The MHS Alma Mater

Oh, Alma Mater, fair and true
Our loyalty we pledge to you,
Whose honor constant hearts uphold,
Whose friendships carry joy untold.
Our Alma Mater, fair and true,
Madison High School, White and Blue.

The royal blue's for fame uncrown'd,
The snowy white's for freedom found,
Among the Mighty Blue Streaks known
On Erie's shores and far from home.

Students Prepare to Journey Through Year

On Your Mark, Get Set, Go!

Every year a new class of students enters MHS as the old one graduates and the others move up in the ranks. Learning new facts, acquiring new skills, meeting new people, testing new freedoms, enjoying new responsibilities —the high school years are filled with “firsts” and new beginnings. Yet each individual follows hundreds of others who have spent their four years at MHS and share those experiences. Still, no matter how many students pass through these halls, each in some way makes his or her mark here!

2. Senior Jamie Lee cleans up after a first-time cooking experience in International Cuisine.

3. Arriving in their first period class, Kristina Woodruff, Amanda Rose, and Traci Brandt anxiously bring in the new year.

4. Practicing their smiles, Bart Tate, Shelley Sprague, and Cherise Thomas meet in the gym for underclass pictures.

5. The uniforms are off the racks and the band is on the field: junior Matt Cross and senior Jesse Cahill look pleased after their half-time performance.

She Said HE SAID

MHS senior girls talk about the guys:

- * They always think they are right.
- * Why do their shirts button on the opposite side?
- * They can't express their feelings.
- * They never want to ask for directions.
- * They're too proud to say they're sorry.

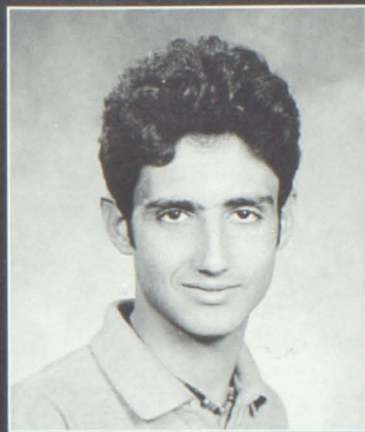

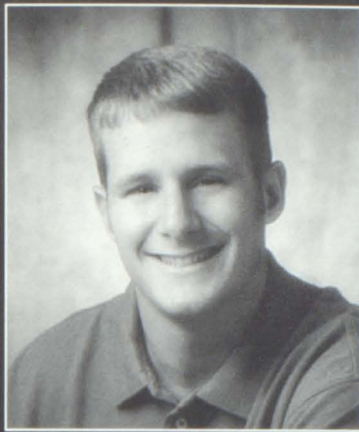

MHS guys talk about the girls:

- * They should sometimes make the first move.
- * They're too emotional.
- * Why do they try to make guys become more sensitive?
- * Why do they take so long to get ready?
- * Why do they cry over movies?

in the STARS

What exactly is "in the stars" for the Class of 1998? The senior class has faced many great times through the past four years, but they are now ready to move on and pursue their careers. Their lives will soon change forever and the path of destiny will soon be set. The lessons they have learned in the halls of MHS will inspire their actions in the future, and even though they may deny it, Madison helped mold them into young adults ready to enter into the real world. Everyone has an ideal picture of what the future will hold, but on a comical note, we asked many seniors what they will be doing in fifteen years:

- ★ "Hanging out with Monica Lewinski's little sister at the White House." — Mike Ard
- ★ "Hopefully be on a national network as a correspondent." — Joe Vargo
- ★ "I will be restlessly searching for James Cameron to produce 'Titanic, the Sequel,' while searching for my own 'Jack.'" — Leah Fike
- ★ "Pregnant with four kids and me and my Matt will live in a trailer in southern Alabama living off the government." — Brooke Smith
- ★ "I'll live in an ant farm in Guatamala." — Nikki Morgan
- ★ "I'll be the new intern for President, but this time I'll keep my mouth shut." — Michelle Bennett
- ★ "Probably living in a cardboard box in NYC still trying to make it big on Broadway." — Maija Talikka
- ★ "Living with Maija." — Bryan Humphrey
- ★ "I will be a practicing doctor or some lobbyist in Washington living off the excesses of the government." — Trevor Jenkins

While a lot of the Madison seniors spend their free time in all the ordinary ways, several members of the Class of 1998 have some more unusual pastimes. Jessica Schultz, Amanda Channels, and Michelle Perlé study dance with Mrs. Fordu. Thespians Randy Brunner, Ben Chervenak, Maija Talikka, and Dan Zielinski have starred at Rabbit Run Theater as well as in school productions. Philanthropist Nick Swartlander donates time building houses for Habitat for Humanity. Aimee Wallace and Brooke Smith volunteer their time at Lake East Hospital. Ben Archinal races cars at Thompson Speedway. Steve Woodworth hunts and Bryan Humphrey fishes. Equestrians Tonya Bukky, Megan Klug, and Emily Faulkner spend as much time as they can riding their horses. Pictured below, Bryan Humphrey, Bill Whaley, Mike Ard, Matt Fabian, Ben Archinal, Tim Noch, Stephanie Smith, Kellie Tvergyak, Nikki Morgan, and Annick Toulouse prepare for a night out at that old cult classic, "The Rocky Horror Picture Show."

THE U.S. ARMED SERVICES WANTS YOU!

A fairly large percentage of Madison graduates go on to college, either moving away from home or commuting to take some classes at Lakeland or Kent. Others dive right into the work force. Each year, however, many seniors take another route by enlisting in one of the military armed services. This year three students — Roberta Evatz, Katie Adams, and Brian Miller — began their senior year after already completing their early enlistment requirements. Many students feel that the military offers good life experiences, helps them save money for college, provides on-the-job training, and teaches them important leadership qualities that will be useful to them later.

Working for a Living

Work doesn't look all that bad for (l to r) Sara Spears, Alyssa Locke, and Leah Fike. ▼

McDonald's... Burger King... Wendy's... Taco Bell... Domino's... Longo's... Giant Eagle... what do these places have in common? They employ many Madison students. About half of the seniors at MHS head to jobs after school. Even those participating in sports and other extracurricular activities schedule some time later in the evening or on their weekends. Most work for the money and not the experience, but their reasons for working vary from having spending money to saving money for a car or for college.

Many of the luckier ones get summer jobs. For example, Beth Woodworth works at the concession stand at the outdoor YMCA. She enjoys her job, saying, "It's fun, and you meet a lot of friendly people." Nicole Kolman, who also works there as a lifeguard, agrees, claiming that while she enjoys saving lives, the guard parties are the best part of her job. Other seniors drive a lot further to work — like Alison Smith, who started working at Camelot at the Great Lakes Mall because she enjoys music and the added bonus of hearing the bands perform there. Matt Kodrin likes his job for Hydra Carpet Cleaning because it offers him "different scenery."

Seniors Ready to Make Their Mark!!

Many members of the Class of 1998 feel that the best thing about being a senior is the freedom awaiting them after graduation. The four years spent in high school have been full of memories, with many more to come. Some seniors are already worrying what to wear to their five-year reunion and what everyone will look like and be in the world. Senior class officers — president Jeremy Verdi, vice-president Mike Ard, and secretary/treasurer Nikki Morgan—had specific tasks to perform for their class — such as raising money for Homecoming and listening to the senior student body. They also tried to organize graduation and a not-so-successful "senior skip day."

As the seniors leave MHS, they will definitely be remembered for their style and responsibility. Many will go to college and others will choose the military for a way out of Madison; some might just choose to work and save money to move out on their own.

Good luck to the class of 1998, and some good advice: "Be careful."

The Junior Experience

Three Years Marked Off, One to Go!

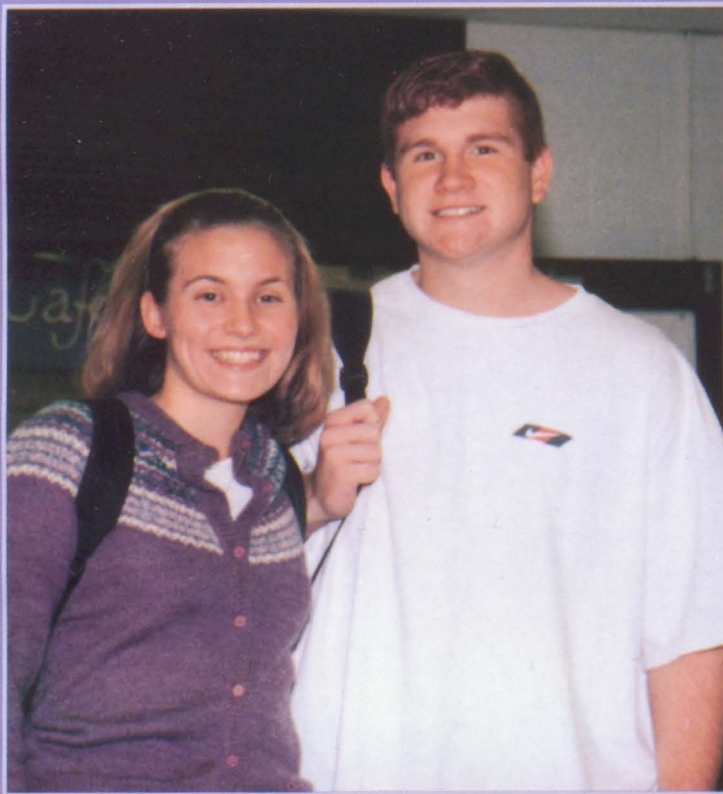

Plowing full speed ahead into the upperclassmen status, the class of 1999 only heeds the warnings of their superiors (the seniors, of course). While many different tasks lie ahead of them, the junior class still finds time to relax and have fun. "Although it is really hard, I enjoy hanging out with my friends and going to the mall!" states Katy Lyndall.

Another experience available to juniors is the ability to enhance their education at Auburn Career Center. From classes in cosmetology and hairstyling to woods and cuisine, the possibilities are endless at Auburn. "Auburn is a really exciting experience where I have the opportunity to surround myself with others who wish to pursue the same career as myself," Mike Baltus commented.

Still other juniors experienced the SAT's and the ACT's. Jamie Muscato complained, "It was the longest four hours in my life, but it will be worth it when I find out how I did." Many new classes were picked up this year by juniors. About the switch mid-year in Mr. Herrholtz's government classes, Jenny Sincek complimented Mr. Hertrick: "He is doing a great job and I am learning a lot."

Asked what he thinks of the junior year, Greg Rogers responded, "Overall, the junior experience is really hectic, out of control, and exciting."

▼ Looking innocent as ever, juniors Sarah Shook and Katie Watts stop for a candid on their way to the library.

▲ "Maybe she won't hear us talking." Juniors Heather Lavender, Matt Sample, Adam Johnson, and Eric Hoover gossip in Ms. Jackson's English class.

Marking the New Century

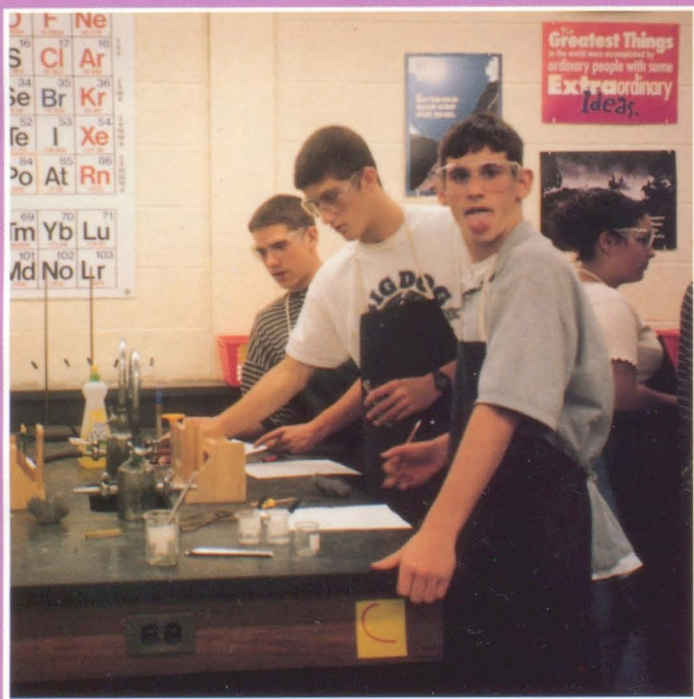

Looking Forward to the Future

What better way to compliment the sophomores than to say they are not freshmen anymore! The sophomore year is a time of exciting changes. In the blink of an eye, many are sixteen, driving around and thinking, "Wow, I'm cool." Soon that novelty will fade, as it has for the rest of the upperclassmen, as they take on new responsibilities: getting to school on time, driving to school events and to work, paying for car insurance, applying to colleges — the list goes on.

For the majority of the class of "00," school will continue to get better, and their junior year will go by just as quickly. Before long, they will be the upperclassmen, top dogs, kings and queens of the school, and have their own turn to make and break the rules. Hopefully they will learn from today's upperclassmen, make the most of each day now, and create great memories for the future before it's time for them to start planning their own graduation parties!

Freshmen Leave Their Mark Class of 2001 Move On

The class of 2001 dealt with many different changes throughout their first year at MHS. Surviving the transition from middle school to high school, the freshmen adjusted well to their new surroundings. Many students believed that meeting a lot of different people is a good experience, even if some upper classmen pick on them.

Extra-curricular activities play an important role in helping the freshmen feel accepted because they become more involved in school life, make new friends, and meet more of the teachers. The usual problems and worries freshmen face were noticed by Tracy Preston, who commented, "Besides being a little intimidated by older students and the school being overcrowded, my first year at MHS was exciting. Next year will be easier with a year of experience behind us."

Making Memories

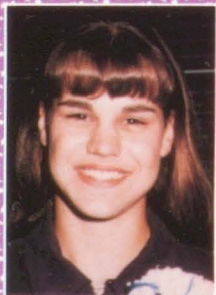

Homecoming 1997

And the 1997 Homecoming Queen is... Amy Masitto! Cheers rang throughout the stadium as the announcement sounded. The remaining court members closed around Amy and gave her a congratulatory hug. As member of the Homecoming court, Amy and the rest of the couples had to put on skits to urge students to vote for them. Their performances included rap song-and-dance numbers, a game show, and a Saturday Night Live parody. Later that night, besides Amy winning the crown, the Blue Streak football team played a great game against visiting Geneva. Despite a tough Madison loss (0 to 24), Madison students were back in good spirits by the time they returned to the high school the next evening. There the king, Jory Dille, was crowned along with Amy at the dance. Everyone partied and danced the night away to the great decorations for the Mardi Gras theme.

SPORTS

Making Each Yard Count

Madison Varsity Football 1997

Armed with a spirit of determination, unity, and heart the Madison Varsity football team completed their season with a record of 6-4. No scoreboard could reflect the hard work that was put forth throughout the season. Starting with hot morning workouts in the summer and ending on cold and rainy fall nights, the boys faced their enemies and never lost their desire to be competitive during the worst parts of the game and ended up second in the league. With only 5 seniors, this year's team was young in age but not in experience. Coach Bortnick commented, "It was truly a rebuilding year, but the team was extremely competitive."

Next season the football team will play in a new conference. Called the Premier Conference, it will consist of North, South, Riverside and Chardon. "It will offer new opponents and a new challenge to the players," said Coach Bortnick. "All in all, the team had a lot of potential, they just needed to use it. Next year the team will be stronger, more experienced, and the season will be victorious."

MHS Marks New Territory on the Field

JV and Freshmen Teams Build Skills

The Blue Streak JV and freshmen football teams had a bone-crunching season with winning records for the freshmen (6-2) and JV (3-1). The hard work-outs from dusk til dawn really paid off. Helping buff up our players were JV coaches Tom Hernan and John Dragas, and freshmen coaches Gary Fortuna and Vince Bals. Their long summer practices and cool, crisp nights on the field all show that with hard work and determination, anything is possible.

Madison lead the season with top scorers, such as sophomores Mike Evatz and Jeremy Hehmeyer. Freshmen top scorers included Ken Desmond and Dave Tvergyak. Coach Dragas feels the JV team had a great season and if they work together and stick with it, they will go far. Coach Hernan added, "The JV team, compile of sophomore and junior classes, did very well considering many of the sophomore and junior players were starting varsity, depleting them of many their best players." Coach Bals concluded, "We had a great group of kids with a lot of ability and if they work hard and stay together as a class, they will be very successful in the future."

