Capturing the moments of 2003

Moments. Every second of our lives can be separated into a single moment in time. Whether we are cheering on the Blue Streaks at a football game or cramming for the latest English test, everything we do is a snapshot in the album of life.

It is those snapshots that act as a display of our lives to those around us. As A&E Biography routinely says, "Every life has a story." Each unique story brings out the true person that lies within us all.

While our days are filled with running around from class to practice to work and home, we try to remind ourselves that everything has its end. No matter how hectic or challenging life can be, those times are only temporary. The only thing we have after those moments fade are the memories.

The book you hold tells many stories. It is a collage of the moments of 2003. Obviously, not every story can be told, but what you see is our best attempt at collecting life as only those at MHS know it.

Combining the moments within this book and the ones you still hold onto inside your mind will keep the memories of 2003 alive long after the years have passed.

Here's to the laughs, the tears, the late night study parties, the big victories...and all the moments of 2003...

What's going on here? Seniors Kristi Jackson and Matt Distin trade places for a party during Halloween time.

Move. Shiver. Blush. Wink. Cheer. Run. Question. Dance. Listen. See.

Hollywood Homecoming! It may not have been a night with the celebrities, but Madison High School got its touch of Hollywood with the annual Homecoming Dance.

A festival for October! MHS experienced its first-ever Octoberfest featuring apple-bobbing, pumpkin-carving, and pie-eating contests. The event was sponsored by The Streak and Student Council.

Fridays are for football! The weekly games signify another aspect of the start of a new school year. MHS had a lot to celebrate this year as the team finished 9-2, assuring a spot in the Division I Football Playoffs.

Dancing in December! Members of the MHS show choir, Eclectica, keep in step during their Nutcracker routine. The dance was part of the MHS Winter Concert which showcased some of the various talents of the MHS Music Department.

A new year, a new run at the playoffs! The girls basketball team made it to the Division I Sectional Tournament, giving students something to celebrate during the long winter months.

Football frenzy! The 2002 season was one filled with lots of excitement for the varsity squad. MHS finished the season at 9-2, making it to the first round of the playoffs.

Surprise! Surprise! Members of the softball team throw freshman Maggie Mackura a birthday party during one of the team's tournament games in Columbus.

Study. Party. Sleep. Practice. Cry. Perform. Laugh. Smile. Love. Visit. Learn.

The enchantment of the evening lives on for Prom Queen Jessie Hart and King Josh Ferra. A record number of students packed Manakiki Country Club for the 2003 dance.

Seniors Molly Gehring, Chris Burden, and Monica Ungers hold up their caps in triumph after putting in four memorable years at MHS.

Clear the way! Homecoming Queen Stephanie Sparkman and Mike Dunkle head on up to the stage for the crowning of the king. Senior Vanden Kovacs earned the honor at the 2002 dance.

We're #1! Juniors Amanda Titman and Amber Nowakowski, and seniors Allison Izzarelli and Rachel Pike display some unity before the Riverside game. The girls basketball team went on to play in the Div. I Sectional Tournament.

Communicate. Think. Create. Relax. Go. Stand. Watch. Impress. Live.

It was a winter wonderland! Or it at least seemed like that to those who attended the 2003 Winter Formal Dance. Students danced under the theme of "Oriental Odyssey" during the Key Club sponsored event.

Spring and spirit! The 2003 MHS Spirit Week was brought to a close with the annual tradition of decorating the hallways. The annual powder-puff football game also took place during the busy week, with a victory by the senior girls.

Swinging into sports! Softball, tennis, track, and baseball started another season of athletics at Madison High School. Here, a member of the MHS Baseball Team steps up to bat.

