that the principal walked around school and wrote down the names of those who broke rules but would not tell that person. This also remained untrue. Why are freshmen so frightened of high school? It may be due to the idea that a big transition occurs between middle school and high school. As eighth graders, they were the oldest in the school and had a major input in what went on. Now as freshmen, they may be intimidated by being the youngest of the school. One freshman, Lacey Sawyer, commented, “The scariest thing about high school was that all the people were bigger than me.” For freshmen, being the youngest at school may be a scary situation. Another frightening dilemma was that freshmen were afraid that they would not be able to find a class. Once they learned the floor plan of the high school, it was easy to become accustomed to it. Freshmen just need to keep in mind that everyone went through the same trials when they first started out. One of these days, though, freshmen will turn into seniors and will be the oldest in the school. Seniors, can you picture that?!

Ho Hum . . . Freshmen, Michelle Spaulding, Cindy Beuhner, Jenny Pearson, and Jamie Motulewicz, realize how boring lunch can be after all the eating is done.

Homecoming . . .

The Changes for the better

Time after time, Homecoming has been the same. Finally, a change was made. Before the game, there was a parade. Members of Key Club, Student Council, and the Senior class participated. The floats from each group came from Homer Nash Kimball down Main Street and arrived at Hamblin Field. After circling around the field, the queen's court trailed behind on corvettes. Following the parade, the choir sang the Star Spangled Banner. Unfortunately, we had to wait until halftime to see the queen crowned. The following night, around four-hundred and fifty students walked into Sherwood Forest (also known as the cafeteria) representing the theme of "Robin Hood." The king, Bryan Horowski, and queen, Melainie Floyd, danced to the song of "Everything I Do, I Do For You." "This was a night that I will never forget," stated Senior Kelly Reed.

"I never expected to be on court, let alone king." — Bryan Horowski

Who is it going to be . . . Anxiously waiting, Junior Michelle Holyman and her date wait to hear who will be king.

Breaking a heel caught Freshman Jamie McIntyre by surprise.

Wandering through Sherwood Forest, Junior Duke Gustincic enters the realm of Robin Hood.

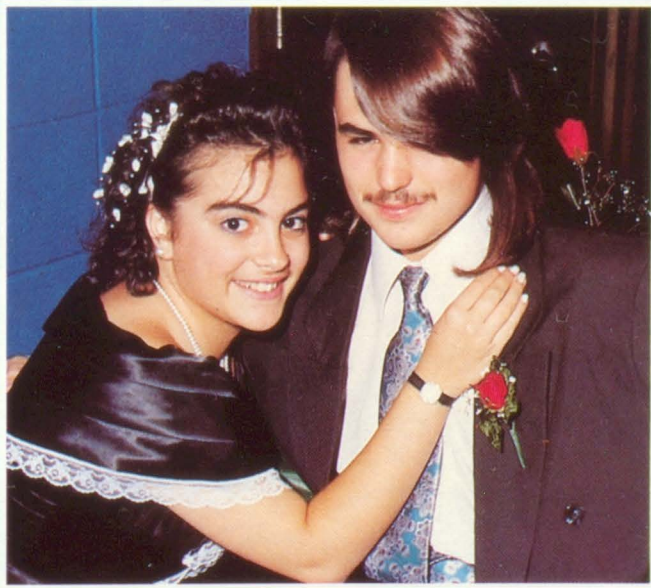

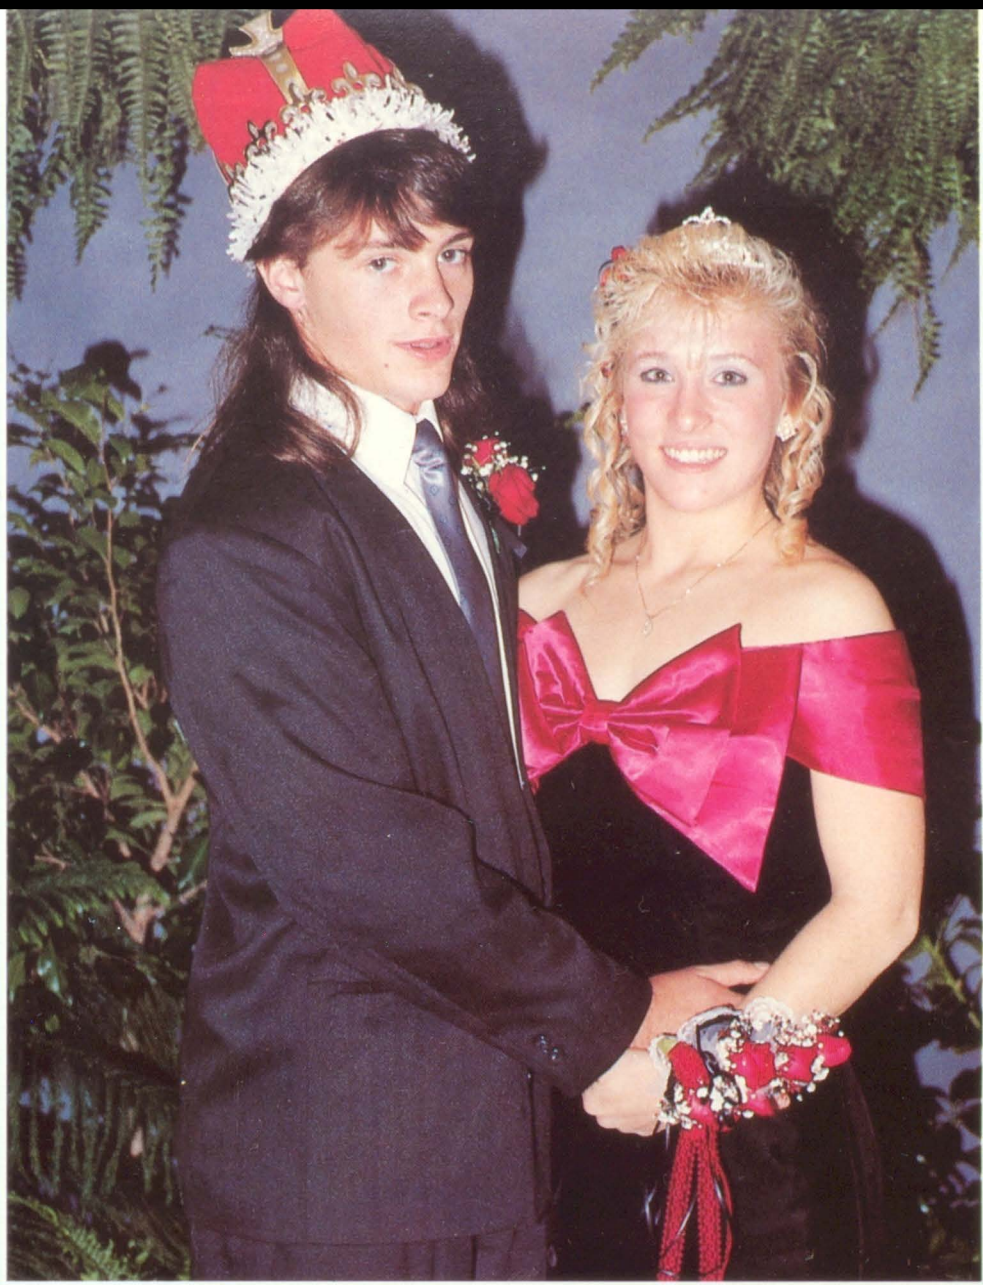

"It was fun to see everyone dressed up and having a good time" — Kate Fedele

"It was great until my car broke down." — Eddie Szabo

Reigning over the Homecoming dance ... Bryan Horowski and Melainie Floyd were crowned king and queen.

Tired from all the excitement, Senior Minnie Ozbeytemur cuddles up to her date, Junior Bryan Shartz.

One on One . . . Junior Candy Rose dribbles close to the frightened Beaumont goalie in order to set up her shot.

Getting Involved . . .

Students rid boredom with activities

Are you sick of homework, tests, and school in general? If so, then go out and live a little! Experience the various activities that Madison High School has to offer. Some people enjoy watching football games while others prefer playing football. Some students look forward to the annual Homecoming dance while others are content with being on the Homecoming decorating committee. Regardless of a student's preferences, though, he or she can usually find a suitable activity to help the school year become more enjoyable.

Showing spirit and support at sporting events and in our school in general

"Spirit increases pride in our school and makes things more fun."

was probably the most common activity in student life. Spirit really increased pride in our school and also raised the level of team play. Jill Volgstadt commented, "We need spirit. Spirit increases pride in our school and makes things more fun." "Many times, though, spirit in our school was not as great as it could have been." Cyndi Cool stated, "We have fair weather fans. Their spirit is up when teams are doing well, but they need to be supportive all the time." In the end, it is up to the student to make the school year as fun and productive as possible.

"It is important to be involved in school activities because you're taught the ability to work with others." — Bryan Black

Jump! Throw! Pin!

Athletes Show-off

Sports make up an important part of a student's high school life. Students learned many social skills that can be used later in life. Athletes learned how to work together as a team and realized how vital it was to cooperate in order to succeed. Senior Joe Pavetto added, "Before a person goes out into the real world, he should have a team experience in order to get used to working with other people."

"I'll miss the distinct smell of the boy's locker room."

Whether an athlete decides to further his athletic career in college or just plans to be involved in high school, many athletes will miss the competitiveness and the fun of being involved in a sport. Senior wrestler, Brandon Marshall said he'd miss, "the distinct smell of the boy's locker room." On a more serious note, senior Varsity football player, Eddie Szabo, added he'd miss the excitement of Friday night football games and the feeling of being involved in representing his school.

On the run! Senior Varsity soccer player Bryan Black dribbles the ball down Hamblin Field to try for a point. The Streaks later tied the game, 2 to 2 against Aurora.

We've got that spirit! Senior Varsity cheerleaders Jill Volgstadt and Dawn Crnjak cheer at the home football game against Perry High School.

Huddle-up! The Varsity football team brings it in for a quick pep talk before the start of their home game against Edgewood. The Streaks brought the team home a victory.

Almost there! Senior Cross Country runner Jennifer McIntyre finishes strong at the home meet against Riverside.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III was President Bush's representative on dozens of diplomatic trips around the world but primarily to the Middle East. A peace conference in the Middle East was his primary mission. A lasting peace in the Middle East has been a goal of many presidents, but President Bush was hopeful that it would become a reality during his administration.

Desert Storm Commander General H. Norman Schwarzkopf gave a thumbs up to the crowd as he made his way up Broadway during New York's Operation Welcome Home ticker tape parade in June, 1991. A fireworks extravaganza capped off the celebration. Schwarzkopf, General Colin Powell and Defense Secretary Dick Cheney were the grand marshals of the New York parade, with over 600,000 people turning out to welcome the soldiers home. More than 1 million people attended a welcome home parade May 19 in Hollywood, and an estimated 800,000 turned out for the parade in Washington. "U.S.A.! U.S.A.!" the flag-waving crowd chanted during a half-hour of nighttime fireworks over the East River in New York City. The $1 million display was accompanied by the New York Pops Orchestra. A teary-eyed Korean War Veteran said, "These young boys put their lives on the line, and now they're getting their reward."