More New Additions for Cheerleaders

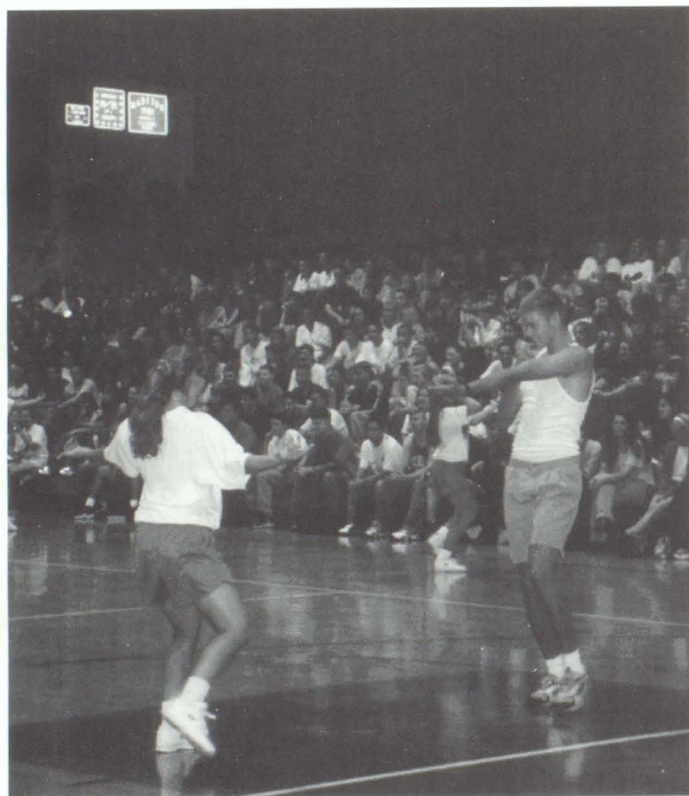

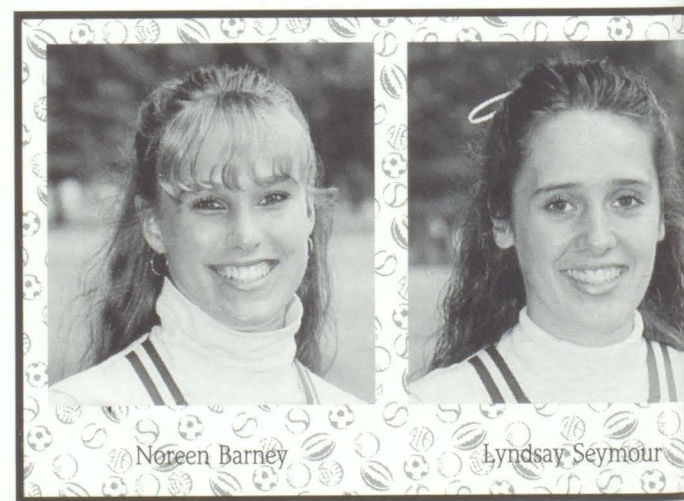

This year MHS received two new additions to their coaching staff when. Mrs. Tona Humphrey and Mrs. Chris Tobul decided to become the new advisors last year when they heard that the position was opening up. Like any other team, cheerleaders practice all summer long. This year the Eastern Cheer and Dance Association came to the high school and held a summer camp for all the cheerleaders. "It was a great experience for our squads," said captains Lyndsay Seymour and Noreen Barney.

The football squad worked closely with both the JV and the freshmen squads this year. All three squads participated in a car wash and also held a camp at the middle school for ninety-one future cheerleaders. There, the girls learned a routine and a cheer which they will perform at one of Madison's varsity basketball games. All of these fundraisers were done in order to help pay for new warm-ups this season. Lyndsay Seymour summed up her final year on the squad: "This season all the cheerleaders got along great. We all helped out one another and united as a team. I'm glad that I ended my senior year with a hard-working, outgoing, enthusiastic bunch of girls. You girls are all GREAT!"

Marking Their Spirit

JV & Freshman Cheerleaders

The JV squads had a great season although they didn't have a lot of games. First year coaches Mrs. Humphery and Mrs. Tobul had a lot of great ideas. For a strong beginning, they managed to get up everyday over the summer so the cheerleaders could practice. They also managed to get new uniforms for the cheerleaders. Jessica Cummings, co-captain of the sophomore cheerleading squad, commented: "The coaches were great, and they made this the best football season ever." The girls earned a lot of money through fundraisers. One in particular was the cheer camp for ninety-one little girls which was held at the middle school. They also had a car wash to raise money for warm-ups. Karyn Crawford, also a co-captain, praised the squad: "The girls were productive and they all worked hard to meet their goals."

The freshmen squad this year had an equally exciting season — especially since this was the first year MHS had a freshmen football cheerleading squad. Francine Rhinehart, freshmen co-captain, commented on the season: "All of the girls got along and the older girls taught us a lot of new ideas." The girls also raised a lot of money through fundraisers, including a quilt raffle. The money raised went towards warm-ups for all the squads. Asked how she enjoyed working with the freshmen squad, Rita Garisek revealed that "cheering in high school is a lot harder and it takes a lot of time and effort." Despite the hard work, these freshmen gained valuable experience that could serve them well in advancing to the upper squads.

"Kicking" Opponents Around Varsity Boy's Soccer Marks the Goal

Team togetherness and strength made the core components of the 1997-1998 varsity boy's soccer team this year. Whether waking up early for a team breakfast or frequenting their favorite Saturday night hang-out, the boys all learned that playing selflessly and working as a team allowed them to overcome many difficult games, including the unexpected loss to Perry. However, the boys managed to humiliate Riverside during their next game, triumphing in a 2-1 victory and leading them into a seven-game winning streak.

Several activities highlighted this year's season, such as the game against Charleroi, a team in Pennsylvania, arranged by Coach Dave Zundel. After a hard-fought battle won by a close margin of one goal, the boys settled back to enjoy take-out and a college soccer game at the University of Pittsburgh.

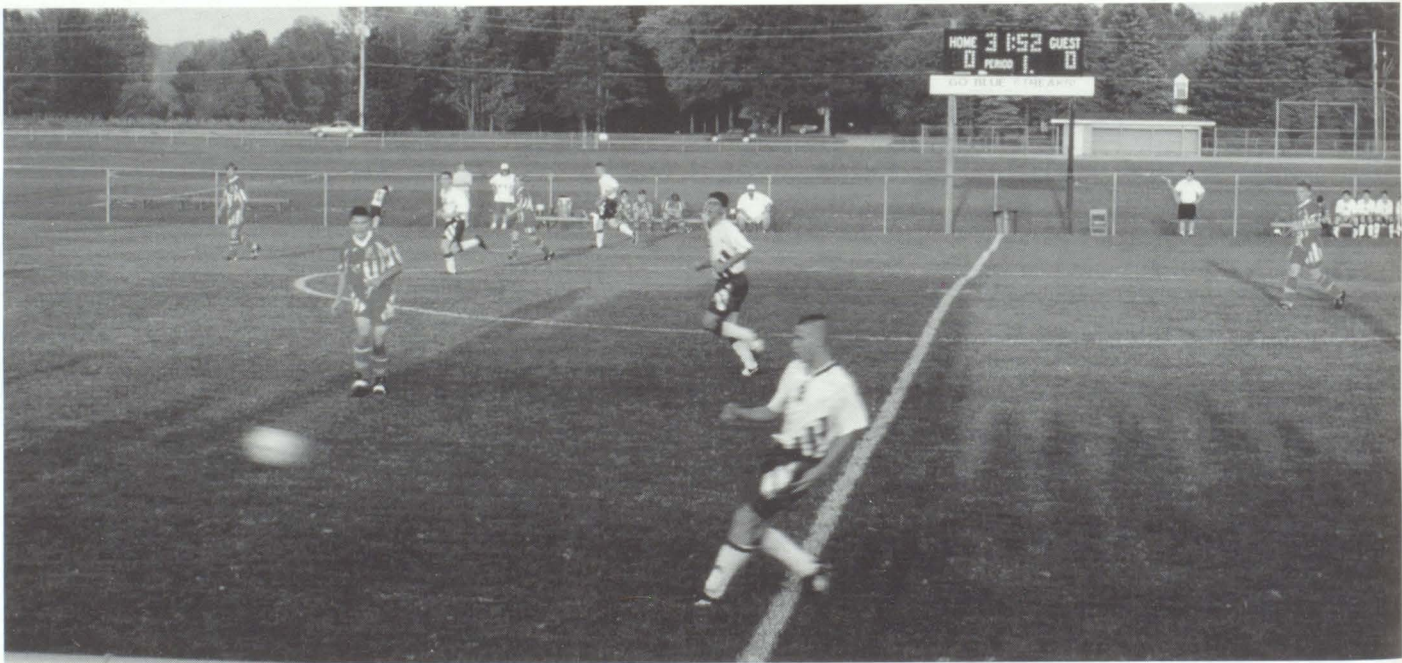

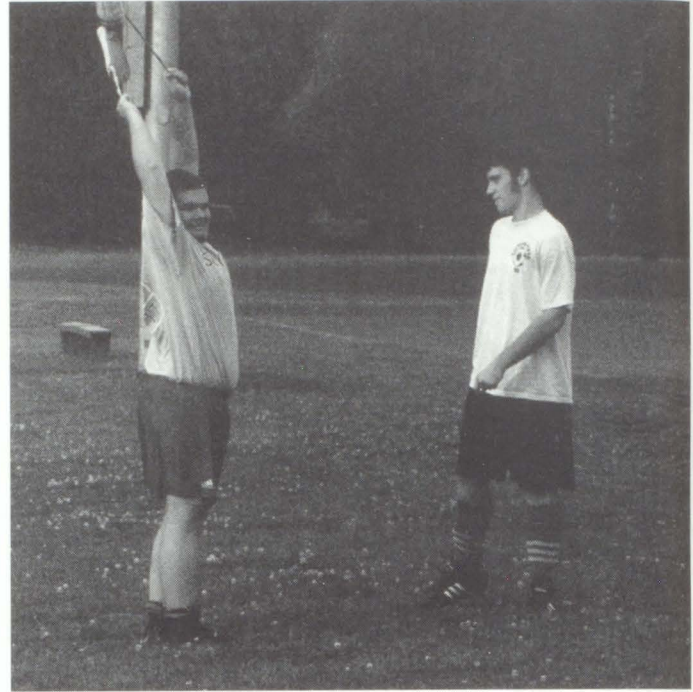

Realizing the momentum the boys were carrying, they entered the play-offs with high hopes after beating Chardon, a team who had been ahead of Madison in the conference standings. After an incredible win over Riverside in the first round, the boys succumbed to highly-respected Mentor, finishing off their chances with a second round loss of 5-0.

Working through many ups and downs, several boys grabbed several major honors this year within the conference, including senior captain Garrison Anderson, who was awarded Plain Dealer Player of the Week and Second Team Conference honors. Also receiving recognition for Second Team Conference was Dave Osborne, with Jason Collins and Pete Moran receiving First Team Conference and Larry Carroll's capturing of the prestigious Player of the Year.

Indicating the closeness shared by many of the teammates this season, senior second-year captain Jason Collins commented, "I believe that the only reason we played well together is because we had fun doing it. All the players knew each other well, . . . and that was also a key to our team unity, which created faith in each other."

JV Girls' and Boys' Soccer Teams Move Up Their Fields

The boys' and girls' JV soccer teams learned a lot this year and enjoyed themselves in the process. The girls' team was led for the second year by Coach Michael Willis. They worked on their fundamental skills and dedicated themselves to next year's season, with many players hoping to move up to the varsity team. Despite all the hard work, sophomore Jan Nemcek enjoyed her experience playing on the team: "We were a young team, but we practiced hard and played well. And all around we came out with a good season."

The JV boys' team was led by third-year Coach John Moran. His team gained additional experience when Coach Zundel (varsity) invited the JV team to travel with the varsity boys to Shelroy, Pennsylvania (near Pittsburgh). When they arrived on Friday evening, both teams attended a Penn State soccer game. On Saturday night, the JV team competed and won, bringing a special victory home to Madison. Freshman Amed Husaini commented, "I enjoyed the boys' soccer team trip to Pennsylvania. It was a blast from beginning to end." Chad Smith concluded: "I feel we had a good season and I look forward to next year."

Girls' Varsity Soccer Plays Hard

Even though the girls' record wasn't their greatest, they showed heart. Mrs. Mullan praised her team, led by seniors Stacy Collins and Nikki Morgan and junior Liz Jacobson: "They showed much, much more dedication than in past years." She also mentioned a "noticeable improvement" in their performance.

The group worked hard before the season started. Many attended camp at the Family First Sports Park as well as open gyms, indoor soccer, hours and hours of conditioning, and a pre-season summer league. "It was a decent season, but it really worked out well at the end," Liz commented.

The girls beat Shaker Heights to win the sectionals for the Mighty Blue once again, the second season in a row for a sectional victory.

Senior Annick Toulouse seemed satisfied: "Even though our record wasn't the best, I had a lot of fun playing with my friends." Junior Abbey Eddington said she's "sad to see the seniors go." Don't worry: new talent is on the rise.

Boys' Cross Country Sets Another Record

The Boys Cross Country team finished their season 7-1, losing only to Edgewood, 33 to 22. They accomplished much: team champions at the "U Wanna Come Back" Invitational, George C. Clements University School Invitational, Gilmour Invitational, Northeastern Conference Meet, and Northeastern Conference Team Co-Champions. Head coach Mr. Jack Pavesich explained his team's success: "Because of their hard work and dedication over the summer, they were able to repeat as NEC Champions and win three invitationals — one more than last year's undefeated squad."

Leading this group of runners were co-captains Jeremy Verdi, Matt Fabian and Nick Cordes. Jeremy placed 19th at NEC, making him 2nd Team All-NEC. He commented on being a captain: "It was really an awesome thing to be a captain of a phenomenal team. We all did a heck of a job to get our team ready for the season." Matt, who took 6th place at NEC, qualifying as 1st Team All-NEC, added: "The key for us this year was our senior leadership and the unity of our team." Nick, who finished 2nd at NEC and was also 1st Team All-NEC, summed up: "Being a captain was an honor. People on the team look up to us for leadership and friendship. Sometimes I would forget I was a captain because everyone on the team was experienced enough not to be told what to do." Other team members contributing to this success included seniors Mike Ard, Ted Square, Ben Archinal, Tim Noch, Pete Mazzeo, and Joel Rabe. '97 Girls Slash into the New Season

While others were in bed in the early hours of the summer mornings, the '97-'98 girls cross country team was hard at work. Besides running, the team participated in other activities that not only strengthened their muscles, but also their spirit. Among them were swimming and a team campout.

The team was led by captain Beth Woodworth, who stated, "The team lost a lot of good runners last year and some believed we wouldn't do well, but we proved them wrong. Next year's team will be strong." She helped the team get through the season, pulling everyone along.

Mr. Pelich, the head coach, stated, "You can spend your life any way you want to, but you can only spend it once. So, RUN!" His comments on the season were positive. "Our season did have its ups and downs, 7-1 was not our goal, but we will have a very strong team next year. We are ready for the new conference."

The girls season ended 7-1, with a loss to Jefferson. A strong 2nd was earned by the girls at their last NEC meet. At Districts they placed 4th to qualify to Regionals. Amy Kahr Sgro was the first girl in Madison ever to win a District title. At Regionals the top seven girls ran to a 9th place finish, the best by a Madison girls team ever. Though all ran PRs, Amy Kahr Sgro was the only to get out to State this season. At her second State competition Amy finished 90th and she summed up the season by saying, "This season was tough, there were a lot of good runners this year. I made it to State, I'm happy. Next year our season will be very successful and I hope to make it to State for three years in a row."

Varsity Volleyball Improves

Madison Varsity Volleyball had an awesome season. During the summer of 1997 they had some tough practices and workouts; they also attended a camp to prepare them for competition. The coaches encourage the girls to go to at least one camp every summer to help them stay in shape. This team has been to several different types of camps. This year they learned how to improve their skills and learn new techniques. In addition to being worthwhile, these summer camps are also a lot of fun.