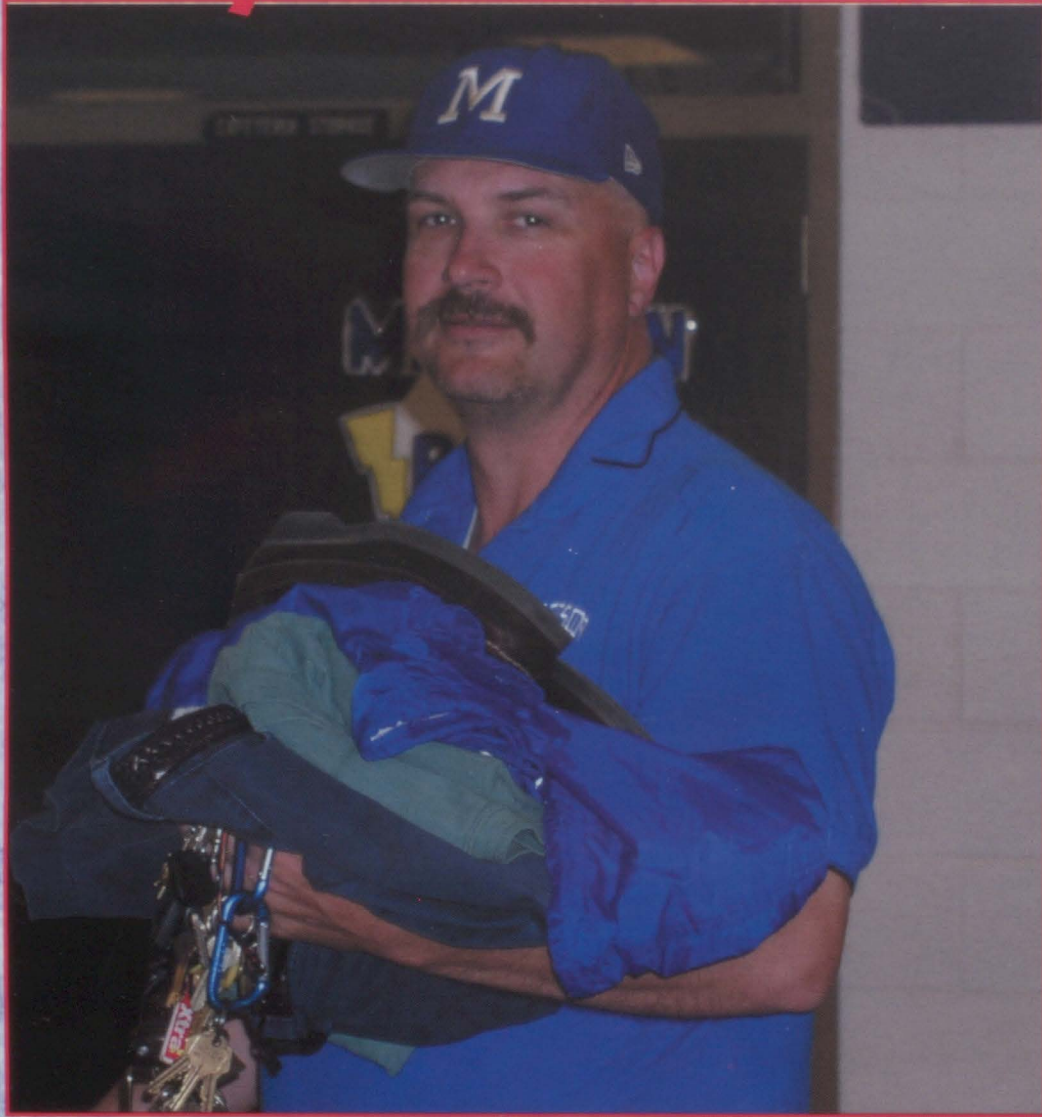

May madness! Prom, finals, award ceremonies, and senior projects kept students busy as the year began to wind down. Above, the 2003 Prom Court poses for one last picture before the evening comes to an end.

That's a wrap! Another school's year comes to a close with the mark of the 127th Commencement Ceremony at MHS. Best of luck to all the members of the Class of 2003.

Dedicated in loving memory of Terry A. Hietanen

“Where your talents and the needs of the world cross, there lies your vocation.”--Artistole

Everything he said pertained to softball and life. He taught me so much without knowing it. I'll miss him.--Jessica Rose

Mr. Hietanen was a caring, supportive teacher who strived to make everyone feel successful and make everyone feel important. His passion for teaching will be truly missed by students and his friendship missed by many.--Mrs. Linda Craigo

*Mr. Hietanen--
You were more than a teacher,
a helper and a friend,
You pulled us through our problems
When there seemed no end.
--Sondra McCourt*

My memories of Mr. Hietanen . . . .