Talk about being around a long time. The Grateful Dead has been making hits and great music for 26 years. Guitarist Jerry Garcia and his group have been roaming the world on tour since before the Seniors were born. The San Francisco-based group was formed in 1965 at the height of the city's psychedelic counterculture movement.

Honors-College Prep-Regular

Picture this: the Madison High School library transformed into a giant sleepover party. This is exactly what Ms. Jackson's Junior Honors English class did. Besides late night snacks and gossiping, the class also held an all-night read-a-thon of The Scarlet Letter. The proceeds raised went towards a class field trip. Ms. Jackson commented, "We made it through the novel, but we didn't all make it through awake." Most of the students agreed that the overnight was a great success. Honors English, offered in each grade level, is an advanced class which concentrates more heavily on literature and compositions than on grammar skills. For example, the Senior Honors class wrote short stories to be sent to publishers.

Another class offered within the English Department is college prep. Senior students study British literature and do a critical analysis of a British author's life's work. Mr. Jack Pavesich stated, "We Senior English teachers like those long research papers ... they go on forever." Senior Scott Cole agreed that "to survive this class, intense studying is a must." The Junior college prep classes concentrate on American Literature. To enhance learning, the Junior class went to see Night of the Iguana, a play by Tennessee Williams, at the Cleveland Playhouse. The Sophomores get a taste of various authors and review grammar. Mr.

Pavesich also commented that a student's Sophomore year "bridges the gap between being a Freshman and a real student."

Freshman students work hard on grammar and read different books and plays like Romeo and Juliet.

First level English is another type of class available in the English Department. Stressing basic English skills, these regular English classes study grammar and learn skills that can be applied toward every day life.

All the writing we do I'm sure will prepare me for college.
— Chris Brown

In Freshman English I think that too much time was spent on boring grammar rules. I am glad that this year we will be reading more. Kids would rather read than do work that they find unnecessary. I think we will learn more our Sophomore year.

Working With Numbers . . .

Picture this: someone actually understanding a math concept. Well, it is certainly possible, especially with our math department, which consists of Mr. Jack Becka, Mr. Art Bortnick, Mrs. Ellen Carr, Mrs. Sue Curkendall, Mr. Bert Kovalchick, Mr. Jerry McIntyre, and Mr. Kevin Morgan, who worked all year to express the importance of a good math background. To graduate, a student must have at least two math credits. If the student is planning to attend college, he or she must establish a background in such subjects as Algebra 2, Trigonometry, and Calculus.

"Math is the place where you can find the mysteries of the world." — Jeff Cooper

Mr. Morgan's General math class was geared more toward the proficiency exams, which were taken as a criterion to graduate. In his pre-calculus class, students used a graphing calculator. These calculators are becoming a requirement in some college courses, and it's very important for students to learn how to operate them now. Mr. McIntyre had an optimistic outlook on this year's program. He stated, "The kids seemed to be more interested and worked harder this year. They wanted to learn more."

"This stuff is easy" . . . Juniors Corey Robishaw and Josh Moseley listen to what Mr. Becka teaches them about Geometry.

New Technology

Students experience new aspects about science.

"Each year my students become more and more interesting, but each year they're never the same," commented Chemistry teacher Mr. Steve Mallick. A new wave of learning hit the science department with great enthusiasm. Students were offered a wide range of courses that helped them deal with today's never-ending questions about science. Unlike past years, two new half-semester courses were added to the curriculum of science courses offered. A new Anatomy class was introduced in which students studied Biology while learning the benefits of dissection on such animals as the rat, mink, and a cat. However, if dissection didn't interest the students, Ecology was the other exciting new course offered. Ecology classes studied evolution, microorganisms, and wildlife while enjoying the pleasures of investigation on the environment. "I want to look at man's impact on the environment. It's important to learn your local ecosystem as well as others," commented Mr. Jim Pelich on his new Ecology class. These two new classes along with the new science computer lab added the finishing touches to the development of the science department.

Whether studying the effects of chemical reactions or learning about the force of gravity, the science department offered a good basis for future education. The department began the process of learning with science and advances through biology, chemistry, and physics. Each year, the science department hopes to expand its horizons and give its students the best possible science background. Can you picture that?

Hard at work Mr. Larry Daly's 5th period general Science class diligently concentrates while getting lectured on the course of science.

Senior Jackie Nestor commented, "The new Anatomy classes have been interesting this year, but I hope the organization will be better next year. I loved dissections, and my lab partners were great in helping me discover the facts about science. I'm glad Madison has this course because it will help students in the future."

"With the crumbling of communism, the economic forces have never been more prevalent than today," commented Mr. Duke Dipofi, Madison's Economics and Geography teacher.

The Social Studies department offered Economics, World Geography, Government, History, and Politics. There were two new staff members to the Social Studies department: Mr. James Herrholtz, who taught at Youngstown Christian Academy and who is now teaching Economics, World Geography, Foundations of Government, and

Speaking in Tongues

The French, German, and Spanish classes, taught by Mrs. Ruth Ann Strother, Mr. Donald Strother, and Mrs. Karen Battes, did some fun and interesting projects with their classes. The teachers gave their students situations that they would experience in the country. They used the computers, visited the Art Museum, and went to restaurants. German students participated in the student exchange program again this year.

Even though taking a language class is not required for graduation, most students take the two to three years required for college. This was the first year that there was a fourth-year German class in the language department. This was geared to those who want to major in foreign languages. The students also took part in language camps.

More and more students seem to be interested in language classes because the teachers made learning the languages more exciting by playing games. "The games are fun and help us learn," says Junior Amy Muzzio. An example of the games is the French version of Bingo that Mrs. Strother uses so her students can learn vocabulary. Mrs. Strother states, "I expected the students to learn but hope they had fun at the same time."

Developing Careers . . .

Cooking, Sewing, and Independence

Many students signed up for Home Economics, and it was a blast! The courses offered included Life Skills, Foods, Child Development, Marriage and Family, Clothing, Independent Living, Quest, and Home Furnishings.

Special activities such as community services and dinners were planned. The students assisted in these. At Thanksgiving, the classes made special feasts, including a turkey for each class! Foods 1 and 2 enjoyed a taste of food from each country at their foreign foods buffet, and they got to share their wonderful meal with a guest of their choice! In the newest class, Quest, the students had their share of work while doing a recycling project.

“We want to teach basic skills and knowledge as aids to thinking” — Mrs. McMahon

The purpose of the Home Economics classes was to assist the students in developing their communication skills, getting ready for their future by deciding careers, and learning how to balance their home life with their work life. They also learned how to write out job resumes and manage their money.

People are under the assumption that all of these skills are acquired at home, but in reality, many of them are not. The teachers tried to reinforce what the students already knew, and they expanded on that.

Building The Future . . .

Industrial Arts

A candy dish, a tool box, a model of a house, or a cabinet might be one of the projects taken home by a student who finished one of the three Industrial Arts courses offered. Drafting, woods, and metals made-up the Industrial Arts program. Drafting, taught by a combination of Mr. Jack Becka, Mr. Bob Peterson, and Mr. Fred Morrison, consisted of a series of levels. First-year drafting students used paper representations as a guide to learn how to make universal machine parts and shapes in order to get comfortable with the special drafting tools. More experienced drafters were allowed to design their own homes which began with a floor plan and progressed all the way to the finished view. Woods, taught by Mr. Peterson, was another Industrial Arts program where students could be seen hard at work. Also set on a level system, woods students worked with scraps of wood provided by the school. However, those students who progressed into the higher levels were expected to design a project and supply their own raw materials to build it. The last class offered in the Industrial Arts program was metals. Mr. Fred Morrison taught his students to weld, cut, and attach metal pieces to other scraps of metals using different kinds of gases and power sources. Once these steps were mastered, students could select different projects to make. Even though these were only high school courses, they prepared students very well for a future in related fields. In fact, many of the skills learned in the industrial arts programs fit in with Lakeland courses.

Taking Care of Business . . .

Students prepare for future

Many students never take classes from the business, I.O.E., or O.W.A. departments. These classes are, though, still a very important part of Madison High School’s curriculum. Students enrolled in these classes are better prepared to compete in the world and business after graduation.

The business department offered a wide variety of courses regardless of a student’s interests. General Business was available to students who wanted an introduction to business. Students could also take Personal Typing for a general introduction to typing. If a student plans to study business in college or is more interested in business, the business department offers advanced courses such as Exploring Business, Business Law, Accounting 1, and Typing 1.

The I.O.E. (Intensive Office Education) was offered to students who plan to obtain a job in business without going to college. I.O.E. is a vocational program taught by Mrs. Grist where students spent three periods a day studying office procedures. Students in this program spend two years studying accounting and two years studying office training. Courses offered in I.O.E. included Accounting 2, Advanced Office Training, and Business English.

“O.W.A. teaches students self-motivation and how to compete in the world without a college diploma.”

Finally, students who were having outside problems or troubles in normal courses could take O.W.A. (Occupational Work Adjustment). Mr. Sears stated, “O.W.A. teaches students self-motivation and how to compete in the world without a college diploma.” Students spent the first five periods of the day in O.W.A. Mr. Sears taught the students English and O.W.A.-related, which instructed them about jobs and how to find jobs. During sixth and seventh periods, students went to their jobs. They not only earned money for their work but also high school credit.

Tough Goals Help Student Athletes

Freshman Le-Ronnie Clopton said, "I enjoy playing basketball in gym. It's alive!"

With the step of becoming a high school student, all must undergo the dreaded class of Physical Education. But at Madison, the picture is quite a bit different. Those who taught Physical Education were Mrs. Linda Pavesich, Mr. Rex Reigert, and newcomer to the department of Physical Education, Mr. Tim Willis. The curriculum in Mrs. Pavesich's class began with two days of intense lifting a week. The goals that went along with this part of the program were increased strength, endurance, and tone. In addition to the usual competitive team sports such as basketball, baseball, and football, the focus of self-direction and lifetime skills were introduced by tour-namment play of badminton and paddle tennis. A new procedure to the curriculum was a running program. The goal of this activity was to help students be able to run a twelve-minute minimum run by the end of the semester. All in all, the real goal of Physical Education was increased individual self-esteem obtained from taking the class.

"Physical Education teaches responsibility of attending class and participation on a daily basis." — Mr. Rex Reigert

Health Education naturally goes along with Physical Education. Mr. Willis and Mrs. Pavesich taught the important aspects of good health off the court and field as well as on. The class was a "how to" class which dealt with the many problems one must face in his physical, emotional, and psychological aspects of life.