Like usual, the girls wanted to give their all and improve one-hundred percent. They sure did give it their best shot. The seniors in particular were determined to go out in style, as senior Stephanie Smith explained: “. . .this has been our best season so far. We doubled our wins from the previous year.” By the end of their glorious season, their record was 11-11. The numbers may not say they did well, but their improvement was amazing.

This change obviously reflects how well the players and the coaches communicated. Seniors Heidi Adams, Erika Bukky, Carrie Febel, and Stephanie Smith took control on the court. They lead the team to some of their most challenging victories and helped them get through those tough defeats. The end of the season was very emotional for the whole team. Some of the players have played on the same team for more than four years, and it was sad to see it all over. However, they all welcome next year's seniors and varsity team — and can only hope they will improve even more than this year's team did. Good Luck!

JV & Freshmen Excel

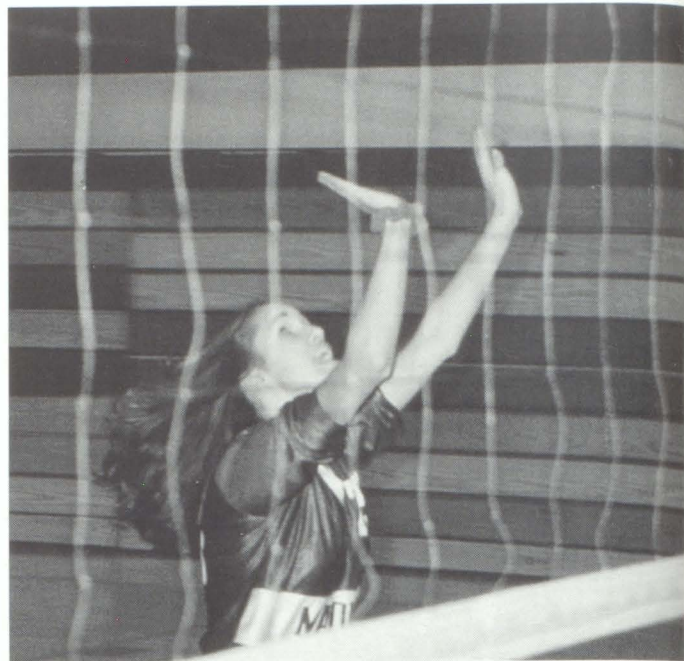

Girls' Volleyball Teams Mark Their Territory

Sarah Scott goes for a set point. ▼

As a season goes on, like any team, Madison had its ups and downs. For the first time this year MHS added a freshmen team to the JV group. Lead by Coach Sarah Kennedy, Madison's first-year freshmen performed well and gained valuable skills. Both they and the JV team were successful, learning how to work together to make the season a good one. Despite the long work-outs and grueling practices, the girls learned how to pull together and work out their problems as a team. The freshmen team concluded their season with a 7-9 record. Building on the previous experience of many returning members, the JV team finished with an undefeated season.

Freshman Tracy Preston commented on her experience, "We wanted an awesome season. It took a lot of hard work, especially with it being our first year." JV player Kara Jackson added, "The coach, season and teammates were all great." As the season ended, both teams showed us how to really make their mark for their school.

Madison Golf Team Scores Low!

Because they travel so much for their competitions, golf is one of the sports at MHS where team members don't often have the benefit of spectators and fans. Still, the team works hard to represent their school. The boys ended their season this year with a record of 8-8, finishing eighth in the NEC tournament, and finished fifth out of twenty-two overall.

Junior Mike Mayer was one of the individual bests. As a district golfer, he was second team all NEC. When asked about his season, Mike commented, "We didn't do quite as well as we planned and hope to do better next year to help Brian Hughes go pro!"

Even their record this year did not reveal the team's potential.

Many of their matches were lost by just one or two strokes. The coach and players alike have high hopes for the future, especially since all starters will be returning. With their experience and the self-confidence they gained this year, they could win the league in 1998!

Mr. Ansel Pierce has coached the MHS golf team for eight years. He'll be retiring this year from that position as well as from his position as principal of North Madison Elementary School. When asked about his time as coach, Mr. Pierce commented,

"The thing I enjoyed most about it was I got to relate to some older 'young men' on a different level and out of school. They were fine young people. It was a tremendous experience. I'll miss it."

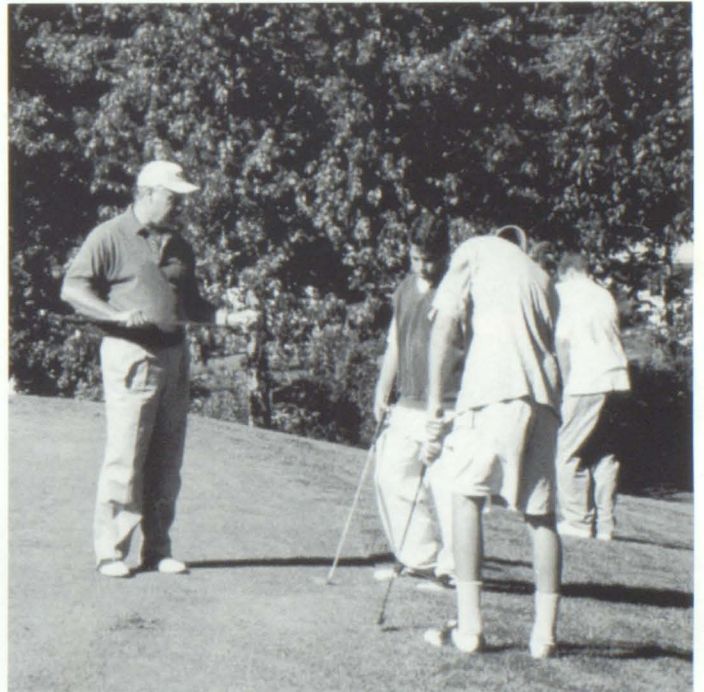

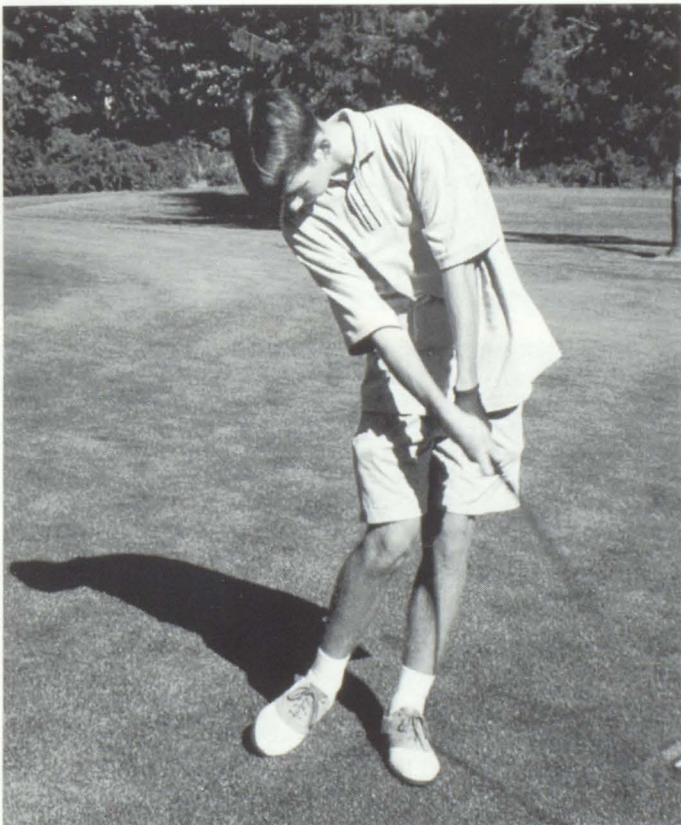

MHS wishes Mr. Pierce the best of luck and an enjoyable retirement!

Academics

Marking the Path

Central Office Leads Students Toward Future

Much like last year, new faces moved into the MHS central office. Principal Mr. Bill Fisher, who enjoys his job, commented: "My second year here at Madison has been fun, especially having my two girls here. Through their involvement, I can go to functions not only as a principal but as a father too." In October, Mr. Jim Herrholtz joined assistant principal Mr. Daryl Stumph when he took over the role for Mr. Tim Brown. Unlike Mr. Fisher last year, Mr. Herrholtz was no newcomer, having taught U.S. government here for six years before.

The 1997-98 school year also started at a hectic pace for counselor Mrs. JoEllen Hummerick when last year's counselor Mr. Gary Himes left to go to another school. For several weeks Mrs. Hummerick worked alone trying to keep up with more than 1,100 students at MHS. She was joined in October by fellow counselor Mr. Larry Baptie, who came to Madison from Chardon UHHS. Among their many other duties, the two take care of scheduling, testing, college and career planning. Mr. Frank Haibach continued to assist the counselors with his focus on drug and alcohol abuse.

The entire central office staff has always relied on the hard work and dedication of the secretaries. Mrs. Cindy McKibben and Mrs. Susan Quayle run the central office, dealing daily with the many needs and problems of students and staff. Taking care of attendance records, Mrs. Sarah Bowman runs the student center with the help of Mrs. Brenda Ersek, who also works as a secretary for the athletic directors, Mr. Jim Pinelli and Mr. Bill Rogus.

All of these individuals make their mark on the lives of MHS students every day!

Challenges for the Future

Math and Science Earn High Marks

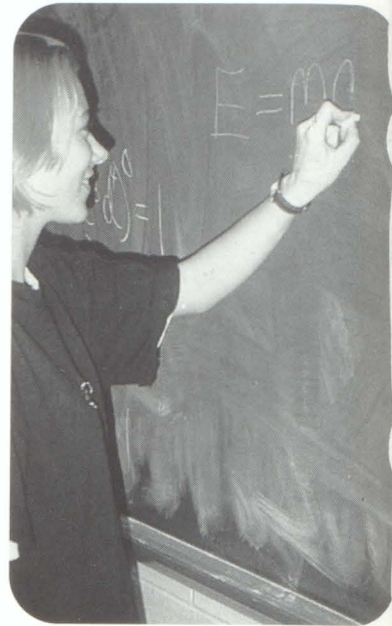

▼Sheila Hoylma completes a formula in her math class

To graduate from MHS, a student must take two math and two science credits. Many students take more than required because they find these subjects interesting and exciting. When asked about her math class, Samantha Saarela replied, "Mr. Wagner's algebra class is intellectually stimulating. He has a plethora of ideas." In addition to preparing seniors for the AP math test, Mr. Morgan arranges for some of the MHS students to compete in the American Mathematics Examination. Matt Barchok, who won the competition his junior year along with his partner Eric Smeby, commented, "It's not like anything they teach you in math class; every problem pushes you to the limit."

Being in a science class has similar advantages toward becoming a well-rounded individual. Students learn not just about science, but how to apply what they've learned to real situations. As senior Kandy Seibold said, "Mr. Pelich's anatomy class is interesting. It teaches us how to depend on ourselves, not just on the teachers." Each year, the anatomy class dissects a number of animals, including rats and cats. The biology classes study the life of various animals and their surroundings, while earth science classes learn about the various rocks and soil and the water cycle. The chemistry classes investigate the relationship between chemicals and the formation of compounds, and physics classes study speed, movement, acceleration, and force.

Both the math and science departments prepare MHS students for a world where technology will continue to make those fields increasingly important.

Gym, Health, and Language

Students Leave Their Marks with Skills

One word could sum up gym class: variety. Students have the chance to participate in team sports, but they also play group games and develop individual skills. This year the school offered an AP class for juniors and seniors interested in taking another year. Mr. Reigert would like to see even more classes offered: "I hope that in the future students will have to take gym for four years instead of just one." Participant Bill Whaley added: "I think this is a great program. I am glad they did it this year so I could be part of it." Mrs. Mullan and Mr. Willis also teach health, trying to help students learn about themselves and their physical well being. Mrs. Mullan explained, "I try to teach the students to make good decisions in their lives because the decisions that they make now will be with them in the future."

Upstairs and a long way from the gym, Spanish teachers Mrs. Battes and Ms. Busse, French teacher Mrs. Bangerter, and German teacher Mrs. Dingman focus on very different skills. Students study vocabulary and grammar and learn to speak and write in their chosen foreign language. They also investigate the culture, the people, and the life styles of those countries. Hopefully what they learn will help them excel in an increasingly international job market. This year the Spanish and German classes conducted a fundraiser to help them pay for a class trip to learn more about their countries. This new idea went well and gave them the incentive to plan future projects.

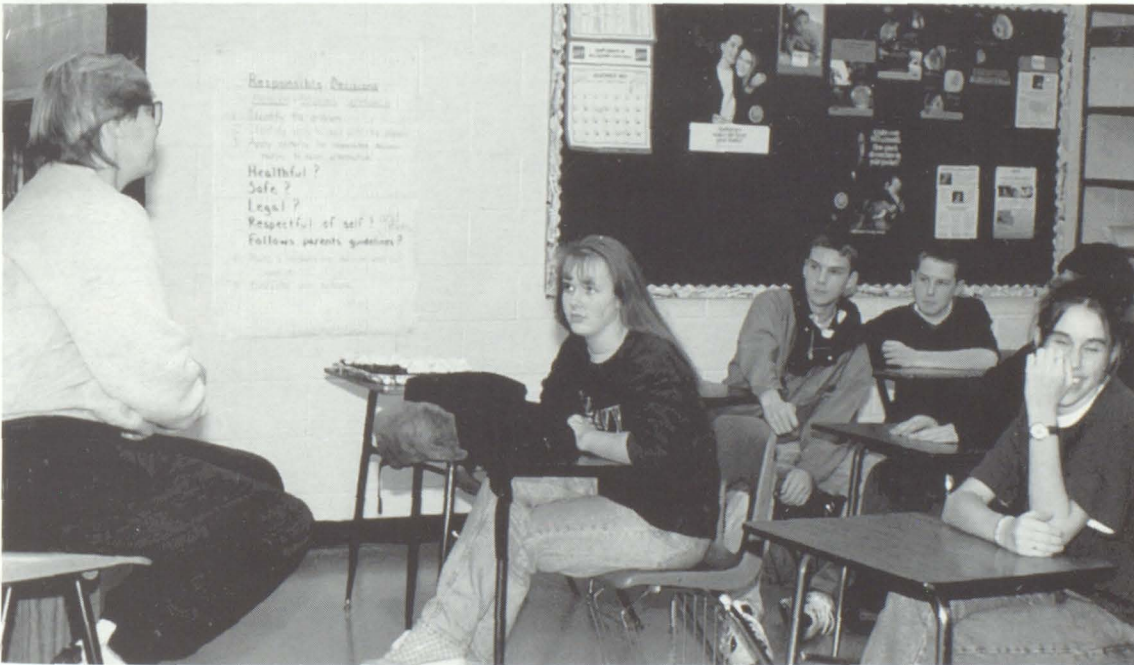

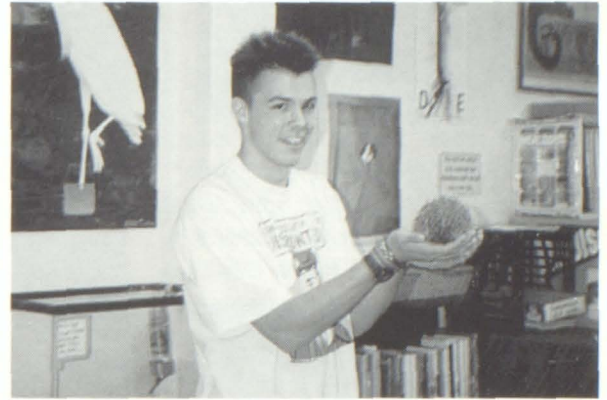

▲ Mr. Reigert takes his physical education classes outdoors in the early fall for some exercise and fresh air. Here the students take advantage of the school's tennis courts to learn some new skills.