Sophomore Jeff Underwood commented, "I like the variety of sports we play in Mr. Reigert's gym class."

Art students show off their talents

What's all this?! Colorful projects filled the hallways during one of several art shows throughout the year. Madison's art department has been very successful over the years, winning many awards for students' work. With two outstanding teachers, Mr. Frank Ashton and Mrs. Joan Parks, budding artists learned new techniques in art foundations, while the more experienced artists grew in such classes as drawing, pottery, and painting. Mr. Ashton described printmaking as an exciting course where students did self-portraits for one project. During one of Mrs. Parks' commercial art classes, she said, "I want to establish an appreciation for art. Whether a student is talented or not talented doesn't matter to me. I just want my students to enjoy art." Some students enjoyed jewelry class, where they worked with silver, making rings and pendants. Senior Robyn Hamaguchi stated, "I had fun working on my ring last year in art foundations, and I wanted to expand on my knowledge." For those very talented senior artists, studio art, which offered various projects not seen in other classes, was another option. "It's more challenging because you have to work harder to get your job done, and it's more time-consuming," senior Stacey Markgraf said. "I like the challenge." Art challenged many students this year, and all the beautiful projects showed the effort.

Variety Spices Up Learning

Students earn rewards with fun and games

Can you picture this? Having the same curriculum as every one else in the school, but being in a class with fewer people and a more individualized atmosphere. Students enrolled in the O.C.C. program (Occupational class), experienced this privilege every day. The students who sometimes needed special attention in school were brought together in either Mrs. Morgan's, Miss Rihaly's, Miss Tramte's, or Mrs. McCue's class, where learning was made easier and a little bit more fun. "Their classes are exactly the same, just smaller. They read the same novels as the rest of the school except there are fewer students," stated Mrs. Morgan. On most Fridays, these students were rewarded for their hard work with a little fun and games. They played games such as basketball in which they earned points to add to their grades. If they answered a question correctly, they were given a little nerf basketball to shoot, and when they made a basket, they were given points. On other Friday's, they got to try their hand at cooking. "This helps the students get along with other people they may not like. It teaches them about real life where if you're told by the boss to work with a person, you have to work with them whether you like it or not." acknowledged Miss Tramte.

The students were then graded on their behavior. These classes included students from 9-12 grade; however, the majority of the students were freshmen and sophomores. Renee Wells said, "I like these classes because teachers are nicer and they understand me more. It's a lot of fun"! All of the students seemed to have a real positive attitude and were very enthusiastic!

Yearbook Undergoes Surgery

Every year, the yearbook gets better and better. With Becky Bangerter and Chris McBride as Co-Editors, the yearbook underwent surgery. Parts were taken out while others were transplanted and added to another area. People became bored while reading through the pages of Wills and Plans that seemed to go on and on. So, each Senior's Wills and Plans were placed by their picture to help cut down on unnecessary costs and pages. These cuts were a result of the rising publishing costs. Business all over Madison has been down because of the recession, making it harder for the yearbook staff to sell their required five ads. Each staff member was to sell five ads to businesses around the community, but this task becomes harder each year because advertisers aren't buying. "We've had to change some things this year, but I believe they're all for the better," claims Cyndi Cool, a yearbook staff member. Other changes such as having the Current Events pages mixed together with the Ad section has helped to bring more attention to the Ads. Becky and Chris redesigned the Academic and Student Life pages by adding a plus column and flow text to them. The plus column featured students' pictures along with a quote from each. The flow text gave the yearbook more of a magazine look by putting quotes in the middle of each page's text. These changes enabled the yearbook staff to print the best yearbook yet!

The yearbook this year will be the best of the best. I love all the people on the staff ... they're Great!

Streak continues to excel!

Rushing, cramming, meeting deadlines, and hard work were all similarities shared by the staff members of the school newspaper, The Streak. "The success of The Streak is no fluke," stated Mr. Frank Ashton, The Streak advisor. "It is a result of a lot of hard work and attention to detail. Our motto is proofread, proofread, and proofread again." All this hard work paid off, though, in the end because The Streak in its seventh year of publication, continually wins awards for excellence.

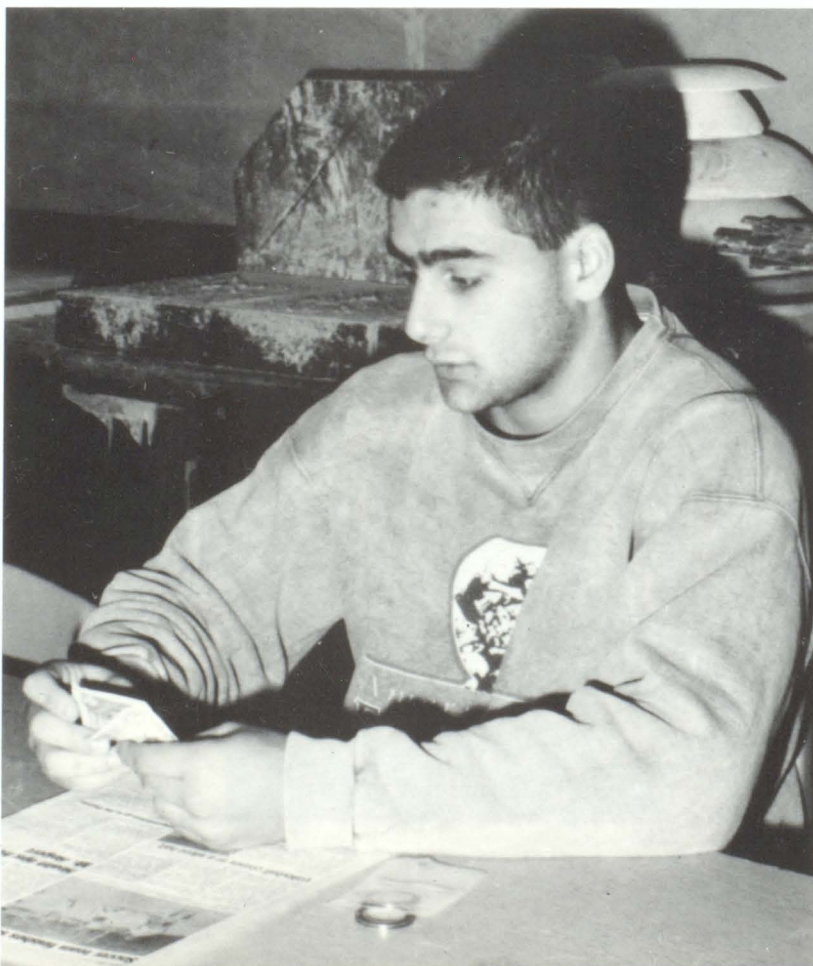

Many people don't realize all the work that goes into publishing the school newspaper. Led by co-editors Tracy Head and Mitzi Herron, The Streak staff first decided what articles were going to be printed in the upcoming issue. Next, the stories were assigned to individual staff members, and deadlines were set. Then, the time-consuming job of interviewing and gathering information to write the stories began. After all the stories were written, the staff edited each others' articles. The layout of each page was then designed to fit the stories. After the layout was designed, the staff sent the pages to the publishers for the first draft. The publishers, then, sent the rough draft back for approval. Finally, The Streak staff made any necessary corrections and sent the pages back to the publishers for final printing.

The hard work and dedication of the staff was appreciated by most students in the school. The Streak updated the readers on present issues and events in the school and community, provided a way for students to express their opinions, and delivered humor to anybody who read it. "The Streak is a vital part of our school," commented Dawn Crnjak. "It provides the students with information on issues that involve our school and community." This year, The Streak was definitely an integral and valuable part of our school.

Mr. Perez's career at Madison High was off to a splendid start! He directed the choir and and they both had great vocal performances. Show choir girls had great opportunities this year, performing at Country Clubs, Festivals, the Christmas Annual Tree Lighting Ceremony, along with many other places.

The stage and pep bands were kept busy with assemblies, sports, concerts, competitions, buffets, etc. The Symphonic band made a special trip to Toronto to enter a Performing Arts Consultant competition in May. They were also in the Lake County Music Festival, the National Honor Society Commencement, and home concerts.

Streaks March . . . . . . Playing way to Toronto

Attention! (The shrill of the whistle sounds.) Blue Streaks! This command was heard at the start of every football game and marching band performance. Then the band was off and marching, as batons flew high and the band forward marched eight and pinwheeled left. The 1991-1992 marching Blue Streaks worked hard to entertain the roaring crowd during pregame and half-time festivities. The talented members attended a mandatory two weeks of intense band camp during the summer, drilling these streaks to memorize music and routines, and to prepare for their electrifying performances. Practice, Practice, Practice was drilled by Junior Drum Majorette Karen Behm. Always marching with their heads held high and motionless when called to attention, the marching streaks exhibited their spirit for the team as well as pride in their school. The band rocked on the field to such numbers as “Pretty Woman,” “Gonna Make you Sweat,” “Born to Boogie,” “Heartbreak Hotel,” and the traditional fight song. During the hot months, the band was seen sweating it out marching in the Old Fashioned Day’s Parade and the Grape Jamboree. In addition to these, they performed at the Lake County Band Festival, the Ashtabula Band-arama, and the Saint Patrick’s Day Parade in downtown Cleveland during the spring. They went on to experience something new this year. The band traveled to Toronto to compete but also just to sight-see and enjoy the trip.

Librarian: Ms. Dee Carlson

Administration is the key to the success and organization of any school. Principals take care of the discipline to ensure a safe school for all. Many changes have come about since the three new principals came to Madison. Although they have accomplished a lot, the principals believe that there are many more changes that need to occur. Mr. Keener stated, "I can't comment on what Madison was like before I came here, but I hope that we're developing more spirit and I also hope to develop more instructional programs. I want to see continued increase in professional development for teachers, such as workshops, and more organizations like student government." Although our principals have worked arduously to make the high school better, there are many other administrators to give credit to. The three counselors, four secretaries, three librarians, one athletic director and one audio-visual instructor also worked as hard as ever to make Madison the best that it could possibly be. In future years, Madison will be an even better school system, thanks to the dedication from the administrators and other faculty. Just take a moment to picture that.

As the school year began in September, 1991, President George Bush was trying to get his nominees to the Supreme Court (Clarence Thomas) and the Central Intelligence Agency (Robert Gates) successfully through the confirmation process. But two of his major tasks were peace in the Middle East and a lingering recession at home in the United States. With a presidential election around the corner, the president was putting together his re-election team.

Tens of thousands of Iraqis were killed by the United States and its allies after Saddam Hussein invaded Kuwait. Hussein's soldiers retreated from Kuwait, leaving the country in shambles, but the Iraqi leader remained in power.

Go . . . Go . . . Touchdown!