Making a Statement

English & Social Studies Join Curriculum

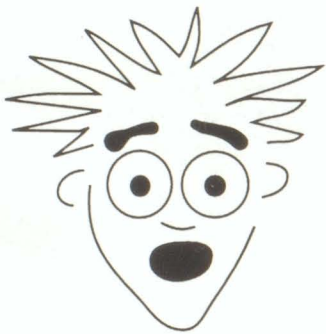

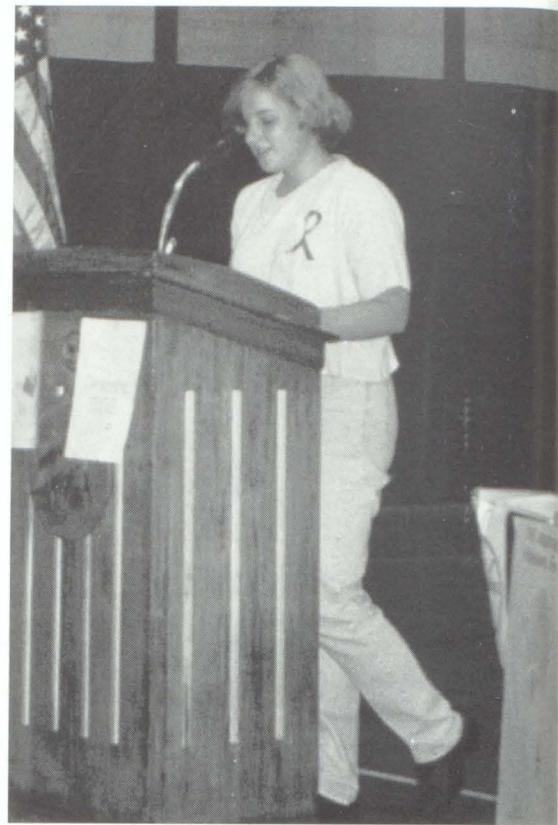

The 1997-98 school year enjoyed some bright new changes. One important one was a cross-curricular experiment to show students the connections between their English and social studies courses. Working together, Mr. Herrholtz and Ms. Jackson correlated their junior English and government classes in their study of the Constitution, the students' rights, and the issue of censorship. Both classes studied the Ray Bradbury novel, Fahrenheit 451 — for its social statements and its literary value. Their work culminated in an assembly for National Banned Books Week. The program was directed mostly by the students, who presented their research on relevant subjects and their opinions for and against censorship. Several students also read poems on the subject. Two guest speakers also joined the students: attorney Mr. Bob Gambol spoke on the legal issues and superintendent Mr. Stan Heffner spoke on the school's position on censorship.

Another change came when Mr. Jim Herrholtz left his position as government teacher to take over as assistant principal when Mr. Brown left. Mrs. Helen Mitchell stepped in temporarily and did a great job taking over his classes. Ms. Sharon Eiseman also joined the social studies staff this year, teaching world geography, economics, and government classes and leading the Model UN program to victory.

Making Memories Last Forever

Yearbook and Newspaper Record the Good Times

The Streak and the yearbook staff worked hard to inform and preserve the memories of this great year. Erica Izzarelli, the youngest yearbook staff member, said, "It takes hard work and dedication, but in the long run, it's been fun." Yearbook teaches skills such as graphic design, interviewing, and photography. Staff advisor, Ms. Jackson, was proud to lead "a good group of many underclassmen with a lot of interest and energy."

"Deadlines!!" is the word written everywhere in the newsroom. "We have draft deadlines, layout deadlines, story deadlines. . .," explained junior Jennifer Bonnette. In newspaper, students apply what they learned in journalism to make the student paper. Mrs. Moskowitz, The Streak advisor, praised her staff for being "talented, hard-working, and creative." This year the paper was expanded and the staff concentrated on creating more newsworthy stories. They also accomplished another first in their publication of the senior edition of The Streak, transferring the wills from the yearbook to the newspaper, allowing seniors to reflect more of their senior year in their wills.

The Mark of Creativity.

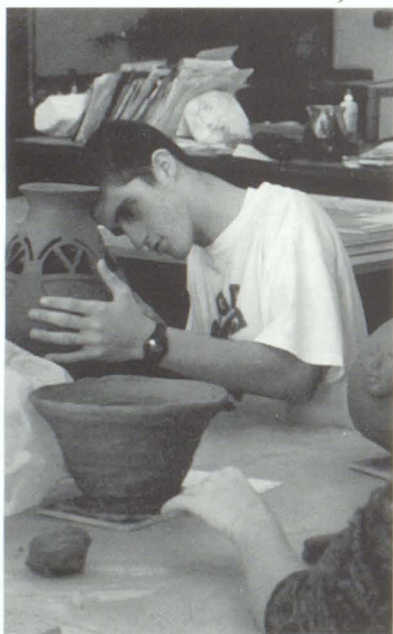

Art and Industrial Arts

Many programs at MHS offer students the opportunity to expand their horizons. In industrial arts, students learn skills useful for future careers in metals or woods shop. "If you are thinking about becoming an architect, this class is right for you," said Megan Hrbek about her drafting class. On one field trip they visited Perfection Corporation to see how their skills could be used. Many students in shop classes see very immediate results when they take their projects home. Mr. Petersen commented: "The students have good discipline and the class is good planning for the future."

A similar variety is available to students through the art department, headed by Mr. Ashton and Mrs. Parks: commercial art, studio art, drawing, painting, sculpture, ceramics, jewelry, and even photography. These classes traveled this year to the Cleveland Museum of Art as well as stopping by the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and other Cleveland locations to study the architecture. The art department has earned a great reputation through the many local, state, and national prizes MHS students have won in recent years.

Making a Mark on the Future

Students Learn Life Skills

Preparing for the real world is one of the many things students think about here at MHS, and several classes and programs are designed to help them do just that. In business classes, such as accounting, typing, and Business Law, Mr. John Miller claims that students learn skills like keyboarding, salesmanship, and accounting to help with their daily lives in the future.

Home ec. classes like Parenting, Life Planning, Family Relations, and Quest focus on similarly useful skills. Mrs. Ashton, Mrs. McMahon, and Mrs. DeLahunty teach much more than how to be a homemaker. As senior Lindsay Galea commented, "I plan to start a family early and the personal experience I got through my home ec classes will help me get the skills I need to have a family and career."

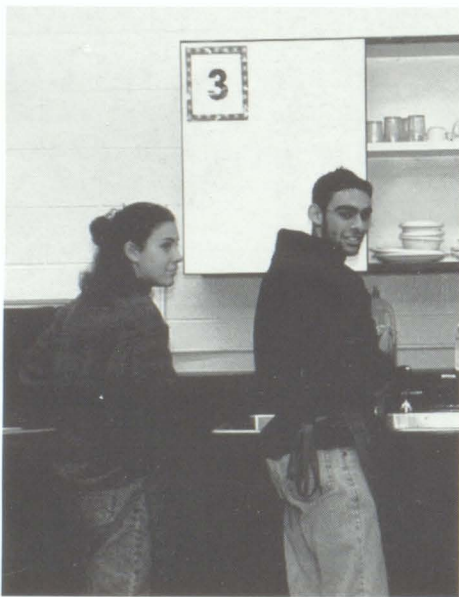

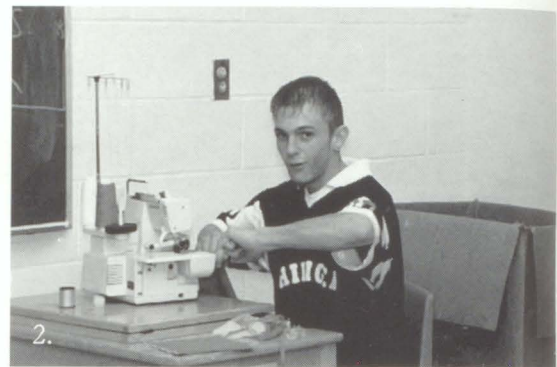

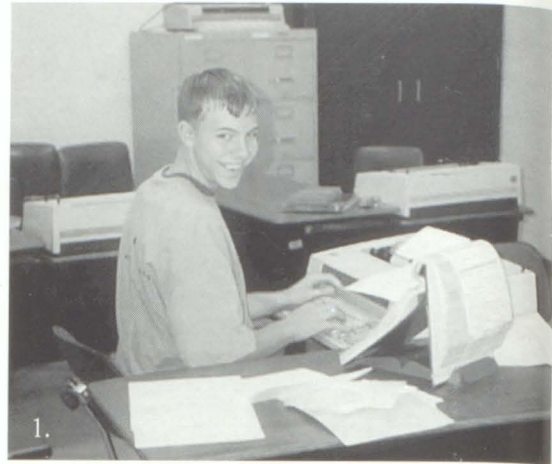

The JOGS (Jobs for Ohio Graduating

Seniors) program prepares students for jobs immediately after graduation. Mrs. Rivera works a few times a week with seniors who perform various activities, including community service, job shadowing, and a club called Career Association. Senior Devonee Smith praised the program: "The class gives us useful information for our futures — and it's a blast."

OWA (Occupational Work Adjustment) is designed to allow 14- and 15-year-old students to continue getting hands-on job experience and ensure their success in high school. Students take at least two regular classes and two classes with the OWA teacher, Mrs. Sampson. Then they go to work the rest of the day, earning both money and credit.

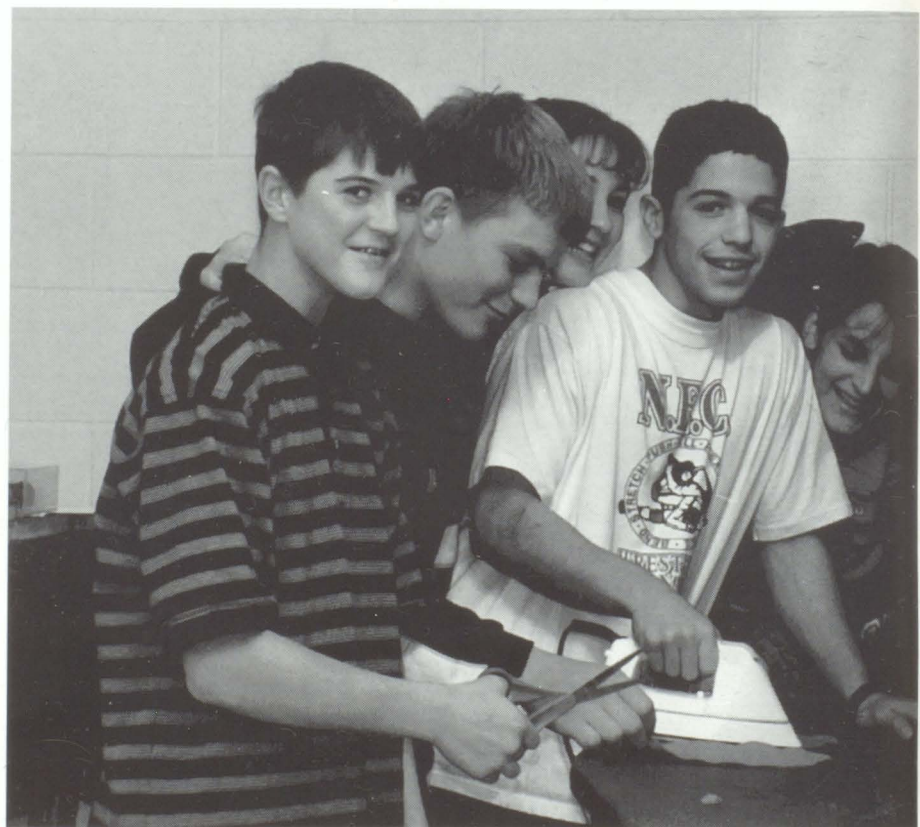

All of these classes help MHS students make their mark on the future.

Students Conquer Obstacles

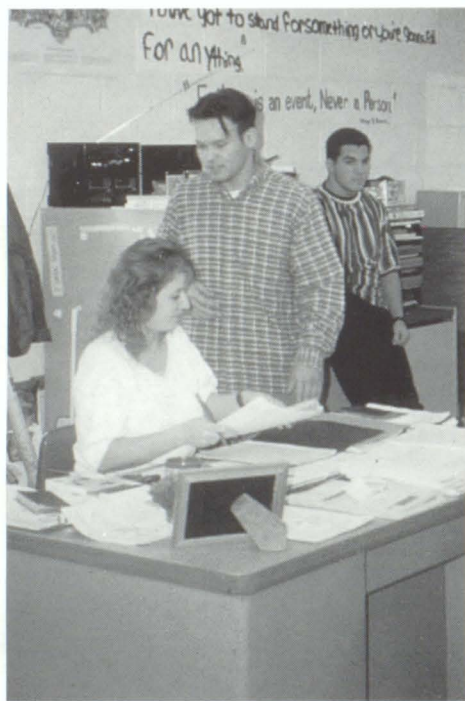

SBH, Tutors, and Special Ed Work Together

Faced with tougher conflicts than most can imagine, the SBH and special education students work with their teachers to overcome and deal with problems. Whether in the SBH room with teacher Mr. Andrus and education aides Mrs. Westfall and Mrs. Petry, in classes for students with learning disabilities with Mrs. Morgan, or in the special education classes with Mrs. Funk and Mrs. Porter, these students have proven time and time again that they can accomplish any feat with a little help and encouragement from their teachers.

Showing his appreciation, sophomore Jimmy Rogers praised his teacher: "Mrs. Morgan is cool. When I don't understand something, she explains it to me." Just as important, special tutor Mrs. McCue helps students to understand their classwork and better grasp the sometimes not-so-obvious questions and concepts. She works along with the classroom teachers to help students complete their homework and prepare for tests.

Mrs. Funk enjoys working with her classes. Taking time out from an activity, she commented, "The kids were really hard this year and are more academically oriented than in past years." Summing up his program, Mr. Andrus concluded, "Now that the second year is under way, I see progress from the students from last year and welcome the challenges ahead."

Marking a High Note

Choir and Show Choir Entertain MHS

Choir this year consisted of 42 pepped-up singers. Over half of them were freshmen. Mr. Pérez praised the group, saying he was "proud of their hard work in learning the music." Sophomore Erica Izzarelli joined because "it is a great way to show artistic talent and still have fun." In addition to their Christmas concert and regular performances, the choir also performed for the homecoming game this year.

Those choir members with the greatest talent and dedication often move up to the MHS Show Choir, which keeps them busy singing and dancing. This year they performed at the Perry Music Festival, Anchor Inn X-mas days, the MHS Christmas concert, and the Cleveland arcade. They also joined the band on their trip for performances in Chicago. Their performances rely on the voices and choreography of all 17 members, including several three-year members: Brian Miller, Richard Burkholder, and Dan Zielinski. Mr. Pérez commented on the group's closeness: "They are the tightest group so far." Enjoying her first year in the group, junior Katie Watts agreed: "This group gets along great. It's really a good time." Dan added his own recruiting pitch: "It opened up my dancing and singing skills that I didn't even know I had. I recommend it to anyone. That means you, MEN!!!"

Marching Streaks

The Instrumental Department Makes Tracks

The MHS marching band started their season early with band camp. For the two weeks prior to the start of school, they learned shows and memorized music. The first show focused on the "Star Wars" theme. The second show, the "Blues Brothers," boasted some smooth moves and singing in songs like "Minnie the Moocher." Under the leadership of Mr. Pérez, Mr. Soriano, and drum major Maija Talikka, the band also marched in the Old Fashioned Days parade, the Grape Jamboree, and several festivals. Mr. Pérez takes pride in his band and looks forward to next year.

The majorettes of the Marching Blue Streaks also had a very successful season. They won first place at the Old Fashioned Days parade. With the help of the advisor, Mrs. Sally Rogus, the girls danced and twirled extraordinary routines to entertain crowds from Conneaut to Perry and everywhere in between.

While the marching band becomes a symphonic group at the end of football season, MHS also offers more serious musicians the chance to perform with the stage band, made up of instruments including guitars, a keyboard, drums, and brass. The stage band also includes two exchange students, Guiseppe Bruzzone and Saschiko Aikawa. This talented group performed at several school and community events throughout the year, receiving much praise.