Streaks gain yardage on field

50 yards . . . 40 . . . 30 . . . 20 . . . 10 . . . touchdown Bluestreaks! Every year, the Bluestreaks start off their season with great hopes of finishing in first place, but by the end of their season, the team's spirits have diminished into disappointments. However, Madison's dreadful losing streak ended as they finished up their season with a 7-2 record in the N.E.C. The first rival game against Perry exploded into action as the Streaks defeated the Pirates 31-19. Going into the next game at Riverside, the team's spirits were high as they tried to beat the defending N.E.C. champs. The Streaks lost to Riverside 14-8, but proved to the fans they had pride in themselves. The Streaks had a great season, dominating the field for most of their games. They had three shut-out games against neighboring Jefferson, Harvey, and St. John. The Streaks finished up their successful season third in the N.E.C. and earned recognition in the community. Senior Bill Eagle commented, "I felt the team had a great season. It feels good to end my senior year on a good note." Ending on a good note is exactly what the Streaks did, finished on top and leaving the others in the mud. Can you picture next year's success?

Senior Joe Pavetto commented, "The coaches were outstanding this year. I only wish more of our massive male student body came out for the team. If more of the guys came out, I know the football program would be solid for next year."

Junior Kyle Jackson also added, "The success of a football team begins with working together as a unit. I think the team achieved a winning record by dedicating themselves and working together."

The "Untouchables" Freshmen Go Undefeated

With an undefeated season, the freshman Football team should be proud. All their hard work and dedication reflected in their record. The highest scoring game was against Edgewood. Madison defeated them by forty-two points. The closest game was against Ashtabula. Madison won by one point. All their games resulted in a victory, with a total of 213 points.

Streaks Stride Strong . . . Boys Achieve Their Goal

The Madison Boys' Cross Country team finished the season with a 9-1 record. This was the most productive season that Madison has had in a long time. Madison had NEC runners-up, two NEC first-teamers, which were Matt Martin and Matt Igyarto, two NEC second-teamers, which were Bob Chaffee and Adam Ogrin, and two Regional qualifiers, which were Matt Igyarto and Matt Martin. Madison placed third in three out of the five invitationals. "It was a season of triumphs shared and earned by a team who gave to each other all their enthusiasm and energy," quoted Mr. Snyder.

This year's team consisted of twenty-one individuals who learned the value of hard work and the need to be committed to excellence. Matt Igyarto said, "I feel that this season was both successful and fulfilling." The team gives special recognition to their only senior, Rich Bailey, who raced only once due to a serious injury. The boys' formula for success is "Start Smart and Finish Fast."

Putting all his power into his last strides, Tom Connet crosses the finish line.

Off-Season for Girls . . . . . . but they have fun trying

Due to a lack of summer mileage and of no "base" (accumulation of running a lot of miles) by most of the runners, the 1991-92 girls' cross-country team did not perform up to traditional expectations. However, because the team consisted of mostly new and young runners, they ran respectable races throughout the long season. The team finished a notable 3rd place in the N.E.C. and also performed well at other invitationals.

Leading the team, veteran runner Junior Julie Heck had an aggressive season. Besides making 1st team N.E.C., she also qualified for Regionals. Heck commented, "I wanted to go to Regionals, so I ran more over the summer and went to a running camp. I think my hard work and dedication finally paid off." Other individuals who received awards were senior Nina Jameson and Freshman Debbie Bangerter. Both received 2nd team N.E.C. honors.

Without the help from their teammates

(friends), the girls' cross country team would not be able to bare the 3.1 mile course or the long practices. But, because the team ran so many endless miles together, they were able to give each other the support they needed. With veteran runners passing on tradition and stories, the cross country team created many long-lasting friendships. Freshman Tessa Kooyman agreed, "At the beginning of the season it was hard because I didn't know anyone, but after a couple of practices it was a lot of fun . . . never a dull moment." The team started a new tradition this year — secret pals. Sophomore Jeanelle Swank thought this idea was "a nice way of lending support to my friends." When not practicing, the runners planned other social activities. Such events include: their annual trip to Ponderosa, sleepovers, picnics, etc., etc., etc. They were more than a team, they were "family"!

Senior Tracey Albert — “Why did I even bother running? I sprained my ankles too many times and running 3.1 miles in 90 degree weather was not my idea of fun. But I guess I tortured myself to “burn calories” because the team was just so much fun!”

Senior Nina Jameson — “My best memories from cross-country are the great friendships I’ve made and reluctantly admitting Tracey won the Ponderosa eat-off in our Sophomore year.”

Senior Jennifer McIntyre — “Running at the Regional meet my Sophomore year was the most exciting experience of my three years in cross country. I felt a great sense of pride to be representing Madison.”

Dribbling to success . . . Girls Varsity Soccer Reaches New Goals!

The third-year girls' soccer team had their share of ups and downs this season. One of their "ups" was that they were seated fourth in the NEC sectionals. This was a very big honor for the girls. But that happy moment ended with a 2-0 loss to Notre-Dame Cathedral Latin. The girls had worked very hard for that game. They began intense conditioning at the end of July and had their first game on August 26, which ended in a victory. The senior captains were Amy Hoffman and Gretchen Bodnar. The two girls were also chosen for the Greater Cleveland Conference All-Stars game. There were also many other awards given to some members of the team. Their record ended up being 5-9-2. Leah Snitcher commented, "Records don't reveal everything. Just because a record says you have more losses than wins, it doesn't mean that you haven't accomplished other intended goals." That is true. Records don't mean everything. The girls may have had nine losses, but all of their defeats were one or two goals short of a victory. They managed to hold North and Kenston by a few goals, which shows a lot. Kenston and North were the two top-rated teams in the area. The girls' team was coached by Mrs. Sharon Naso, Mr. Ron Robishaw, and Mrs. Darla Young. The girls and the coaches didn't reach their intended record they had hoped for, but through the season, everyone received memories that they will always re-

Same Sport, New Expectations . . . Soccer Fulfills Goals!

For the last few years, the Varsity Soccer Team has been faced with the challenge of working with a new coach, though this year's challenge was easier than past years, for the experience of Coach Andy Marson. Having a Scottish background and growing up with the sport of soccer, Andy came to the United States to play soccer at Cleveland State University. As a coach, he pushed the team to their physical best by making the team run the hated "Barney Scuttles." In the end, the hard work paid off for the team when they finished the season with a winning record of 7-6-3 and placed second in their Greater Cleveland Conference division.

No single team member stood out, for the individuals on the team came together and worked as a unit to defeat the many challenging teams. The highlight of the soccer season was the last minute victory over Chardon, 2-1, which was a prime example of team spirit, unity, and pride.

Weak season, strong efforts

Despite a rather disappointing season, the Junior varsity soccer team learned a lot this year and enjoyed themselves in the process. The team played with Mr. Todd Baker as their coach. Playing on the JV team gives young members an opportunity to learn and practice new skills, and this team worked hard to accomplish just that. "Soccer is a lot of hard work, but it's also a lot of fun," freshman Joe Hoover said. With all of the knowledge and experience gained this year, soccer can only improve in the years to come.

Can You Dig It?

JV girls show promise

For the Junior Varsity volleyball team, this year's season meant action. With many young players and first-year members, there was a lot of work to be done, but coach Cheryl Zook managed to handle the team wonderfully. After much practice and determination, the girls learned to play well together, and their season turned out to be a success. With a record of 10 wins and 8 losses, they certainly have reason to be proud.

"There was a lot of team spirit."

As freshman Michele Henn stated, "There was a lot of team spirit." With such a bright outlook, the girls have a promising future ahead of them.

Varsity Serves Despite Record, Streaks Blast Competition

The sound of the whistle and the sudden silence of the crowd brought the feelings of tension and anxiety to the six determined players in blue and white.

Geneva, leading 15-14, served the ball to the frustrated Streaks, who had given up an earlier 14-11 lead to NEC's best team. The serve was received, and after a long volley with a series of spectacular plays, the Bluestreaks came up short once again.

This was the outcome of most of the games the Girls' Varsity Volleyball Team played this year. Despite their record of 9-11, the girls had a successful season. The Streaks scared a lot of top NEC teams and came close to pulling off many upsets.

Receiving individual honors were Wendy Palagyi and

Leslie Solden — Second Team NEC; Kate Fedele — Special Mention; Mandy Lewis and Daniela Fidanza — Honorable Mention. Wendy, Kate, and Daniela participated in the Senior Star Beacon Classic. Senior co-captain Kate Fedele summed up the season best by stating, “Our talent was not reflected through our record.”

Concentration! That is what Junior Sara Horowski is thinking as she demonstrates her serving technique.

As you hear the swoosh of the clubs and see the ball roll onto the green, you know it's going to be another fun season with the Golf Team.

Once again, their practice and dedication to the sport really paid off. Their record was 12-6, finishing third in the NEC. Second-year coach, Mr. A. J. Pierce said, "It was a very young team without Senior leadership, but with determination, we had a strong finish." The team could have been seen at Erie Shores Golf Course during their daily practice, which consisted of nine holes a day. Even though the team was young, everyone worked well together which made it a fun and thrilling season. With the whole team striving to do their best, they came out victorious.

"We had a good season, and I'm really looking forward to next year," says Sophomore, Andy Johnson.

Cheerleaders . . . Spark Your Spirit!

This year, spirit took on new meaning for the MHS cheerleaders. Beginning in the summer, the Varsity football and basketball cheerleaders combined to attend Americheer camp at Kent State University. They worked hard to receive many ribbons, spirit awards, and a Superior plaque to reward their efforts.

The football squad consisted of all five seniors this year, and they exhibited much spirit and enthusiasm for the successful football team. They cheered through all kinds of weather and got the crowd involved with them. For Homecoming, the senior football players were presented with gifts from the cheerleaders to psyche them up for the big game. It was the last season for the five seniors, and they enjoyed every minute of it. As Jill Volgstadt said, “This was the most fun I’ve had. We all cheered well together, and the winning football team made the season even more exciting!”

The basketball squad continued practice through the fall and winter. With two seniors and four juniors, they cheered on the basketball team with much optimism. “Even though the team didn’t exactly win all the time, we still kept our spirits up,” junior Heather Hoffman said. The squad prepared an outstanding half time routine and threw out miniature basketballs to the crowd. The Varsity cheerleaders at MHS kept the spirit high all through the year!

J.V.s Create Spirit Freshman Squad Helps

Picture this: It's Saturday morning in the fall and most Madison students are still snug in their beds sleeping. But NOT the J.V. Cheerleaders! They're up bright and early — cheering for the J.V. football team. Besides football, the cheerleaders also cheered for the J.V. basketball team throughout the winter season. Sophomore Nicole Kurilco commented, "I like cheering for football more because it's a shorter season." To prepare themselves for a spirit filled year, the J.V. squad attended a National Cheerleader Association (NCA) camp at Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea, Ohio, for one week during the summer.

Now Picture this: Five young girls cheering enthusiastically for their winning Blue Streak basketball team. That's exactly what the Freshman cheerleading squad did! Starting to practice in the early fall, the cheerleaders supported their team during the long basketball season. However, most of the members on the squad agreed that their dedication was worth the energy to lead their team to victories!

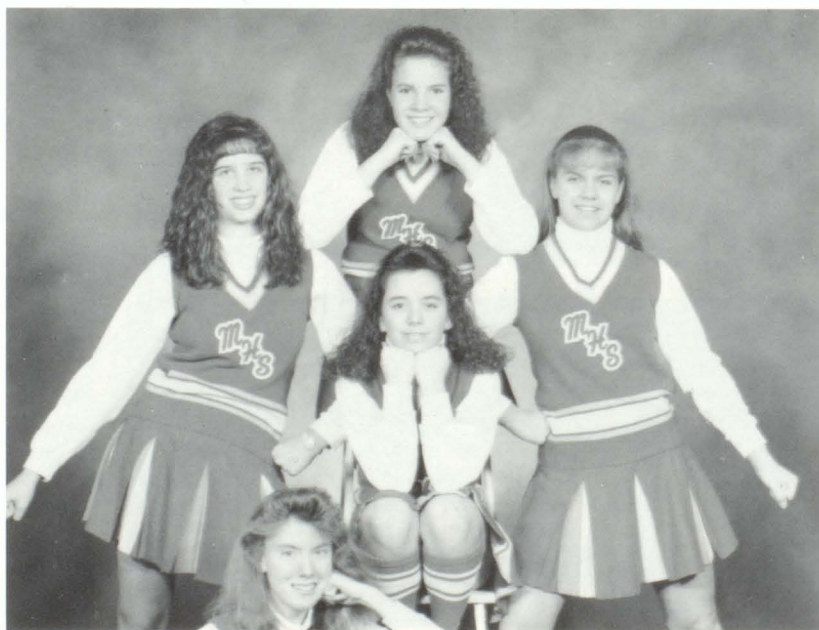

The J.V. and Freshman cheerleaders did a great job spreading enthusiasm and spirit at pep assemblies and throughout the whole school!

After a Difficult Season . . .

Boy's Varsity BB on the Rebound!

It's the championship game for the boys' basketball team. It is a tie score, and John Smith is at the free throw line with two seconds remaining. If he makes this one foul shot, the boys will receive the championship title. John works on his form, trying to sink the one-pointer. While the fans are cheering him on, he takes the shot and misses. But before the Blue Streak fans lose their faith in him, John Miller rebounds the shot and slams it for two. The final score is 72-74. The boys manage to take home a victory! Can you picture that? This thought is close in mind with the basketball team. Even though they did not have a tremendously successful season, the boys still received many things they will carry through their lives. They learned the true meaning of sportsmanship and friendship among fellow players and also picked up some very valuable skills to help in their basketball careers. One example is that in the summer, the boys had the opportunity to participate in the Phil Hubbard basketball camp. While there, they played and were also coached by some well-known players, including members of the Cavs. Throughout the season, they learned that no matter how bad the situation looks, one must always play his hardest and give it his all. Their record wasn't very outstanding, but the losses they gained were within a very close margin. With the help of Mr. Smith's three managers, Renee Meier, Jenny Denmeade, and Jenny Hupertz, he was able to keep a positive outlook for the team. He stated, "I am very pleased with my players' efforts. They never gave up, even after a losing season." Throughout a member's career in basketball, one learns that the friends one makes through participating in a sport is a valuable asset in one's lifetime.

Fresh., and J.V. Dribble Into New Season

Hard Work, Determination: Keys to Success.

The J.V. team started the season with high expectations. Their coach, Mr. Bob Peterlin, pushed the team hard in order to prepare for the upcoming season. Even though the season was depressing, the team spirit carried them through. With a 2-16 record overall, the team learned many valuable lessons involving the game which will carry on with them for their school career. However, a key factor to the slow season would be attributed to the loss of two essential forwards, Brian Messenger and Dan Knight, who moved up to play Varsity.

"It has been a long but enjoyable season." — Joe Dose

The Freshman Team outlived the stereotype of being inexperienced because of their age. With a 10-7 overall record, it was obvious they did something right. With the experience of Coach Steve Baldwin, the team earned the best record of all the teams in the boys' basketball program. The future of Madison's program has a great outlook with such fine players as the Freshmen.

Girls Enjoy Success Streaks Breaking Streaks!

Feelings of tension and anxiety go through the minds of the fans and the players as they look at the scoreboard . . . Madison 41, Jefferson 40. With both coaches instructing their teams on the sidelines and the cheering in the stands, the clock showed 7 seconds left and the possession arrow pointing Jefferson's way. As Madison breaks from the huddle, the 5 girls jog onto the court thinking only, STEAL! The whistle blows and 2 seconds later, all that is heard is the sound of an enthusiastic Madison section, and the reason for that was a steal by senior Becky Bangerter. That not only ended the game, but also terminated Jefferson's 54-game winning streak. It was a very exciting and special moment in the girls' basketball program, especially to the seniors who finally beat Jefferson for the first time in their 2 to 3 years on Varsity. Senior Becky Bangerter commented, "Although we had some difficulties, we finally reached our goal by defeating Jefferson."

Beating Jefferson and doing as well as they did this season weren't just a stroke of luck. It was 5 to 6 months of hard work and dedication and most of all, teamwork. With a group of team-leading seniors, enthusiastic juniors, hustling sophomores, and that hardworking freshman made the Blue Streaks one of the best teams, if not the best, in the North Eastern Conference.

J.V., Fresh. Girls Hoop It Up!

As the buzzer sounds, five girls dressed in blue and white make their way onto the court to play the best game of the season. This was the state-of-mind set by the J.V. and Freshman Girls' Basketball teams before every game, and it definitely paid off. Dedicated and determined are just two words that describe these two teams. They both worked extremely hard to be the best, and that helped them to succeed as well as they did. With the excellent coaching of Miss Jackie Bell and Mr. Stu Baffer, the girls came out on top.

The highlight of the J.V. season was defeating the first-place Jefferson team by 20 points. This was not only the team's greatest triumph, but it also gave the girls confidence that they could "do it." "We all had a lot of spirit and really worked as a team against Jefferson. It was our greatest accomplishment," commented Jr. Nellie Adams.

The Freshman Team was also very successful, winning over half their games and defeating tough teams like Mentor, Jefferson, and Solon. Everyone was very well-spirited, and even with little practice time, these girls always showed up with a smile on their faces and the desire to win in their hearts. Both J.V. and Freshman teams had excellent seasons and hope that next year will be just as fun.

Swimmers Take Mark

Swim Team Makes Waves

Winning isn't everything. A team's goal should also be having fun. Well, this team did both. The season was a great success for the girls who won the majority of their meets. They had another record broken in the 100 backstroke, and had fun doing it with after-meet parties sponsored by the parents of the swimmers. The boys also competed aggressively. Contributing to their performance in the water was the new coach, Mark Scheller, and Mr. Jerry McIntyre. Four of the boys broke a record in the 200 free relay, including Mike Hawes, who also broke the record in the 50 free event. Many of the swimmers went on to compete in Districts at Cleveland State University. "I was very proud of our performance this year considering the number of practice days we lost to the flu epidemic," Coach McIntyre stated.

Overall Record: 11-2-1

Picture this: One week before a critical match, each wrestler begins focusing on his opponent. He struggles to make weight by putting on hundreds of layers of clothing and running during his spare time. During a week of strenuous practice, the wrestler puts his mind and body into every new lesson learned throughout the week. As the final day of the match approaches, he steps onto the mat and prepares for a battle of strength and strategy.

Each Madison wrestler exercises this routine through every day of his season. As their matches progressed, the Streaks strove to improve and make each performance better. The Streaks finished a winning season with the ability to achieve their best. The Madison Varsity Wrestling Team consisted of Bill Connect, 103, Adam Nicoles, 112, Alex Hynd, 119, Doug Shirer, 125, Brandon Marshall, 130,

Matt Pietzak, 135, Keith Blalock, 140, Jack Whaley and Bob Darby, 145, Paul Leitert, 152, Clinton Behm, 160, Scott Montgomery, 171, Bill Eagle, 189, and heavyweight, John Hedges. Each wrestler improved his skills and learned the importance of unity. Eight of the wrestlers went to the University of Michigan for a wrestling summer camp. At the camp, the wrestlers learned new techniques that helped them during their season.

"The team has the best coaches in the N.E.C. I'm expecting to see more N.E.C. wrestling banners hanging in the gym for future years." — Paul Leitert

When asked to reflect on the season, Bill Eagle commented, "We

Climbing the ladder of Success . . . Frosh., J.V.

"We could have done better with more wrestlers" was Freshman Jason Collin's feelings about the season. However, they may have been short a few wrestlers, but they still had a winning season. They beat both Riverside and Perry and placed second at the Geneva tournament and the Cleveland Heights tournament. All athletes sometimes tend to lean toward unrealistic goals. Although the Freshmen "could have done better," they worked hard throughout the season and did a job anyone could and should be proud of.

The J.V. team is also a team that Madison can take pride in. They had an overall winning season by winning seven games, tying one game, and losing only one game. They also did an outstanding job in the Cleveland Heights tournament. Out of the 18 teams present, Madison placed second. The team had many people place in the top three and had five first-place finishers. They were: at 145, Jack Whaley; at 130, John Krauss; at 125, Tom Conant; at 140,

D. J. Spring; and at 152, Wayne Blalock. Both the Freshman and J.V. teams had tremendous seasons that they can all be proud of.

Barbara Bush was constantly in the public eye as the wife of the President of the United States. But in quieter times, the 66-year-old grandmother says she yearns for the day when she and the president can spend more time doing "selfish things" with one another and their grandchildren. However, for now she is content to be the First Lady of the United States.

Boris Yeltsin:
The coup in the Soviet Union began on August 19, 1991. An eight-man committee led by Vice President Gennady Yanayev took power from President Mikhail S. Gorbachev. Gorbachev was supposedly on vacation, or, as Yanayev said, he was ill when the event took place. Russian President Boris Yeltsin called on Russians to resist the coup. Tanks and other military gear moved into Moscow. After much resistance on both the home-front and from other countries, the new eight-man gov't. failed and fled from Moscow. Gorbachev finally returned, but with the realization that communism could no longer exist. The coup may have ended communist rule in the Soviet Union, but it began a series of reforms and changes that will continue for years to come.

During the war in Iraq, Saddam Hussein's forces ignited hundreds of oil wells in Kuwait. Smoke belched from the torched wells for many months afterwards. Satellite photos showed a black-grey plume swept south from Kuwait as far as the Arabian Sea — equal to the distance from Manhattan to the tip of Florida. Meanwhile, the invasion of Iraq caused destruction estimated to be in the hundreds of millions of dollars. Months after the American military forces freed Kuwait City, the effects of the war were still evident.