Av, Library and Computers

Changes Bring A Bright Future

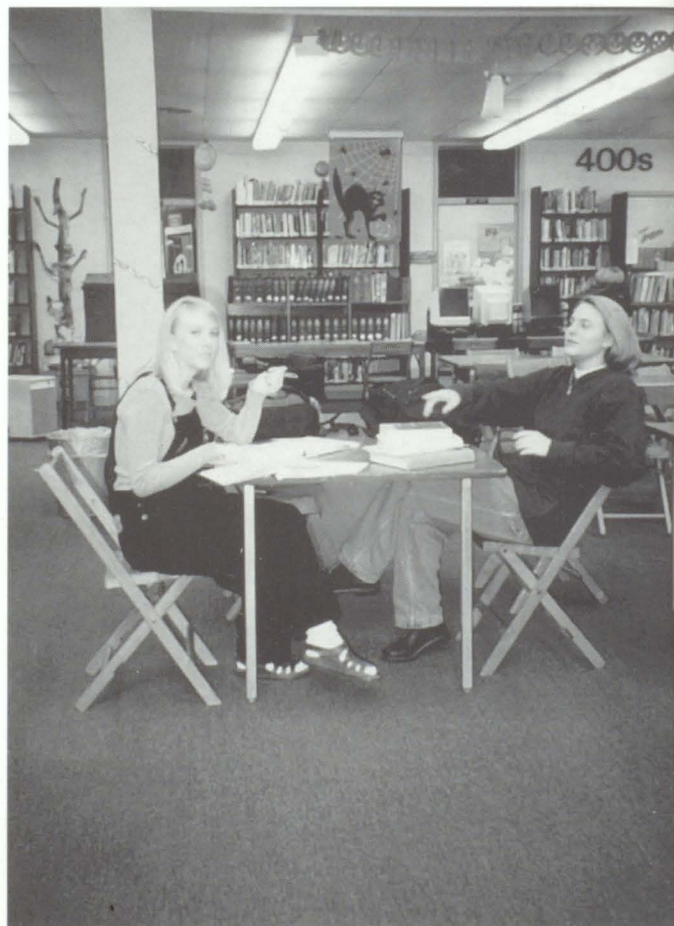

The media departments at MHS can only be described in one word: hectic. Each department met the year with major changes. In the computer lab, students could type papers for reports with the help of Mrs. Watts. New to the computer lab, Mrs. Watts described her job: "It's been fun. I really like working with teenagers. I love helping kids with their papers." Channel 23 keeps Madison residents updated on all of the school and community happenings. Behind the filming, editing, splicing, and dubbing was Mr. Richmond. He felt that this year's AV department performed "very well considering we lost 22 seniors last year. It was a young group, but they showed a lot of potential for the next few years." Some of the active projects AV participated in were filming athletic events, making student ID's, and helping put together the video yearbook. In the library, frustrated students diligently try to work on reports with a vast selection of information. New to the library this year was the connection to the internet. When asked how she felt about it, librarian Ms. Carlson replied: "It's wonderful. Students now have access to many more sources of information." It is easy to see why the advisors of the media departments were kept so busy during the school year.

▲ "If I smile, then maybe people won't see how frustrated I am because the internet is down!" Librarian Mrs. Leonard displays her happy character from behind her desk in the library.

Making Steps to the Future

Auburn Career Center Prepares Madison Students

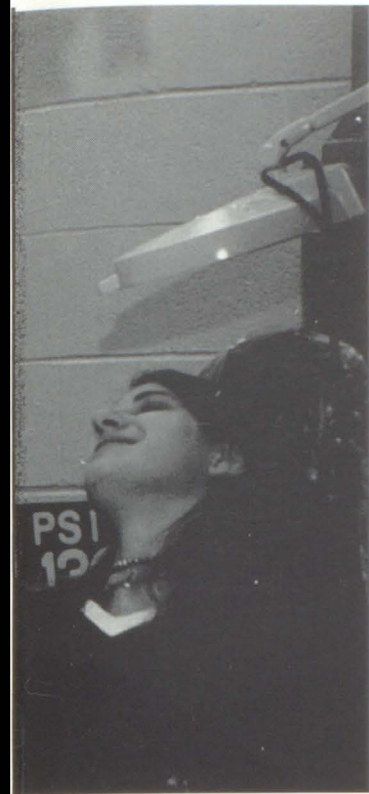

During the 1997-98 school year at MHS, many students attended Auburn Career Center. Auburn is a vocational school available to Lake County students who wish to pursue their career while still in high school. Students can choose the trade that they wish to study from a variety of fields, including administrative office services, auto body, auto technology, building remodeling and repair, community and home services, cosmetology, culinary arts, diversified health occupations, early childhood development, electronics, graphic communications, horticulture science, industrial technologies, information processing, transitional employment, diversified co-op training, marketing education, and occupational work experience. They gain hands-on training throughout the course of their choice. Many students go to Auburn for the experience that they need in order to go straight to work after graduation. Senior Heather Simcic commented: "I really enjoy being at Auburn. It's a great learning experience and great place to meet new people."

Boys' Basketball Struggles Through Season

This year the varsity boys' basketball team did very well. The team was led by seniors Mike Ard, Nick Cordes, and Bryan Humphrey. Mr. Peterlin, head coach of the varsity team, claimed, "The players worked harder this year and got better every game." Bryan Humphrey agreed, saying, "I believe that the team worked very well together, and starting to practice earlier made us even better."

Even though their record of 5-16 doesn't show many wins, the team had fun and worked very well together. Mr. Peterlin was assisted by three other coaches, Mr. Wagner, Kevin Albert, and Nick Gusto (both MHS alumnae). After their victory over St-

John, the team had a hard time, losing several games by only a couple points. The boys then went on to win their sectional game against Wiloughby South, 70-67.

The team advanced to the sectional final, but ended their season by losing to Shaw, 58-79.

Overall, the varsity team ended their season with very high marks.

JV & Freshmen Boys Aim High

The JV started the season with high expectations, putting forth much effort and enthusiasm. Their coach, Mr. Wagner, pushed the team hard in order to prepare for the upcoming season. The team possessed a strong defense and offense. Jim Smith explained what he thought of the experience: "I felt that the season was good! Our record (9 - 11) didn't show it, but we played well at all times. Our coaches really coached well. Hopefully everyone will be back next year for another exciting and hopefully successful season!" The team was tough and showed many strengths. They had a lot of determination and used it to have a positive season.

The 1997-98 basketball season provided just as much experience for the freshmen. These boys were coached this year by a new face, Mr. Steve Clark. Many of their talents had been developed through their practices. Matt Stoltz explained, "It was a good learning experience. The team stepped up as a group. Coach Clark did great for his first season." The players continued improving throughout the season's highs and lows.

Varsity Cheerleaders Win First Place

Nobody brings out school spirit the way the cheerleaders do. They work hard practicing after school three days a week, and it shows when they perform. They get the crowd pumped up no matter what happens during the game and they always stand behind their players, making it fun and exciting whether the team wins or loses.

This year the cheerleaders went further than just getting the fans involved in the games by leading cheers. They kept the spirits of the athletes high by coordinating half-time routines, posting signs and boosting school spirit by decorating lockers before every game. This year the MHS cheerleaders also held a mini-cheer camp. These girls and their students then performed a half-time routine at the home game vs. Jefferson. Senior Tiffany Collinsworth felt that "this year has been creative and spirited more than ever!"

This year, for the first time in high school history, the JV and Varsity cheerleaders participated in a competition held at Jefferson High School. Lady Streaks Rock the Court

This basketball season has been one to stand out from the others. This year the girls' varsity team had to adjust to a new coach when long-time Coach Snyder left Madison to teach in Mentor and coach their girls' team. Senior Nikki Morgan commented on the new Lady Blue Streak coach, Mr. Mike Smith: "The biggest change of the season is our coaching staff. Mr. Smith has made this last season a lot of fun and one to remember. Overall this has been my best season."

Nikki was not the only player to put in an outstanding year. This season senior Tiffany Arendas made the front page of the News Herald sports section when she broke the record of total points any one person (girl or boy) has scored in MHS history. No wonder that they recruited Tiffany for another first — to play with the boys' team in the student-faculty basketball game. Along with the rest of her team, they finished with the season with a very respectable record of 15-5-1 and with several underclassmen to lead the team into next year.

Tiffany Arendas struggles to keep Madison in possession of the ball. Of course she will get her way. . . Would you argue?

Making Their Mark on the Court

JV and Freshmen Girls' Basketball Excels

Hard work — who wants any part of that? The junior varsity and freshman girls' basketball teams did, and they showed their work ethic in practice and in every game. Both teams stuck together and ended the season with 15-3, 2-18 records, respectively. Many of these young women have been shooting hoops for several years; others have just begun their careers. For those who have been around for a while, sophomore Tiffany Florentine said, "We had an awesome season; everyone stepped up during one part of the season. This made us grow as a whole and win almost all our games."

For the younger members, hopefully this strong work ethic will rub off.

However, just like any team, basketball or otherwise, the girls had the usual jitters, nervousness, and pre-game fears that the other team might be better. "We just put our heads together and had very positive attitudes to pump us up before we began each game," said sophomore Marie Casto.

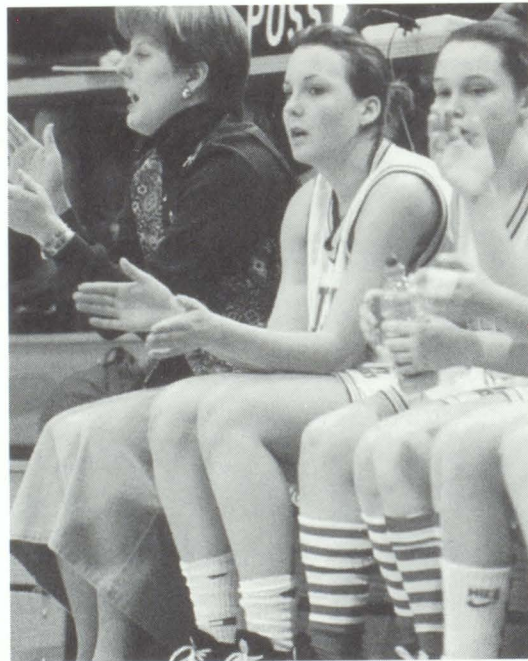

Though the girls had new coaches this year, they still worked just as hard and proved what they were made of. "Junior Varsity Coach Fred Groupe always made funny jokes to make us laugh and get through the hard practices," said sophomore Jessica Baird. "Freshman Coach Kennedy helped us through the season with flying colors," Sachiko Aikawa added.

Swimmers Go Through Different Times

 Junior Casey Maher "screams" as she gets done with an invigorating workout. ▼

The swimming world at Madison High School underwent several changes this year, beginning with a new coach, Jennifer Wentz (daughter of Mrs. McKibben), whom the swimmers welcomed with open arms. With practices going six days a week at the Madison YMCA, the team was forced to share pool time Mondays and Tuesdays with Riverside's swim team, but both teams cooperated well.

Captains Randy Brunner and Dan Zielinski led their boys' team to a 5-3 season, while girls' captains Maija Talikka and Dana Holland led their team to an 8-5 record. Standouts in the ladies' season this year included junior Casey Maher, who repeated her record-breaking performance in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:14:20. Tiffany Lorenz, also a junior, broke the record in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 5:56:26. Freshman phenom Kyle Tobul broke the 100-yard backstroke record with a time of 1:02:03, while senior Dan Zielinski shattered the ten-year-old 500-yard freestyle record with a time of 5:17:98.

This group further exemplified team spirit when junior Jeff Henn broke his neck during warmups for the Brush swim meet. A true fighter, Jeff went through recovery at Metro Hospital in Cleveland. In a season of fallen records and risen spirits, the MHS swim team set the water on fire.

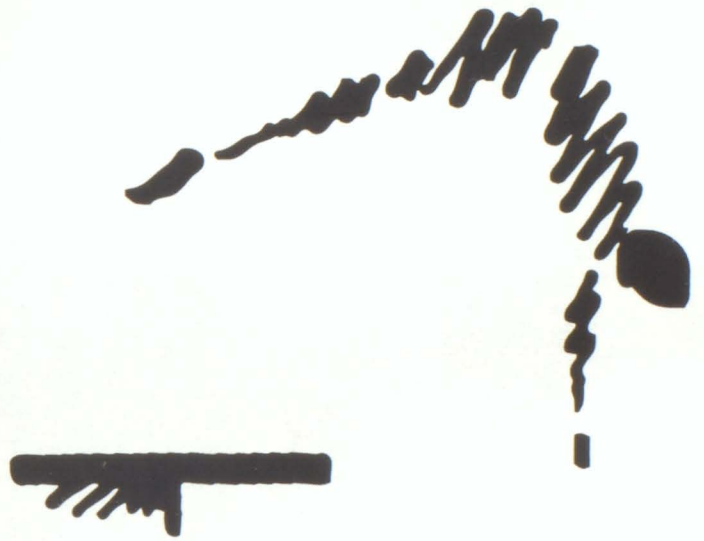

▼ "Make sure you don't splash me!" exclaims Coach Wentz as she explains a drill to some swimmers.

"The JV

Wrestlers enjoyed a very successful season. Many of the members of our JV team would be varsity on many other teams. Our varsity team was one of the best in the state, making the starting line-up difficult to achieve. We try to wrestle strong teams in our JV schedule to prepare them for varsity competition. Our JV's were up to the challenge. Many of this years JV's will be varsity next season." — Coach Becka who wrestle for Madison work harder than most other students at the high school. This hard work pays off on the wrestling mat. The most rewarding part of wrestling is learning that hard work equals success. Persistence is another quality that goes hand-in-hand with success. If student athletes develop these qualities and use them in school and in life, they will be successful." — Coach Fortuna

"Students

Making Each Move Count

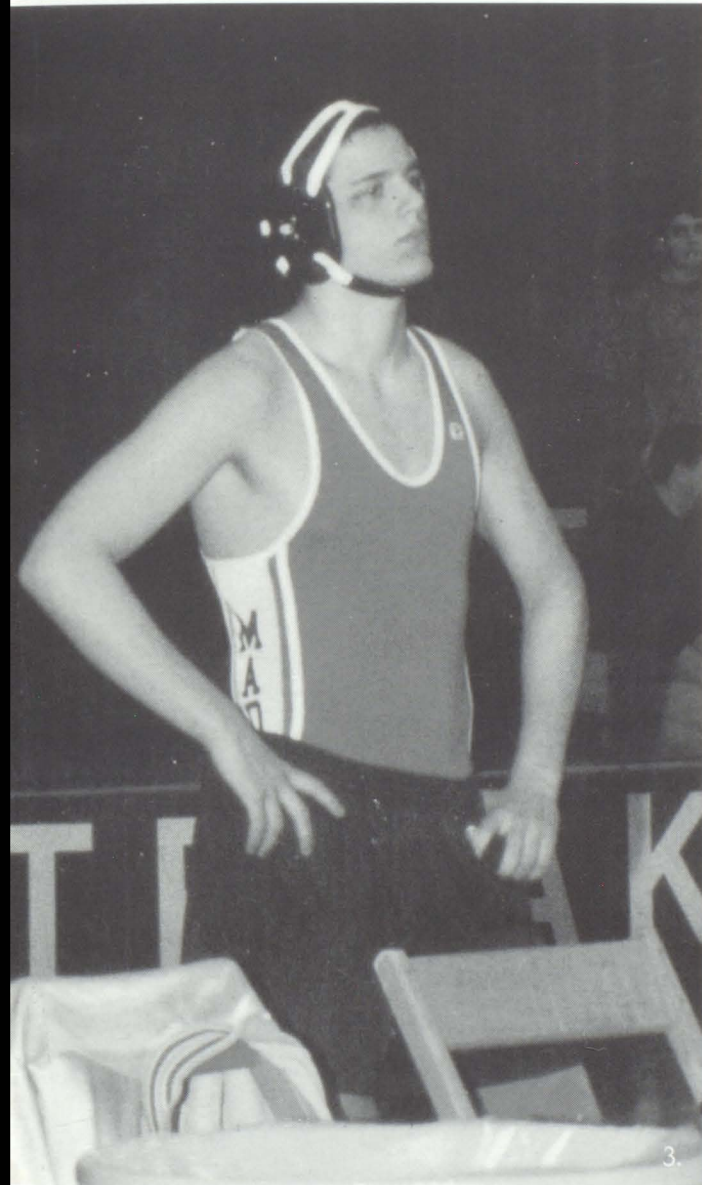

JV/Freshmen Wrestling

Is it pride, dedication, talent, the hard work and sacrifice, or just the love for the sport that keeps them coming back? Well, who knows, but over the past few years Madison wrestling has grown to new heights and will continue to. Everyone in the area knows who the Blue Streaks are and what they can do, and next year will prove to be the same. The loss of the seniors leaves room for new heroes on the starting line-up.