When Gorbachev seemed to have disappeared from Moscow, the government sent tanks to protect the government offices from the coup attempt, which wasn't successful. On August 21st, he returned and regained his power. In this picture, an anti-coup tank awaits orders.

As the school year began, Guns N' Roses' new album, "Use Your Illusion," hit the stores. The two-album set sold a million in no time. It was the group's first album in three years and, from what the critics said, it was worth waiting for. It hit the top of the charts the first week out.

Forty-three year old Clarence Thomas grew up poor, Black and Democratic in Pinpoint, Georgia, but later switched parties and became a controversial symbol of Black conservatism.

"Only in America," Thomas said after President Bush announced his nomination as the second Black justice on the Supreme Court. Thomas will succeed Thurgood Marshall who has retired.

Prior to Thomas' nomination to the Supreme Court, he served as an assistant to Sen. John Danforth, seven years as chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and a judge of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

In addition to the controversy of Thomas' legal views, a charge of sexual harassment was brought against him by law professor Anita Hill. Thomas vehemently denied the allegations and said, "This is Kafkaesque. Enough is enough."

After much debate over who was right and who was wrong — Clarence Thomas, Anita Hill, the system itself — the United States Senate voted to confirm him.

On October 18, 1991, Clarence Thomas became the 106th United States Supreme Court Justice.

The Key That Fits

Key Club unlocked their doors to an abundance of new and creative ideas and activities. Some of Key Club's annual activities included putting together the Halloween Party and Thanksgiving Food Baskets. They started some new projects that brought about a new sense of spirit to the school, such as a Recycling Program and the # Girls', Boys' State . . .

The Inside Issues

Attending Boys' State this summer were Seniors, Chris Brown, Chip Pennoyer, Paul Posta, and Paul Lietert. These Seniors learned how the State Government is run, and they learned of the jobs and duties of each individual government official. Throughout State, they also met a lot of fun and interesting people. "Boys' State taught me a lot about state governments, but more importantly it taught me how to interact with other people," said Chris Brown.

Girls' State held at Ashland University was also a great learning experience for Seniors Dawn Crjnak and Tracey Albert. They worked with about twelve-hundred other students to form a mock state government. "Besides learning about the functions of a state government, I met a lot of lifetime friends," said Tracey Albert.

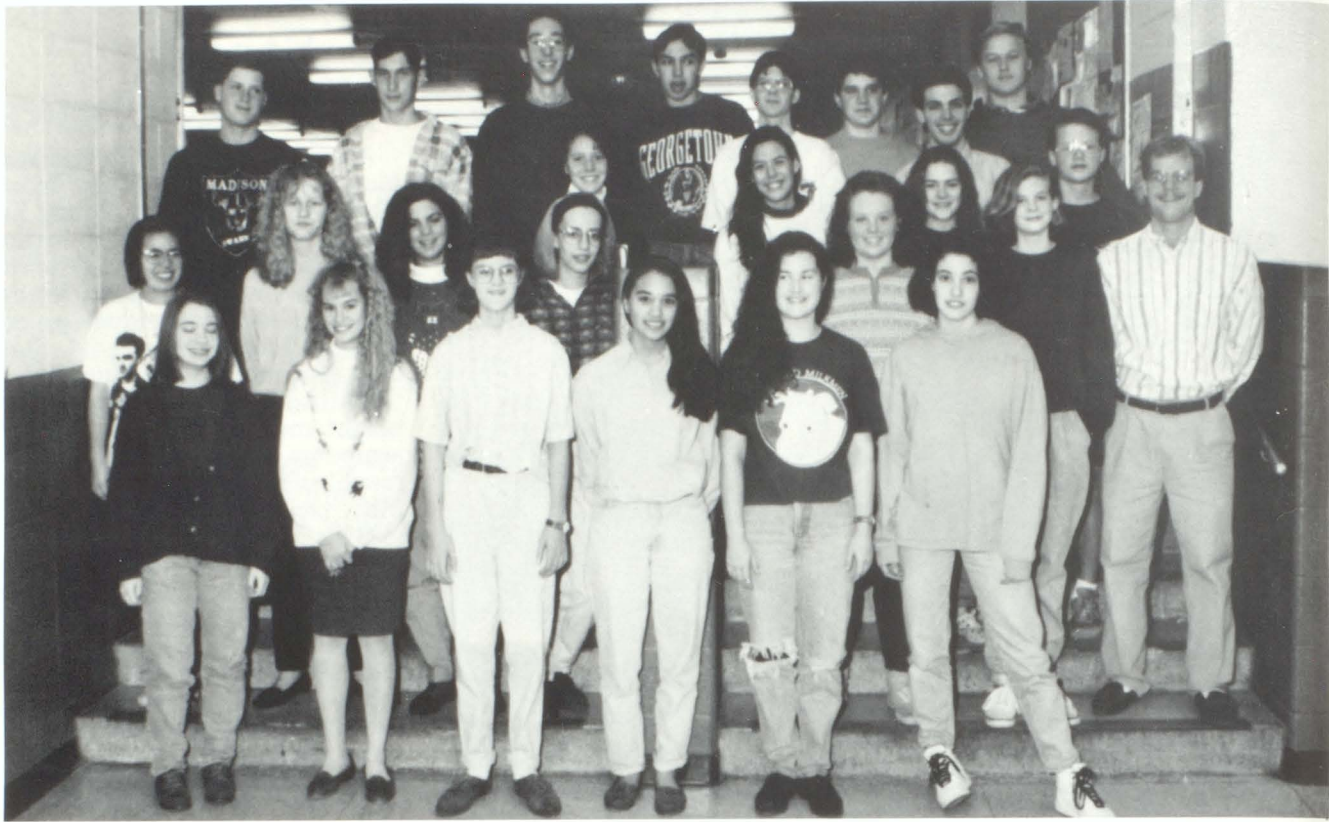

Students attending Girls' State were Dawn Crjnak and Tracey Albert.

Meeting new countries

With various activities in mind, the Model United Nations met every Tuesday at 3:00 P.M. in the conference at Mackenzie Library. The twenty-nine members of the Model U.N. worked hard all year preparing for the many different conferences. The students traveled to Kent State Ashtabula Campus, Niagara Falls, New York City, and Youngstown State University for the different conferences. During the conferences, the students debated about many different world problems. Each student was assigned a different country and had to try and solve the different problems concerning that particular country. Each student had to research his or her own country and know all the different aspects of the country. For instance, during her sophomore year, Robyn Hamaguchi was assigned Finland and had to research and know everything about that country. The members of Model U.N. all worked extremely hard and deserved all the different honors they earned.

Let's See That school spirit

The Student Council has been working on many projects to promote school activities. Some projects that the Student Council came out very successful in were the United Way fundraiser, spirit week, and various pep assemblies. In charge of student council was Mr. Mike Smith. As the year went by, the seventy-two members of student council completed their projects and reached many of their goals. They started a new tradition of having a homecoming parade in which not only student council participated, but many organizations made their own unique float. They also decided to keep the Mistletoe Ball and make it better than ever. The format of the student council also changed. There were still the main officers, but there were also two elected representatives, and they appointed more representatives from the student body. This new format allowed more representation from the school.

“Although the beginning of the year started out slowly, as we progressed the student council reached many of its goals.”

Earning Credit . . . Preparing for the Future

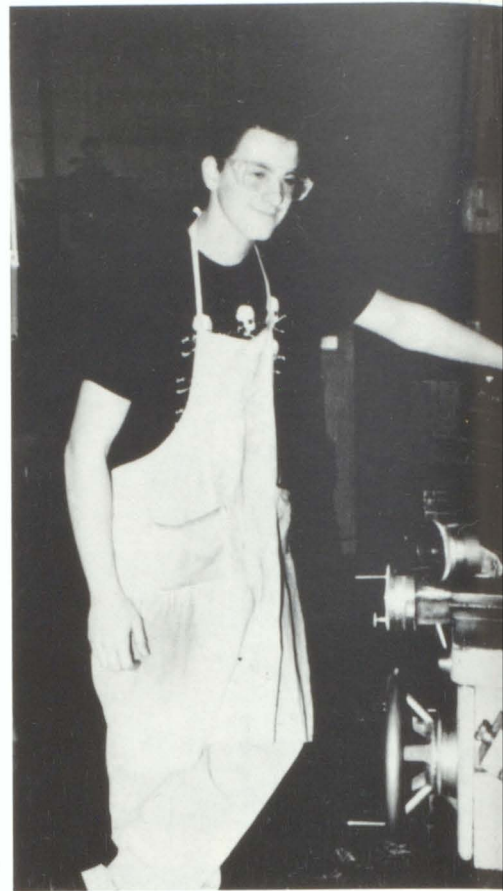

Auburn Career Center students were offered a challenge in unique occupations this year. Eighteen different courses were available, ranging from electronic and mechanical work to horticulture and landscaping.

Madison students that attended Auburn had a great opportunity to prepare for their future. While taking regular school courses at Madison, the students then traveled to the Center for half a day, where they actually got a chance to do what they were really interested in.

Vo-Ed is a practical learning experience.

For their courses, they received 3 high school credits, and upon graduation, two-year students were eligible to receive the Ohio's Vocational Skills Certificate, which looked great on resumes.

Happy on the job, John Simcek works at his Machine Trades.

Always something to do! Lonnie Green works on his Math homework, which is taught to all the students at Auburn.

Terry Edwards (OWE) — "It got me a job at Madison Electric Products and I can go to contests in Columbus."

Becky Kloco (Graphic Communications) — "It is a great learning process which allows me to eventually get a good job. I like working with the computers."

Jim Jarvis (Culinary Arts) — "I get to help operate a restaurant and someday I plan to open my own. It was fun to learn all the knife skills, too!"

The Club Behind . . .

The Show

Has anybody ever wondered what the business club actually is? Many people assume that it simply consists of a few people that sit around and do nothing. However, that is far from reality. The business club, which consists mostly of girls from IOE, accomplishes many things that most people take for granted. For instance, has anyone ever questioned where the programs for swimming, the NEC wrestling meet, or the sectional basketball tournament come from? Well, the hard working girls of the business club typed up those programs. What about the Homecoming tickets? They didn’t just pop out of thin air. Some people had to put a lot of time and energy into typing them out. This again was a job for the business club. They also typed up the prom memory book so everyone could enjoy the memories of Prom. Although socially the business club put on an Easter and Christmas party, they were primarily a service club and deserve a lot of credit and recognition for all their hard work.

(Top) Are we having fun yet? Seniors Stephanie Kilty, Kelly Mazeika, Andrea Watts and Renay Kolat put a strong effort into completing their work. (Middle) With a little Christmas cheer behind them, Seniors Andrea Watts and Amy Rose work merrily on their assignments. Two is always better than one; Seniors Joanne Roposh and Diane Lawrence work together to finish their work quickly.

After all the twists, turns and tensions, the closest of World Series ended in the closest of games.