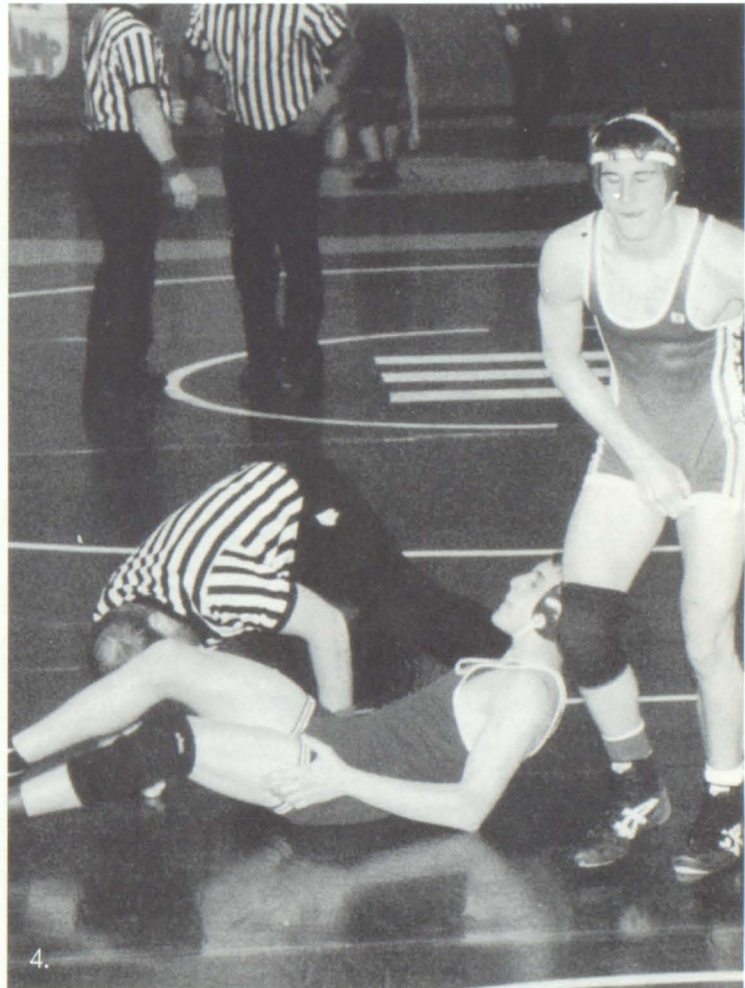

Even in the new Premier Conference, Madison will prove to be a challenge to their foes. This new conference will consist of Eastlake North, Willoughby South, Riverside, and Chardon. Head Coach Gary Fortuna commented, "We welcome the challenge to participate in a new conference, against larger schools with better facilities and the same wrestling program as we have."

The freshmen had a great year too, although they had very few matches. These ninth-graders mostly gained experience for next year and learned what it takes to wrestle at the high school level. Coach Fortuna also commented on the freshmen season, saying, "The Madison Freshmen wrestling team had an outstanding season. Many of the ninth graders wrestled JV and some wrestled varsity matches. The future looks very bright." Indeed it does!

Overcoming Adversity

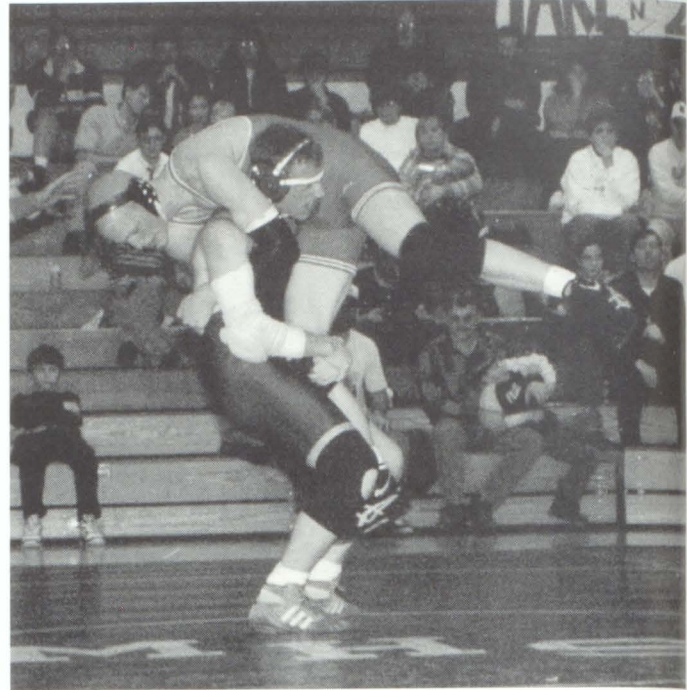

Wrestlers Mark Their Territory

Once again our MHS varsity wrestlers turned in an outstanding season with spectacular performances, showing the NEC what wrestling really means. With hard work, dedication, and an extra boost from the coaches, the team even overcame the loss of Bill Whaley and Ryan Wirtzberger to injuries early in the season. Commenting on his coaches, Bill Whaley said: "Mr. Fortuna and the other coaches' intensity level was the highest I have ever experienced through the four years of wrestling with them."

The Streaks compiled a 16-2-1

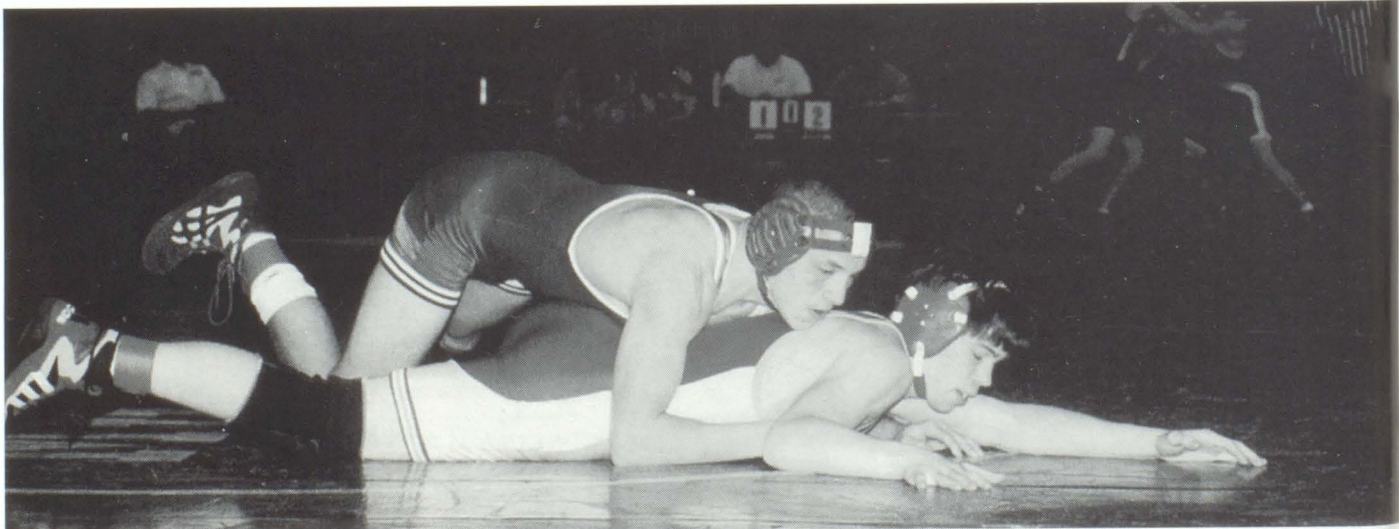

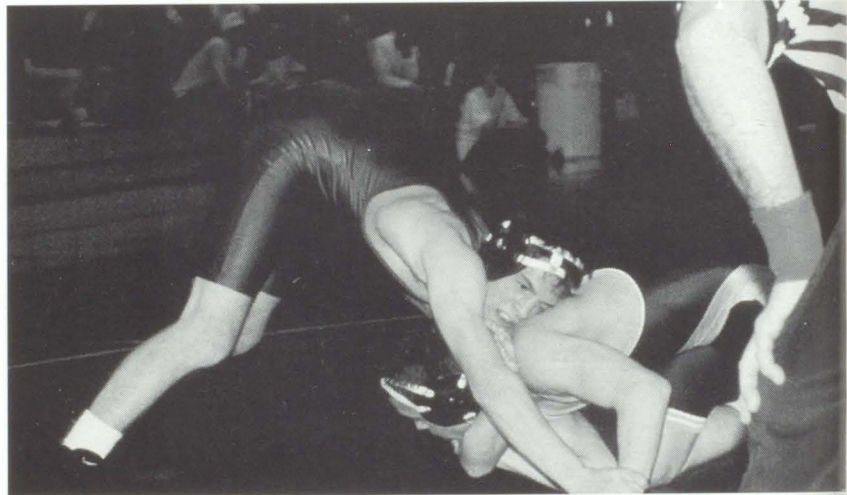

regular season record and finished seventh in the Division I state poll ranking. After winning their fifth NEC title, Madison moved on to the Division I sectionals at Mayfield. They blew away all the competition, placing first in overall points. Of the ten who advanced to the finals, four walked away with first-place finishes: Chris Shears (119), Gary Skoch (125), Ryan Wirtzberger (135), and Bill Whaley (160). At the State meet, Ryan Wirtzberger placed second and Joe Hernan received an honorable mention. Chris Shears and Gary Skoch placed fifth.

Marking Wins With Cheers

JV and Freshmen Cheerleaders Raise Spirits

The JV and freshmen cheerleading squads of 1997-98 had great seasons. Under the new supervision of Ms. Tona Humphrey and Ms. Chris Tobul, the girls did a lot of new, fun, and exciting things. Throughout the year both teams ran a concession stand at wrestling meets. The money raised went toward the cost of materials for their activities.

To give the JV team more experience, the varsity cheerleaders invited them to dance along with them at some of the half-time shows. That kind of collaboration has rarely been done in the past years.

Both teams also worked a mini-cheer camp this summer. Along with varsity, they held a three-day camp for elementary students interested in pursuing cheerleading. The young girls, along with the varsity, JV, and freshmen squads, performed at half-time of a varsity basketball game. Erin Hall, a sophomore and a JV cheerleader, said, "I liked this basketball season because we joined in more stuff with varsity, and the new advisors really got involved." When asked about the season went, Rachel Mayer, a freshman, replied, "I was scared at first, but as the year went on, it got easier."

Boy's Varsity Baseball Scores

The boys' varsity baseball team was lead by Coach John Dragas. This was his second year with the boys' team, so he had more experience than during last year's season. Alongside of Coach Dragas was his assistant Coach Wolf; together they made some tough decision-making throughout the season.

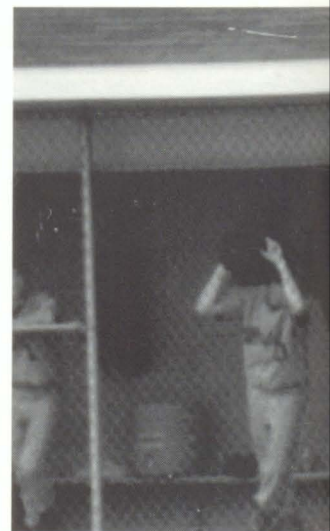

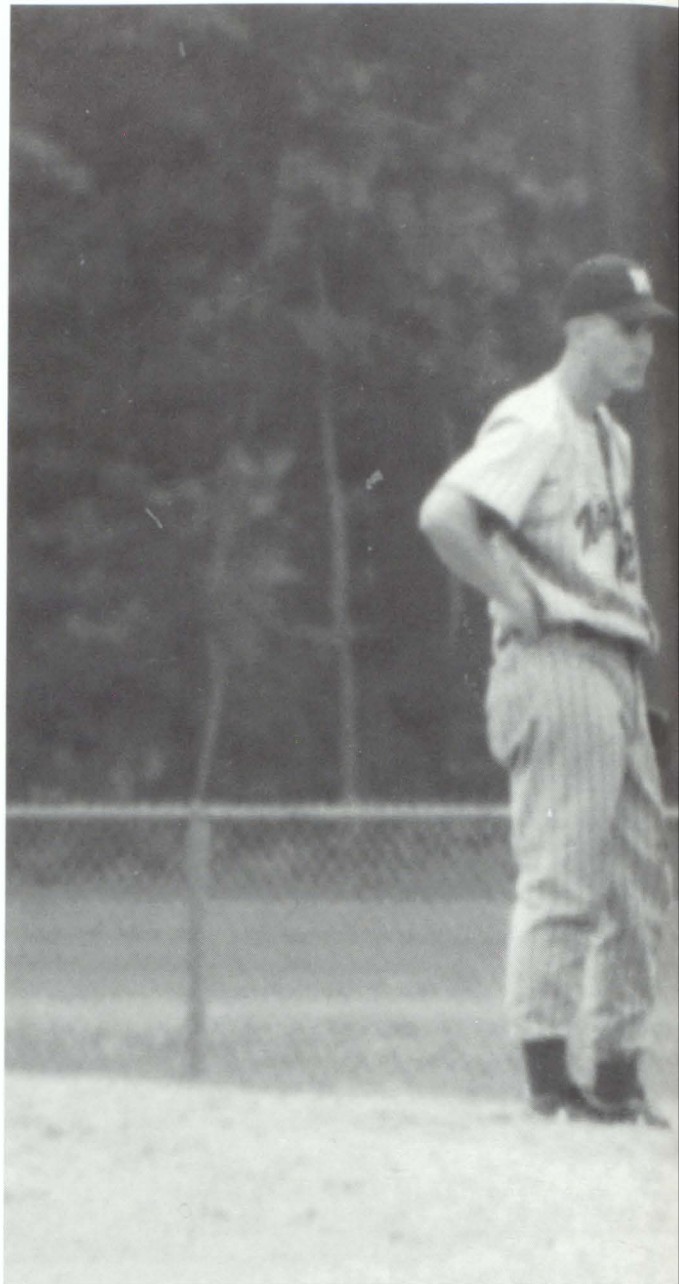

Although they struggled with some tough losses, the team made some great advancements. Junior John Gerger, who played infield positions, commented: "I think that we improved as a team and came together more. The younger players will build up the team for the future."

The seniors who led the team included Richard Burkholder, Tim Noch, Curt Svagerko, and Steve Woodworth. Their skills will be handed down to the underclassmen next season. The boys look forward to practicing for a better season and continuing their drive to be number one.

Varsity Softball Heads Home After Tough Season

Long practices and hours of hard work equal the varsity girls' softball team. This year's team won twelve out of the twenty-two games that they played. Coached for the second year by Athletic Director Mr. Pinelli and Assistant Coach Beans, the girls improved on last year's record. This year's team also boasted several returning lettermen, including seniors Dana Holland, Tiffany Arendas, Heather Simcic, Roberta Evatz, and Amanda Channels. Roberta Evatz praised the coaching staff and her teammates: "This year's team was very talented."

Junior Sara Toward commented on the team's season: "This year the softball team had a very successful season, even though our record of 12-10 which was kind of disappointing. I think the highlight of our season was beating Riverside twice. Next year we are going to really miss the seniors who are graduating. They really helped to turn the team around these past two years. I think we are going to have a very competitive team next year."

JV Teams Mark the Future

The new school year brought with it a new JV softball coach, Coach Eisman. Although Eisman had to make the transition of coaching and playing slow pitch softball to fast pitch, she claimed, "The experience was good and all the players will excel with hard work and practice." Sophomore Jessica Cummings spoke about her experiences on the team: "Our record wasn't very good, but I had a good time. The team worked really well together and I think our season will improve next year."

Only his second year coaching at MHS, Coach Trebets continued to focus on improving skills that will help the team prepare for the future. Despite their losing record, Eric Toulouse commented: "Coach Trebets was very supportive and we focused on skills that will help us improve our season next year." Likewise, freshman Chris Kovacs added: "Our season could have been better, but the outlook for next year is good."

Leaving Prints in the Sand

Jumpers, Runners, Throwers Join Together

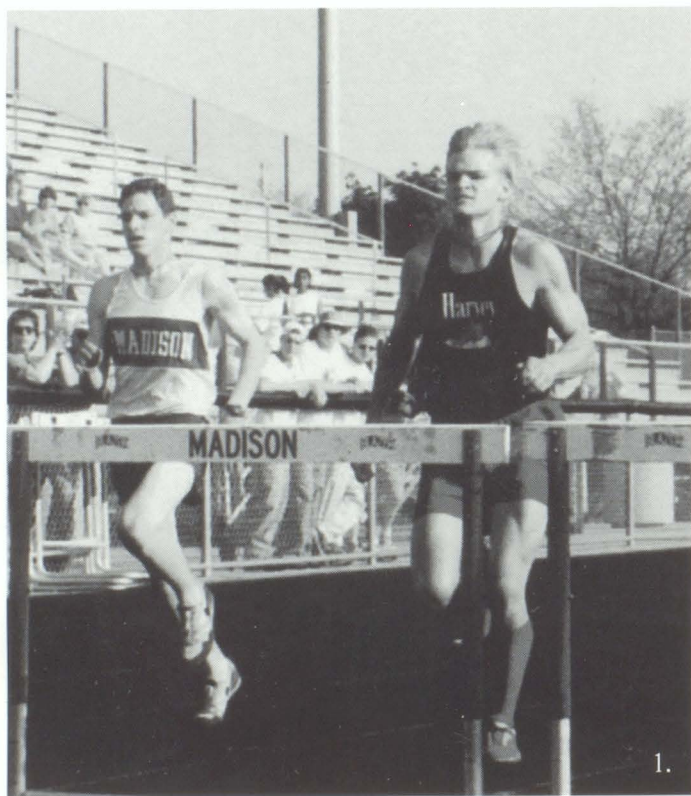

The MHS boys' track team surpassed their opposition by leaps and bounds. Their regular season was a battle, but they managed to keep their competitors bowing down, and a perfect season drove them to sweep NEC's, heads above the rest. With seniors and varsity team members taking the lead, the underclassmen benefited from, as sophomore Joe Pikor said, "hard-working, respectable role models." Jim Smith added, "The team worked hard, including the coaches who took time away from their personal lives to work with us."

Madison's relay teams excelled in their events by breezing by their opponents. The hurdlers held strong in their races, setting personal bests. The distance runners set their pace and maintained it for every meet, while sprint runners devoured opposing teams. Pole vaulters, long jumpers, and high jumpers combined efforts to soar over the pack. The shot put and discus throwers put the team over the top. All of these individuals joined together to mount first place at NEC's.

Dreams came true and goals were achieved for this year's successful team. Asked about the team's future, sophomore Mike March praised the way the group "pulled together as a team" and said: "Our freshman and sophomore classes have made a big step up, and going into the new league, we need to do this. I believe the District meet was our best meet this year. We had a score to settle with Cleveland Heights. We ended up winning with a great effort from our 4 x 400 team."

Determination Prevails

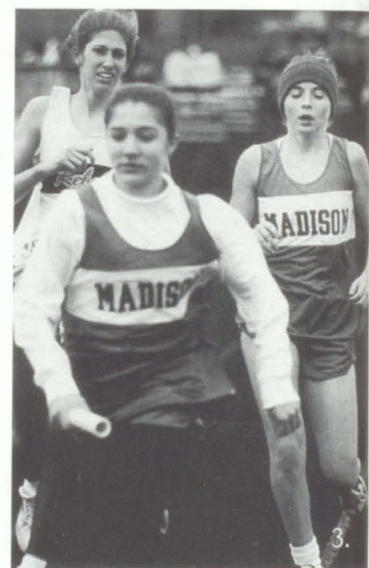

Girls' Varsity Track Team Wins NEC Title

Determination brought the girls' varsity track team to an undefeated season, their last in the NEC conference. The girls concentrated on improving their records both individually and as a team. The 1998 team was able to beat the rival team of Riverside in an easy meet. They then went on to closely beat Conneaut in a needed victory, securing the NEC title. "We knew we had to pull together these two meets and work as a team. At first it looked as if they were the better team, but our hard work and skills proved us wrong," expressed junior captain Megan Hrbek.

With an undefeated season, the girls went in to the last NEC meet with huge hopes of doing well, and they came out with a win over everyone. "All the girls had a wonderful meet. Many personal records were beat and I was very proud of my girls that day. They proved they were ready and could stand up to anything," proudly stated Coach Pelich.

After the win at NEC's, the girls' team traveled to Mentor's District meet. All of the ladies ran excellent, but only six girls were able to move on. The 4 by 800 relay of Francine Rhinehart, Anne Marie Romano, Heather Lavender, and Amy Kahr Sgro were able to grab a spot to the meet with a time of 10:07. Shannon Farr was able to qualify in the shot put and disc. Rickee Wirtzberger snatched a place and also set a new school record in the 300 hurdles. The final victorious performance came from Amy Kahr Sgro in the mile run. "It was so exciting to think I was going to go to regionals my freshman year, but then again it was a little scary," said Francine Rhinehart. Though no one was able to get to state, the future does look bright for this team.

Tennis Marking Their Services

The Blue Streak tennis team did very well this season, surprising everyone with their great success and proving their dedication. In a spring that was sunnier and drier than last year, the tennis team matched all expectations and served up an excellent season. They finished in second place, tied with Jefferson in the NEC.

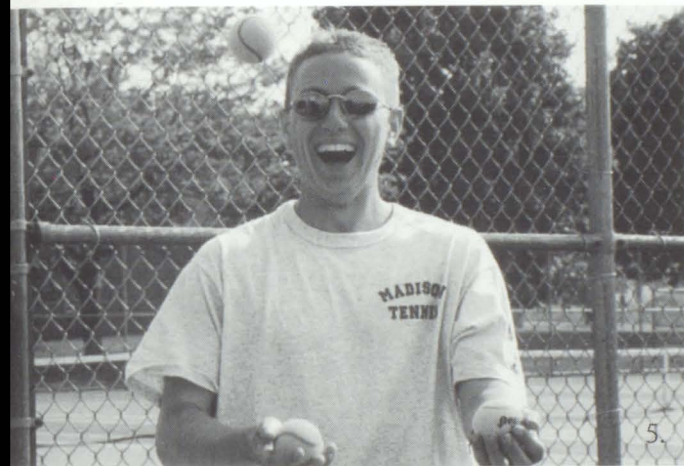

Foreign exchange student Ksenia Stafeeva joined the ranks and strengthened the team, and with several veteran players leading the way, the team was overwhelmed with talent this year. As senior player John Cz explained: "Having played varsity tennis for four years, by far this year was the best season that my teammates and I have endured. Mr. Vidmar was an outstanding coach, as always."

Despite early concerns that they would not have a good season, they finished well. Their record was an excellent 16-3. The tennis team will lose four of their seniors next season, but they hope to stay as strong as they did this year.

Making a Difference

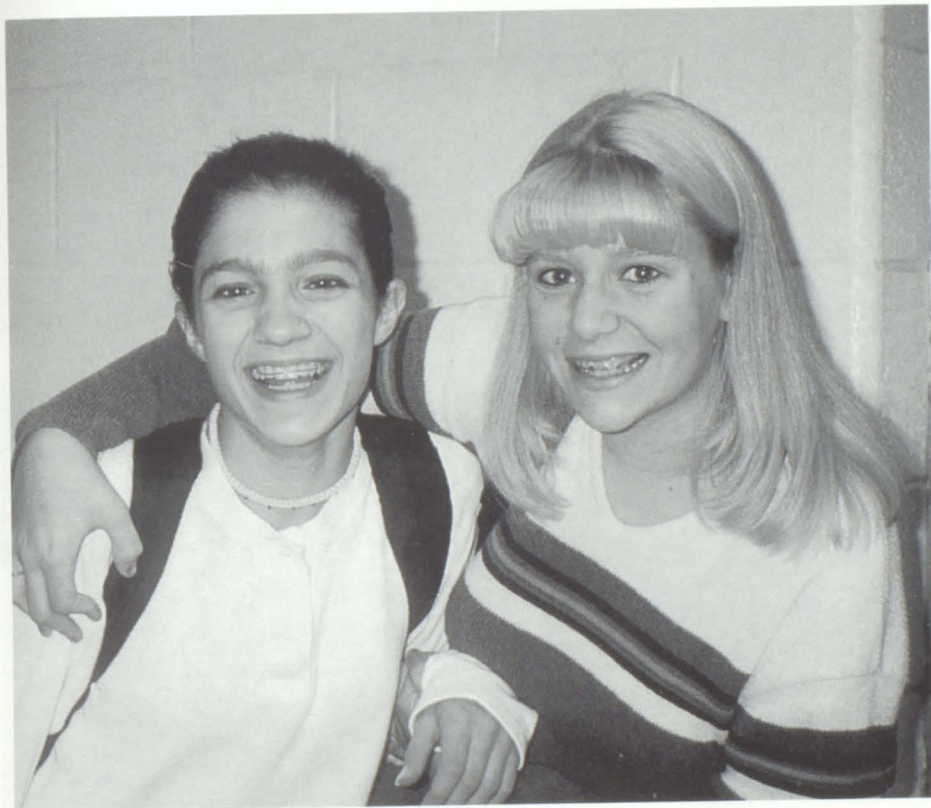

NHS and Student Council Lead the School

Being involved in clubs or activities in high school can be both a challenging and an enjoyable experience. Student Council and National Honor Society are two of the most challenging as well as prestigious clubs at Madison, especially since members must campaign or go through a special selection process. Not only do these clubs make students use their brain power, they are also time consuming. Many students are involved in both clubs.

Mr. Mike Smith, advisor of Student Council, commented, "Student Council is made up of the busiest students in the school because they get involved." To become a part of Student Council, an individual must have people from his class sign a petition either for a representative, class officer, or student council officer. To run against someone else, he must then compose a speech and deliver it in front of his classmates. Those who lose an election automatically become a representative. As officer Becky Webb explained, "By making people who do not win an office a representative, we don't lose the hard workers that way."

To be a part of National Honor Society, an individual must complete an application and write a one-page essay stating why he should be in NHS. The application must then demonstrate the student's accomplishments in four areas: Character, Service, Leadership and Scholarship. New inductee Sarah Cahill quoted, "Being accepted into NHS showed me that working hard for two years has really paid off." Some of the activities NHS has been involved in are "Buy-A-Brain," a bake sale, buying toys for children in hospitals, and the Pumpkin Fest. NHS advisor Mrs. Moskowitz said, "I like being the advisor because I enjoy doing community service; I find it very fulfilling."

▲ Student Council members Anne Marie Romano and Ashley Collinsworth enjoy the camaraderie of a very eventful meeting.

Future Stars Make the Stage Their Own

MHS Thespians Perform for Crowds

Mr. Matt Martello had a very busy year and offered many opportunities to hopeful actors at MHS. In the fall, he directed the drama "Dead Giveaway," a play that was part mystery, part suspense, part comedy. Senior Randy Brunner starred as a politician stymied in his attempt to pursue an affair with the beautiful but married Maija Talikka. Arriving at his vacation home, they discover a dead body (played in a very "lively" manner by Mike Mitchell) and two runaway teenagers on a "Bonnie-and-

Clyde" crime spree (Jeremy Verdi and Sarah Shook).

After a series of one-acts in January, Martello went on to direct the musical "Bye Bye Birdie." This lively show featured many of the same actors and showcased junior Casey Maher as the lucky girl who wins a kiss from the popular heart-throb, Elvis-like Conrad Birdie. Some audience members felt that Katie Watts stole the show with her humorous portrayal of the nagging mother; others felt that honor went to Ben Chervenak for the put-upon father Mr. MacAfee.

The year was a successful one, providing much acting and student-directing experience to students. Adding in the many who worked behind-the-scenes on tech crews or in the orchestra, Mr. Martello involved a lot of MHS students in important cultural experiences. Commenting on his first year, Martello said, "I enjoyed putting on productions at MHS and hope next year will be even better."

2. Senior Jeremy Verdi (far right) threatens Maija Talikka and Randy Brunner with a gun as his girlfriend Sarah Shook looks on during "Dead Giveaway."

Helping Out and Having Fun

Key Club and Ski Club Offer Opportunities

For many years MHS has carried on the tradition of Key Club as a service organization. This year Key Club helped our community in many different ways: collecting clothing for needy families, visiting elementary schools to spread the Christmas spirit, helping at the Bloodmobile, and doing many other things to help our environment. Led by President Tiffany Collinsworth, secretary Jessica Brennen, and treasurer Amy Sintic, Key Club is advised by Mrs. DeLahunty. Membership was up this year as students signed on to lend a helping hand. Key Club also organized Spirit Week to encourage school involvement and student morale.

Because of unusually warm weather, this year wasn't as successful for our ski club, but they had a lot of fun with the snow they had. Mr. Morgan and Mrs. Morgan chaperoned trips to Peek n' Peak each Saturday for day-long adventures. Once there, students could take an hour lesson or just have fun on their own. The club is hoping for more snow next year because skiing on artificial snow just isn't the same.

Spirit Week Makes Way Through MHS

Students Make New Effort to Compete

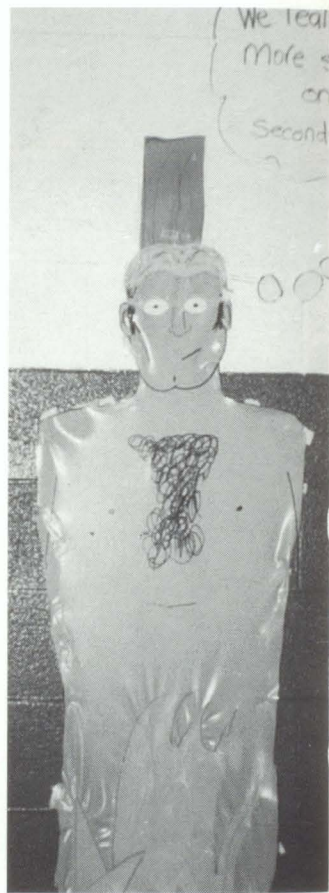

Spirit
We've Got

This year's annual Spirit Week was topped off with a bang. Madison's halls were filled with decorations and students filled with pride. Each class chose a different motif: seniors — the barnyard; juniors — the sixties; sophomores — the jungle; and freshmen — Hawaiian. In previous years there has been absolutely no competition. It has always been juniors and seniors prevailing over the freshmen and sophomores. But in '98 the class of 2000 showed them a thing or two by winning both the hallway and spirit competitions. The hallways were all keenly planned and decorated, with winning places going first to the sophomores, then seniors, juniors, and freshmen.

*“ We had hoped to beat the sophomores one more time; the class spirit wasn't all there for us.” — Senior
Becky Webb*

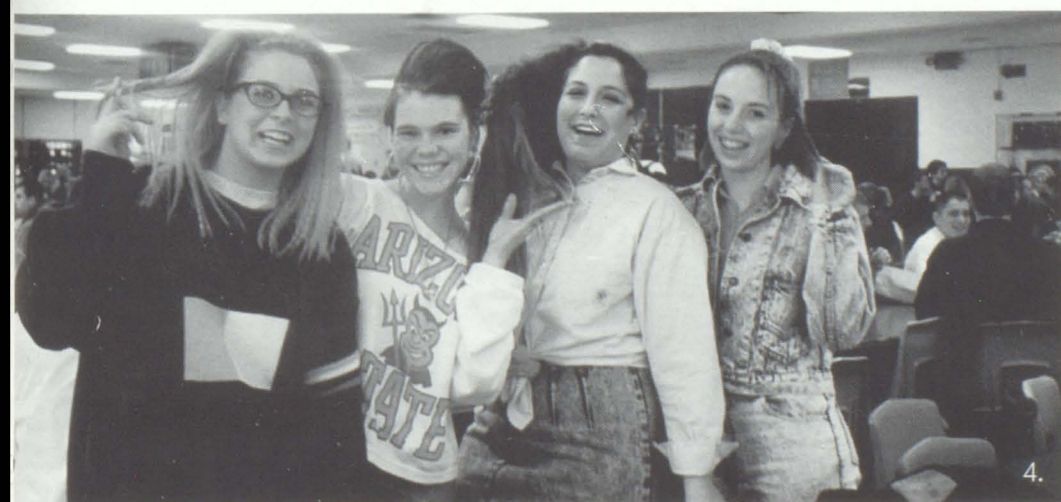

As for the Spirit Points — well, sophomores reigned in that competition too. Spirit points are based upon a series of days in which students are given costume themes. This year's themes varied: Monday was Pajama Day; Tuesday, 80's Day; Wednesday, Hollywood Day; Thursday, class themes.