The Minnesota Twins and Jack Morris squeezed past the Atlanta Braves 1-0 on pinch-hitter Gene Larkin's single in the bottom of the 10th inning on October 27, 1991, to win Game 7 and end baseball's most dramatic odyssey.

Never before had three Series games gone into extra innings, and the Braves and Twins saved the best for last, matching zero for zero, pressure pitch for pitch, even turning back bases loaded threats in the same inning.

"Someone had to go home a loser, but there is no loser in my mind," Morris said. "Those are two of the greatest teams. Somehow, we found a way to win this thing."

On July 11, 1991, the moon slipped over the sun in the celestial ceremony of the eclipse, turning day into night for thousands of viewers and scientists.

About 500 astronomers and tens of thousands of tourists came to see the moon line up between the sun and Earth and plunge into darkness a 160-mile-wide swath stretching from Hawaii to Mexico, Baja Peninsula, central and southern Mexico, Central America, Colombia and Brazil.

One after another, spectators around the mountain top astronomy observatory in Hawaii exclaimed, "Oh, my God!" as the sky went dark. This was the first time an eclipse path of totality passed over a major observatory, scientists said.

One objective of the scientists was to learn more about why the sun's corona is about 3 million degrees Fahrenheit, while the sun's surface is only 10,000 degrees. Other experiments involved taking photos through the sun's atmosphere and watching the effect on Earth's atmosphere by the swift passage of the moon's shadow.

A sealed structure of steel and glass will be "home" for two years to four men and four women. The structure, called Biosphere 2, is about the size of 2½ football fields and contains all necessities of life. For two years, nothing will be introduced from the outside. In addition to eight humans, Biosphere 2 houses 3,800 species of animals and plants and five ecosystems.

This $100 million project has taken seven years to put together and hopes to be the model for other self-sufficient environments. Planets other than Earth (Biosphere 1) may one day be the base for similar structures.

Much skepticism has been expressed by the scientific community, however. Many scientists seem to feel this experiment a ridiculous sham, designed to draw spectators who will spend around $10 just to view the sphere and spend even more in the gift shop.

Both participants and backers of the Biosphere 2 maintain that the project will provide significant data.

Life has not been the same for law professor Anita Hill since going public with allegations that Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas sexually harassed her nearly a decade ago.

Hill was valedictorian of her high school in 1973 and went on to Oklahoma State University as a National Merit Scholar, graduating in 1977 with a degree in Psychology. From there, she went to Yale University to receive a law degree in 1980.

Although Thomas was confirmed, professor Hill insisted that by letting her story be known, she had accomplished everything she set out to do.

"All that's happened has made the general public much more aware of sexual harassment than ever before," said Hill.

She offered one piece of advice to victims of sexual harassment. "Try to find somebody you can trust and tell them," she said. "Try to find somebody who can help make you feel that you are not at fault. Find someone you can trust because you can't take it all out on yourself, you can't internalize it."

South African President F. W. de Klerk tried to move his country closer to the United States and other western nations by loosening his tough stand on apartheid, a form of segregation. President Bush lifted some economic sanctions, and the International Olympic Committee ended a 21-year ban on South African participation in Olympic competition. These actions went a long way toward ending the international isolation of South Africa.

SPIRIT WEEK

Day 1: Video Day/Decoration Day

Students could have been videotaped in the cafeteria. Various prizes were given for funniest, most creative, and unusual acts. Students also decorated the halls. Each hall represented a different class.

Day 2: Class Theme Day

Each class had a particular theme. Students who participated were elected spirit points.

Day 3: Auction Day

In the morning, members of key club were auctioned for service. The student wore a sign indicating whom she/he belonged to.

Day 4: School Color Day

Blue/White day, or team shirt. Once again, students were elected spirit points.

Day 5: Calm Before the Storm

Color ribbons were passed out during first period. Students had to wear them. If talking was heard in the halls, a student may take a ribbon from another class. Last, there was a seventh-period assembly.

A picture can't speak even one word,
But these images wherein portray
Faces and events newly occurred
But forgotten as time passes away.
Compiled with care that we might recollect

These moments captured in silent time,
The scenes will stay in inert effect
To display the sparse to the truly sublime.

For some an end to toil and task,
For others an embarkment on a journey,
This representation is made to last
As long as our devoted memory.
Though soon, we will change and move away

Our lives are entrapped within to stay.

Making the Grade

Seniors Achieve High G.P.A.

are just a few examples of succeeding in having a good G.P.A.

Every year, students study hard to earn good grades for the future. Why do they do this? Students work hard at achieving a high G.P.A. for the benefit of entering a good college and earning scholarships. Jenny McIntyre, Valedictorian, and Chris Brown, Salutatorian, are top achievers of the Class of 1992. All students with high G.P.A.'s guide the way for other students and set good examples.

Senior Danielle Fidanza commented, “I’ve always expected a lot of myself, and I was never trying to compete with other students. I was only trying to better myself.”

Senior Becky Bangerter also commented, “I never really thought about getting good grades. I just worked hard at whatever I was doing.”

... to meet your goals

In order to maintain a 3.0 or above, a student must have the determination and hard working skills it takes to make the grade. A majority of these students also take very difficult courses, a fact which makes it possible to get over a 4.0.

All these students display unique characteristics which make them stand out. They are hard working, determined, and work to meet their goals. Every student has the elements he or she needs to become successful. If one tries his hardest, he can maintain a high grade point average. Many times, these students do not get recognized enough. In the end, however, the students get recognized by their success.

What Character!

National Honor Society Has Class

Picture this: The Madison Lecture Hall lit only by the light from a flaming torch while observers sit patiently as the leader conducts the ceremony. A cult gathering you ask? Hardly! This scene was from the annual induction ceremony for National Honor Society. More formal than the "tap-in" at the school assembly, the night service is an official and formal affair to initiate new members.

On March 5, 1992, 29 new members were inducted into the National Honor Society. Although any Junior or Senior with a 3.2 accumulative can apply, acceptance into this elite group is based on more than just grades. A panel of teachers judge candidates on these four standards: Character, scholarship, leadership, and service.

Senior member Leah Suttman commented, "Last year and this year, I've seen many well-rounded individuals pass through National Honor Society, a group which I am proud to be a part of."

It's a group which I am proud to be a part of.

More than just an honor, N.H.S. members kept busy throughout the year. Numerous fund raisers like "Rent A Brain" and the Senior/Faculty game were held in order to raise money for NHS functions. The members were also available to tutor other students during their study halls. Senior Dawn Crnjak said, "I'm glad I can help other students. It makes me actually believe I know something." The students also held their annual Teacher Appreciation Day and served the MHS teachers lunch.

National Honor Society members are members for life. It is one of the highest honors one can receive in high school, and members are expected to live up to the high expectations set by NHS.

Now hear this ... Seniors Tracey Albert and Alysia Evans deliver their speech on CHARACTER for the N.H.S. "Tap-In" assembly (Right).

Right this way! Senior Tonya Steyer directs Monica Leone, a newly tapped N.H.S. member, to her seat.

Senior Terri De-poy — Although I didn't make it my Junior year, I'm glad I persevered and tried this year because NHS does a lot and I've had a lot of fun.

Junior Sean Crawford — I hope to maintain the success of the group next year by increasing the prestigious quality of the club.

Senior Amy Gabor — Members of National Honor Society place more emphasis on their school work, but still have time for extracurricular activities.

Can you all hear me? Seniors Dawn Crnjak and Jennifer McIntyre present their speech on SCHOLARSHIP.

Prom Draws Many . . .

La Malfa entertains for Prom

As people began arriving at La Malfa Party Center, excitement filled inside of them. The prom court added nervousness to the mood. The girls chosen were Wendi Price, Chrissy Pisek, Kate Fedele, Sue Thompson, and Jackie Nestor. The classmates chose Kevin Zilke, Chris Stewart, Clint Behm, Bill Eagle, and Doug Shirer for the boys. But that tension was broken within seconds when Kevin Zilke and Wendi Price were chosen as the Prom King and Queen.

The dinner that was served added to the evening. Most everyone enjoyed their meal. Bryan Black commented, "The food was a lot better than last year."

“The food was a lot better than last year.”

The next day, most of the students ventured to Cedar Point. The day was interrupted by a downpour, and the students waited in anticipation for it to stop. It finally cleared up, and everyone went back to having fun. The weekend turned out to be a memorable one for the Seniors and all the other students who were able to experience Prom.

“Prom was really fun. I liked to see everyone dressed up, and I hope the seniors enjoyed it.”

Q. How long have you been in gymnastics?

A. Ten years.

Q. Where do you take lessons?

A. Lake Erie gymnastics, or LEGS.

Q. How was it possible that you were able to compete as a student representing MHS?

A. I just had to have it approved by the board.

Q. What were the steps that led up to the state meet?

A. I had four high school meets. Normally, there are twenty. One of the meets was a regular high school meet, one was sectionals, one was districts, and one was state.

Q. What was your first reaction when you found out you made it to state?

A. I was just happy I made it.

Q. What plans do you have for your future in Gymnastics?

A. I want to major in Physical education and either be a coach or a judge.

Madison High's . . .

Superstars and superclubs

Superstars is definitely the right word for the academic team, Laura Engelis, and Mr. Haibach. All of these people have worked hard and have achieved very prestigious goals. The Academic Challenge team defeated the two other teams that they were up against. They almost qualified for the superbowl but missed the chance by one question value. The team had practiced once a week for a couple months, and different teachers helped them out by quizzing them in different areas. Mr. Haibach is another superstar who worked with many students throughout the school system. He worked in prevention for grades K-12. He helped set up curriculum and helped with classroom work. He also worked with TI, S.A.D.D., and "Just Say No." He also did prevention groups like the straight groups and Concerned Persons groups. Another area he worked in was intervention. In this area, he actually did referrals on students who may have had problems with drugs or alcohol. He had insight groups, one on one preassessment, and he would refer if there was a problem. He also did support activities in which he worked with students coming back from treatment or AA. He did crisis intervention which had to do with emotional problems. If there was a problem, then he would refer out of the school. He did not do any treatment. There was also grant writing for drug-free schools. The school would receive money and/or teacher training. He also did networking. From this, he received information for teachers about workshops from county, state, or national.

Laura Engelis was another superstar of Madison. She has been involved in Gymnastics for most of her life and was able to achieve goals most people only dream about.