MHS teacher and Spirit Week Co-director Deb Morgan praised this year's students for their active participation in showing what a true Spirit Week should really be. Spirit Week is a great opportunity for all the students to get involved within their individual classes and the entire school as a collective whole.

Marking Scholastic Achievements

Students Excel Academically

In the pursuit of academic excellence, students at MHS participate in a number of educational experiences and activities outside the school day and in the summer: Academic Challenge Team, Boys' and Girls' State, and Learning About Business (LAB).

Although the Academic Challenge Team did not compete this year on "It's Academic," the team did take several field trips, including adventures at Case Western Reserve University, where they competed in a biography quiz tournament and "Buzzerpalooza." Ready to rumble, junior member Kate Ostrander predicts, "Next year we'll rule!"

Starting a new experience at MHS, this year students were nominated to participate in a state-wide competition held at Hiram College called the Academic Decathlon, advised by Ms. Geddes. Like the Academic Challenge Team, these students met to prepare for their competitions, held in the form of individual tests rather than group contests.

Participating in an activity sponsored by the American Legion, seniors Mike Donovan, Justin Jakovac, Pete Moran, Jesse Cahill, Leah Fike, and Kristi Per Due attended Boys'/Girls' State at Bowling Green State University. Learning about the government through simulation taught these students a great deal. Per Due commented on the fun side of the week, stating, "I'll never forget the toga party or breaking the elevator after fitting 27 girls on it in order to top the boys' record!"

Another summer learning experience, LAB, allowed six MHS students to interact with students from other Lake County high schools in the world of business while staying at Lake Erie College. Important aspects of this week included listening to motivational speakers, making important contacts with business people, and competing against teams to win real stock.

"The week was fun, fun, fun!" There was no question about it — the long days at LAB had finally gotten to Leah Fike, shown here posing at one of the many business places visited during the week. ▶

Model U.N.

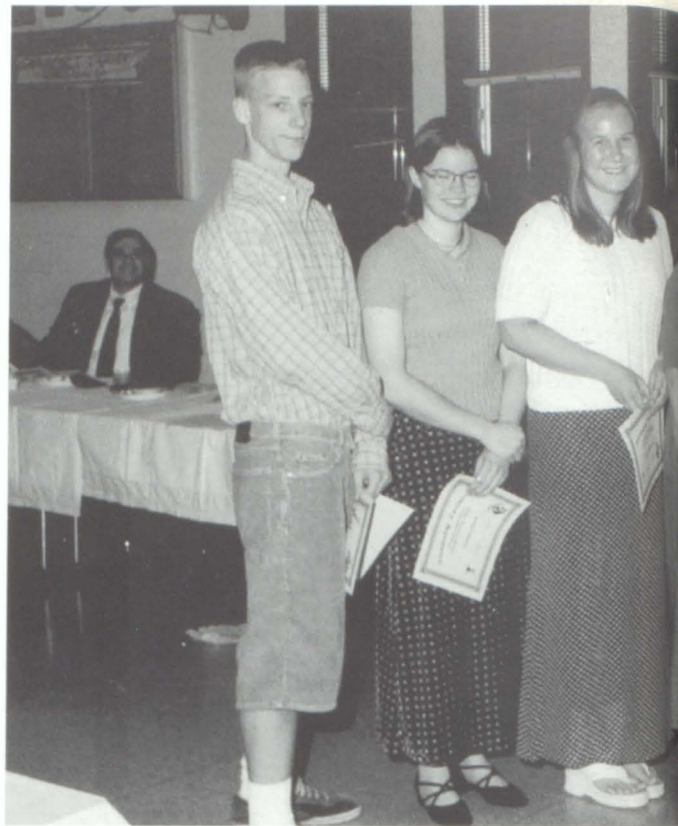

Making Their Mark on the World

The Model U.N. is a competition among numerous delegates from various schools representing countries around the world. Students debate issues that the actual United Nations debates, attempting to compromise and find solutions to these problems in their country's viewpoint. Mike Donovan, vice-president, summed up the experience: "It's a great program for the school. It joins together kids from all cliques and teaches us how to deal with problems through discussion. It's a lot o' fun!"

The model U.N. attends a number of conferences throughout the school year. The conferences attended in '97-'98 were held in Jefferson; Niagara Falls, Canada; the University of Chicago; Youngstown State University; and Kent State University, Ashtabula. Andrew Bradnan commented on the trips: "The trips are good and it's a great learning experience."

All students are welcome to join. The current club members are in the process of establishing a new charter detailing guidelines and membership. Those who enjoy to debate and are interested in current events will love the U.N.!

Foreign Students Add World-Wide Flare

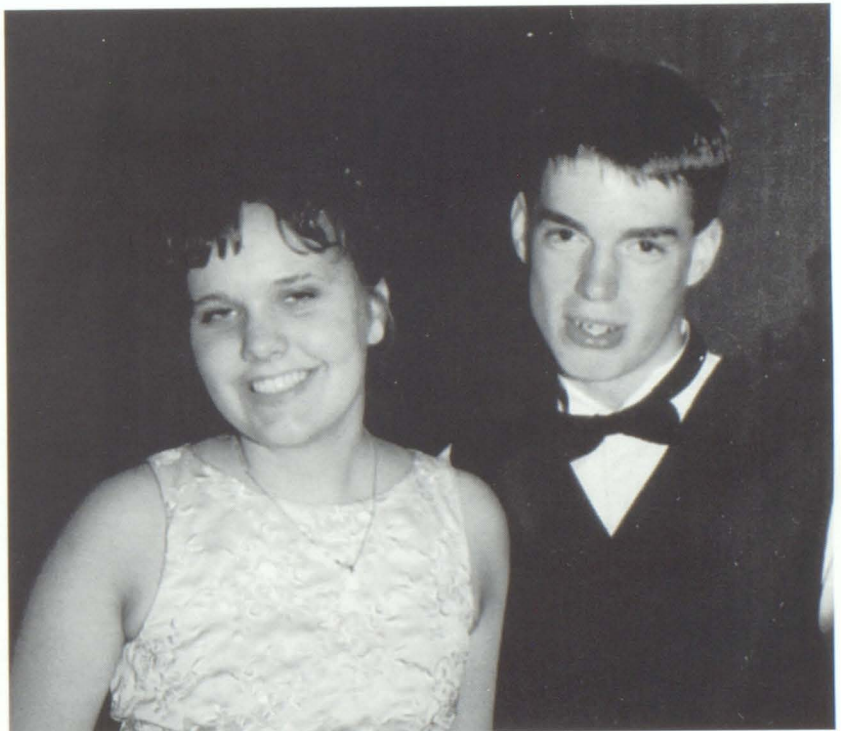

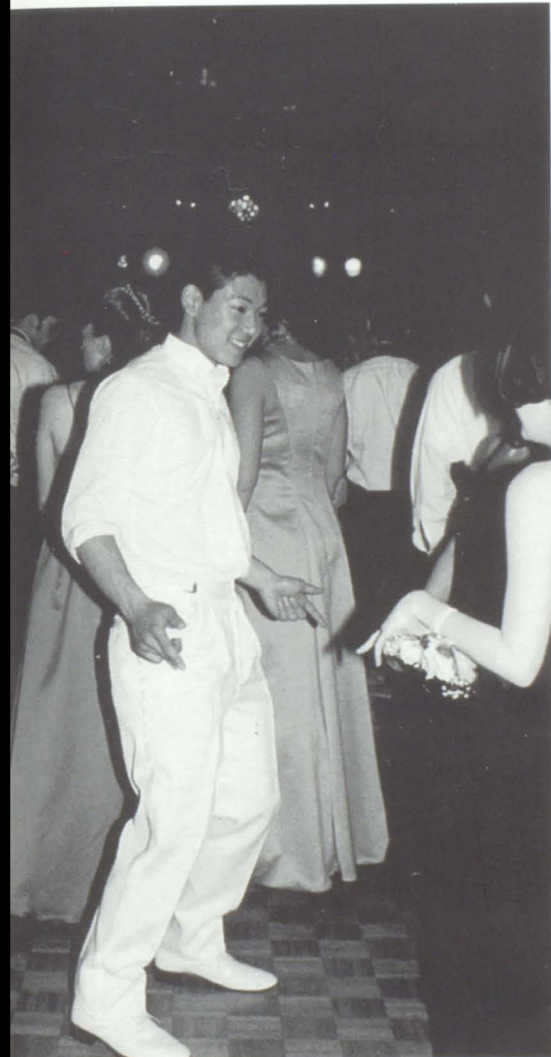

The 1997-98 foreign exchange students comment on their experience at MHS:

Connie Stock: "It's very interesting to be away from home and from my parents. There is a lot more freedom here. But my family here are really like my second family."

Jens Brede: "I like the people, especially the women! For fun I like to go out to Mentor, play soccer, and basketball with my friends."

Ksenia Stafeeva: "I love the American malls! They're a lot cheaper than at home."

Kyohea Shima: "It's almost the same as Japan, so I enjoy it, and feel at home. I love American basketball and the girls!"

Making a Difference

Helping Other Students

Madison High School's chapter of Students Against Driving Drunk (S.A.D.D.) feels very strongly about helping other students deal with the pressure of drinking put on by other students. This year before prom the members of S.A.D.D. received letters from the sixth graders at Madison Middle School which they then distributed to each and every senior. These letters were written to influence the senior class not to drink or drive before or after prom.

They also encouraged everyone who was attending prom to sign a Prom Promise pamphlet promising that they would not drink and drive on prom. As a bonus the seniors also received a cool keychain. Students who are a part of S.A.D.D. worked hard all year with fund-raisers, sponsoring dances, and educating their peers about the dangers of drugs and alcohol.

Prom Memories

The 1998 Junior-Senior Prom was held on May 16 this year at DeRubertis Party Center. Working along with their advisors Ms. Busse and Ms. Eiseman, several dedicated juniors decorated according to the motif of water to match their theme, "Drifting on a Memory."

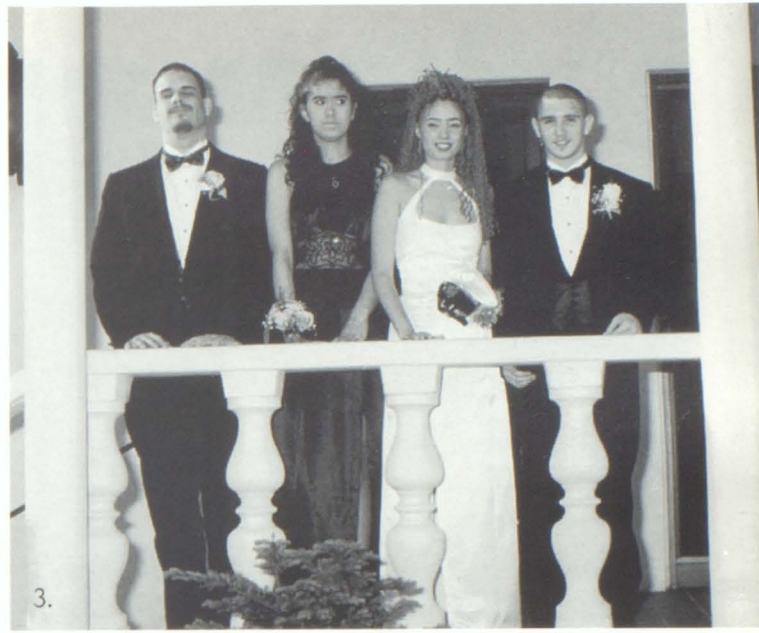

Everybody was happy to see juniors Jeff Henn and Tony Cicero make it to prom after their lengthy recoveries from two separate accidents this school year. Crews from Cleveland television stations even showed up to film Jeff for their evening news. At the end of the prom, everyone took home a souvenir candle and many memories that will last them a lifetime.

As senior Alyssa Locke commented, "The best thing about prom was spending a last great night together with all my friends."

Another Class Leaves Its Mark

The Class of 1998 Makes Lasting Memories

On the bright and surprisingly cool Saturday morning of June 6, 1998, 215 students — led by valedictorian Ted Square and salutatorian Trevor Jenkins — graduated from Madison High School. Class president Jeremy Verdi welcomed the group and presented the class gifts of a large video screen, an aerial photograph of the school campus, and an improved news room to be renovated next school year.

Next Superintendent Stan Heffner stepped up to the podium and praised the accomplishments of the Class of '98: "The character of this class has been spawned in its dreams, reflected in its closeness, tested by a demanding curriculum, tempered by tragedies, matured by its decisions, and disciplined by the reality of a world we all hope they will change for the better."

In addition to the great performances of the band, choir, and show choir, graduation ceremonies offered a new form of entertainment. The crowd filled with cheers and tears as they watched the special video presentation of old photos and video clips of the past year's events prepared by Mrs. Deb Morgan and Mr. Bob Richmond. Another first occurred later that evening when a second graduation ceremony was held at 6 P.M. for members of the boys' track team who had just returned from state competition in Columbus.

"We will not be taken down.
We will stand tall and proud.
We all have a common bond
— the walls of Madison High."
Jeremy Verdi, Class President

"Make the world a better place. Do what ever you want to do. Do it with a 100%. And do it good."
Ted Square, Valedictorian

"S-U-C-C-E-S-S!" was the focus of the speech by MHS salutatorian Trevor Jenkins.
The graduates went "success!"
wild!

1. Looking very pleased with her accomplishment, Emily Faulkner crosses the stage to receive her diploma.
2. Madison High School honors its four retiring "senior faculty": Mr. Gary Piker, Mr. John Miller, Mrs. Joanne McMahon, and Mr. Jerry McIntyre. We'll all miss them!
3. Jesse Guzowski models his cap and gown as he waits to pick up his diploma after graduation ceremonies.
4. Missy Evans lines up to begin the march down to the gymnasium.
5. "What do we do next?" Tim Stephens looks a little confused as he waits for further instructions.
6. The next time you see this much white will be at somebody's wedding! Sharing a moment at graduation are (l to r) Maria Nadalin, Amy Sintic, April Smith, Robin Smiley, Jennifer Singley, and Devonee Smith.

Perfection Corporation

We've been providing superior service and constant innovation to our customers for 50 years. And we owe our success to the consistent hard work, trust and vision of every person in the company. Most of these people are your neighbors. Many were born and raised right here in Lake and Ashtabula Counties. Their day-to-day acts of creativity and leadership over the years have added up to Perfection's superior performance.

MADISON McDONALD'S THE Student Center

Congratulations Graduating Seniors

Going to McDonald's is almost as much a part of school as going to class. You've made us the place to meet, talk, have a good time, celebrate victories, and forget defeats. You've made McDonald's more than just another place to eat, and that's why at McDonald's we say. . .
Congratulations to the Madison Senior Class!

The 1997 - '98

Cauldron:

A Publication of the Madison High School Blue Streaks

Six hundred copies of Volume 69 of the Cauldron, entitled "Making Our Mark," were printed by the Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, Texas. Most copy was set in a 10-point Genesis font, with headlines in Muse Script. Copy was submitted on IBM disks using Taylor's UltraVision program. The cost of the yearbook was $45 ($35 / $40 presale).

The yearbook staff would like to express our sincerest thanks to all the students, friends, and parents and to all the administrators, teachers, club advisors, coaches, and office staff who assisted and supported us throughout the year. A special thanks to all those who contributed their time, advice, photos, etc. to the 1997-'98 Cauldron, including: Barbian Photography, Mary Jackson, Mrs. Katoch (mother of Ken & Chris Burr), Beth Leonard, Debbie Morgan, Kevin Morgan, Coleen Moskowitz, Bob Richmond, and (last but certainly not least) our trusty and always-on-call Taylor Representative, Scott Weber.

One final note. . . please remember that the Cauldron is a student publication. We work very hard to avoid, find, and correct errors, and we apologize for those we missed. This year's staff included seniors Katie Brothers, Jill Buckholz, Amanda Channels, Lyndsay Seymour, Annick Toulouse, Scarlett Asbury, Randy Brunner, Scott Hopkins, Alyssa Locke, Kristen Muscato, Kristi Per Due, Becky Webb; juniors Gina Emmett, Amy Kahr Sgro, Molly Morgan, Jennifer Sincek; and sophomore Erica Izzarelli.