Superclubs are also how the language clubs should be known. The two language clubs, French and German, did many things for the school and for the students involved in the clubs. The German Club went on an ice skating trip, they hosted the many exchange students, had meetings every month, went to the art museum, went to the Hofbrau Haus, visited an Amish village and sold candy throughout the school year. The officers were the president Julie Heck, Vice President Joanne Miller, Secretary-Treasurer Lynn Auld, and chairmen Dave Staffiera and Michelle Woodworth. These officers did a tremendous job in the planning of the many meetings and trips that the German club took. The French club also sponsored a lot of events throughout the year. They went ice skating along with the German club, they sponsored a dance, sold candygrams, and put on a dinner for all the members of the club. The officers were Eric Borts, president, Heather Hoffman, Vice President, and Shanelle Mann, secretary-treasurer. These officers also did a very nice job with the planning of the many events they had, but as Eric Borts said, "It's too bad that not a lot of people joined French club." Next year, if more people do join, then the French club should be even better.

"It's too bad that not a lot of people joined French club."

M.H.S. Drama . . .

Insanity, Error, and Belief?

Is Mary Girard really insane? That was the question posed to the audience in Lanie Robertson's play, The Insanity of Mary Girard. Senior Tracy Albert assumed the role of Mary Girard, who was put into an asylum by her husband when he discovered she was pregnant with another man's child, although he himself had been sleeping with their maid. Upon her entrance into the asylum, Mary was quite normal, but through endless torments of the Five Furies, she eventually became convinced that yes, she truly was insane.

The Oyster and the Pearl, produced by William Saroyan, taught the lesson that one must never stop believing. Clay, played by Chris Schultz, found an oyster on the beach one day. He hoped and hoped that it would contain a pearl. A writer passing through town bought the oyster from Clay, having faith that it would contain a pearl. Clay believed the money he received from selling the oyster would help him to bring his father back home again. Belief brought his family back together again.

The Spring Play put on at Madison was a comedy of errors. Play On, produced by Rick Abbott, proved that whatever can possibly go wrong, will go wrong. The actors would forget lines, the phone would ring at the wrong time, the writer would try to make changes in the script the night before the opening night. All in all, it was a pretty funny situation.

Plays like these emphasized to the viewers all of the hard effort that went into them. In order for the plays to have been a success, the actors had to give up a lot of time and become the characters they were portraying. Mr. Spohler quoted, "Each play got essentially better. Madison has a lot of talent. I hope to improve what we already have. We need to build theatrical tradition. I'm looking forward to next year."

The Insanity of Mary Girard starring: Meghan Crawford as Mrs. Hatcher; Eric Borts as Mr. Phillips; Scott Drury as Mr. Girard; Heather Cool as Polly; Rich Balint as the warder; Tracy Albert as Mary Girard; Erica Alvord as a fury; Tracy Arcaro as a fury; Amy Gabor as a fury; Karen Hart as a fury; Andrea Balint as a fury.

"I really enjoyed working with all the people. With all the hard work that must be put into a play, you start to make a lot of new friends and become a big family. I'm going to miss all the people and all the good times." — Scott Cole, Senior

"A lot of people don't realize how difficult putting on a play is, but it's a lot of hard work and also a lot of fun. We all worked together and pulled it off." — Jenna Ferenz, Senior

"Drama Club at Madison High has given me a good education in the theatre and I hope that it will help me further my career in acting as my life continues." — Amy Gabor, Senior

"I really enjoyed being in the play this year. It was a lot of fun and hard work. I also enjoyed working with the Spohlers." — Chris Matty, Senior

Boys' Varsity Track Team Reaches New Heights.

It all started in January. The halls of the school were filled with runners perfecting their form, hurdlers jumping hurdles, and shot and disk people practicing their throws. Oftentimes, a passer-by could see the boys running around campus, braving the freezing cold snow. As the weather permitted, the team could be found perfecting their track and field events up at the home track. The season began with victories over such teams as Geneva, Edgewood, Harbor, Jefferson, and St. John. Riverside, Conneaut, and Harvey all had very powerful teams, as usual, and the boys competed quite well considering the competition. A key factor this year seemed to be the experience of our Seniors. Their spectacular abilities in sprints, hurdles, pole vault, and field have helped carry the team through tough meets. These talents have given the team more spirit and desire on the track to win. Hopefully, this boost of spirit will carry on through the future of Madison Boys' Track Team.

Making Tracks . . .

Girls race through anoher season!

Runners, on your mark! The six girls crouched down into their starting blocks as a hush fell over the crowd . . . Set! Adrenaline running through their bodies, the girls took the ready position and stood motionless for what seemed like an eternity . . . BANG!!! The starting gun fired, setting the girls loose on a 200-meter dash with cheers from friends and family to drive them on. This scene, typical of a girls' track meet, only begins to show the immense efforts and competitiveness of the Madison girls' track team! Beginning in winter and pre-season conditioning, many members lifted weights and did various drills to build strength for the upcoming season. At length, official track practice began under the guidance of Coach Scott Spohler. Throwers, sprinters, and distance runners alike endured vigorous training to improve technique and speed. Finally, in April, all the effort and preparation came to the test as the girls encountered over a dozen meets, including such competitive events as Solon and Rebel Relays. Overall, the girls' track team has much to be proud of, such as outstanding personal records and achievements. As junior Julie Heck stated, "Our record may not show it, but there's a lot of talent on this team!" Girls' track will miss this year's seven seniors, but the team has much to look forward to and strive for in the years to come!

When the going gets tough . . .

V Baseball gives it their best

As the season comes to a close, the Varsity Baseball Team says good-bye to a long season, and most of the Seniors say good-bye to their baseball careers. Even though the team may not have done as well as they had planned to, they worked hard and tried their best. The team (as of printing time) is 4-12 overall and 3-11 in the NEC. The team had a lot of young players, but they all tried hard and hopefully this year will help for next year's team. For Mr. Duke Dipofi, this is a new experience also. This is his first year as a V. Baseball coach, and he comments, "It was a disappointing season, but we had a lot of small victories that kept us hoping for the best. The inexperienced players meshed well with the veterans for awhile, but it was inconsistent playing." The players worked very hard as a team, and they never gave up, even when the going got tough.

Take Me Out To The Ball Game

J.V. Baseball, Softball Hard-working, Determined.

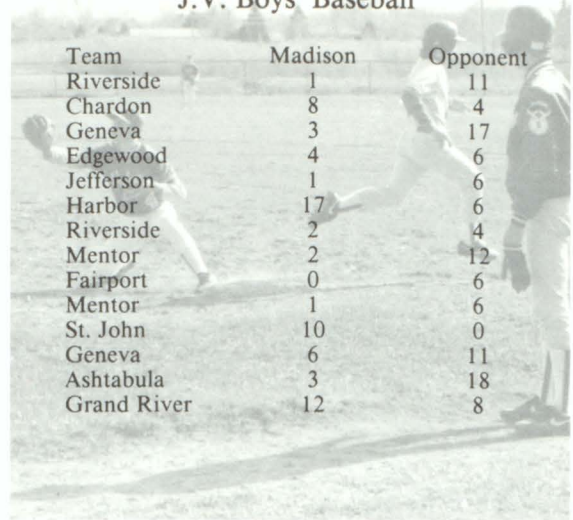

The bases are loaded with two outs. Madison's "Babe Ruth" steps up to the plate, with a run deficit of 8 to 5 and the count 0 to 2. The Madison slugger crushes the next pitch out of the ball park. Madison takes a 9 to 8 lead to win the ball game. That sums up the J.V. softball and baseball seasons. Their overall success showed through from their hard work and determination. First year boys' J.V. coach Mike Haines comments, "We're a young team with a lot of inexperience, but we're improving and having a lot of fun."

Varsity Softball Slides Into Action . . . As They Steal Home

With the return of seven lettermen, six seniors and one junior, this year's team has set an example for others to follow. The team was backed up with a strong defense which pulled them through many close games. The Lady Streaks may not have been as swift with the bats as they were with the gloves, but they never gave up. It wasn't one person but the team as a whole. The team came together with their great determination and support for each other, a fact which resulted in a winning season.

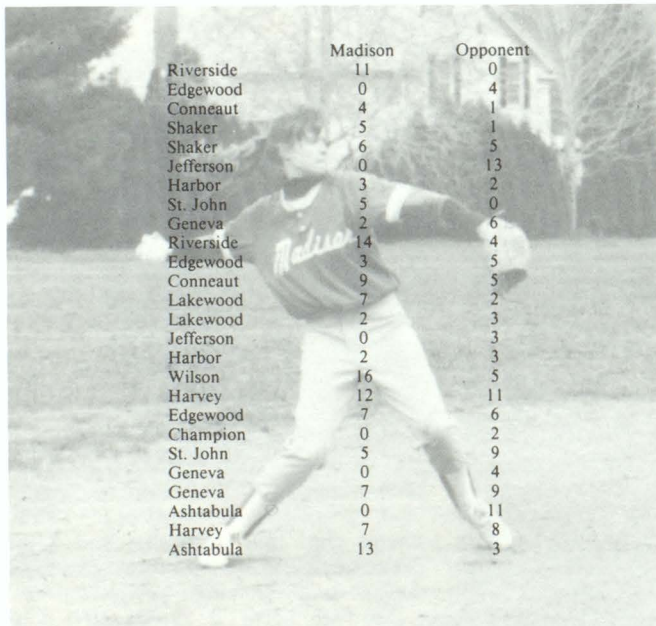

The events this year included hosting the 1992 Tournament of Champions. The Streaks beat rival team Edgewood to place second in the tournament. The 1992 Varsity softball team consisted of six seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, and three freshmen, a group with the ability and talent to defeat any challenge they came up against. The two senior captains, Wendy Palagyi and Chrissy Pisek, stood behind the team and kept their spirits high. Senior first baseman Tammy Montgomery summed up this year's season: "Our softball team really stuck it out this year, in the good times and in the bad. We could have had a better winning season, but I think everyone had a good time playing."

"We had a great season because when we got down and were behind, we never gave up."

Moving On Up . . .

The tennis team improves and builds toward the future

Swack, Ping, Ugh . . . these and many other interesting sounds are emitted from the tennis courts. The team is vigorously preparing for an upcoming match.

Under the coaching of second year coach, Mr. Mark Vidmar, the tennis team had a much improved year. This year's record of 8-9, as of May 11, was a great improvement over last year's record of 3-15. With tough, opposing, veteran teams such as Geneva and Astabula, this year's record was a tremendous accomplishment for such a young team. "Coach Vidmar has played a great role in the success of this year's team. He has encouraged the upcoming players to take lessons and to practice over the summer in order to be more competitive at the varsity level," stated Matt Schley.

Because the high school did not have any tennis courts of their own, the team traveled to tennis courts at the Outdoor YMCA for their practices and matches. Not being provided with school courts many times has proved to be a hindrance and also caused lack of support and spirit from the student body. Matt Schley commented, "Having to travel to the outdoor YMCA limited our practice time and made it harder to build on our skills." With the relative success of this year's young team, the future definitely looks bright.

"Coach Vidmar has played a great role in the success of this year's team."

Jason Caswell

"With such a young team, we're bound to improve on this year's successful record."

Scott Cole

"With all of the upcoming freshmen taking summer lessons, along with the experience of the senior players, the team has greatly improved."