TERRY,
You were always:
worried about whether you were a good teacher . . .
wondering if you were doing enough . . .
wondering if you were coaching to develop character . . .
concerned about being a good dad to Paul . . .
Well you were!
Good job, good and faithful servant
GOOD COACH, TEACHER, DAD AND WORKER.
--Mr. Mike Hanes

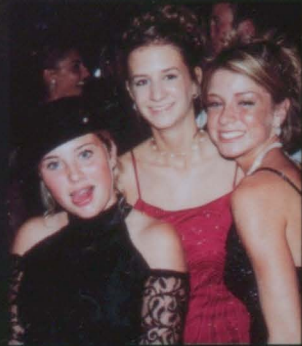

*He will be missed as a teacher, a coach, a colleague
... and a friend*

...The Spirit of MHS

From the elegant dresses of Prom to the rugged wife-beaters of football games to the creative costumes of Spirit Week, the changing faces of the students of MHS expressed an array of enthusiasm and excitement. Stepping into the beautifully decorated hall of Manakiki and seeing the stunningly dressed students, it was almost unthinkable to imagine these same students months earlier screaming at a football game, tackling each other in a vicious game of powder-puff football, or dressing themselves in a variety of funny, and sometimes repulsive, costumes in the name of school spirit. The character and individuality of this group of students knew no bounds. Whether it was attending a school dance, cheering on the football team, or decorating a spirit hallway, the students of MHS united as a team, upholding their right to a year filled with anticipation, enjoyment and irreplaceable memories.

"I celebrated my birthday by supporting my team and smearing paint on guys' chests!!" senior Kim Piorkowski exclaimed. Fellow seniors Rachelle Orris and Melissa Kuntz didn't appear to have much trouble painting these 13 well-sculpted guys, either.

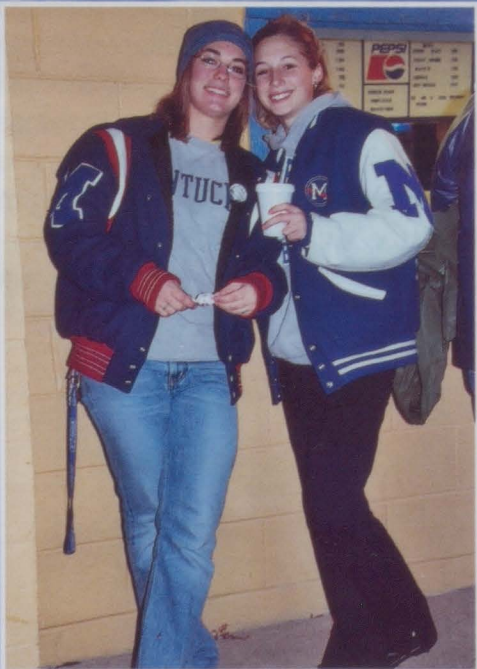

Later on that night...these 14 spirited Streaks proudly display the hard work of artists Kim Piorkowski, Melissa Kuntz, and Rachelle Orris. These fans definitely supported their team, painting up for every home game.

"Are you ready?!" Senior Charlie Gorman keeps these fans entertained by showing them the proper way to carry a football, as well as keeping them ready for every kick-off. It's no wonder this enthusiastic senior got voted Most School Spirit!

Taking a break from the action, juniors Amber Nowakowski and Jen Butram refuel their energy at halftime of the last football game of the season against VA-SJ.

There are no fare-weather fans here! Bethany Moles, Jessica Kallio, Felicia Zirkle, Lyndsay Schmid, Rachel Haury, and Eric Hughes cheer as the football team takes their last game into overtime.

Spirit Fans

Spirited streaks show their support

The Human Pyramid...these guys might not be cheerleaders, but they sure have their technique down. Seniors Chris Burden, Chris Durham, Nick Horvath, and Nick Jefferson show some support for freshman Kory Piorkowski, as well as the Blue Streaks' football team.

Now we know why there are no male cheerleaders...although these guys seem to have the moves down to an art. Seniors Nick Horvath and Chris Durham mimic the cheerleaders during their "Let's Go Blue" cheer.

Touchdown! The football team gives the spirit fans something to cheer about as they score their first touchdown against Warren Howland.

Giving his friend a little boost, Nick Horvath helps balance Charlie Gorman on the rails at Euclid's stadium, allowing him to lead the crowd in the kick-off cheer. "Blood makes the grass grow, kill, kill, kill!"

Loud and proud of it... senior Josh Sumpter has nothing but love as he proudly participates as the "E" of "LET'S" in cheering the Streaks on to a victory over Geneva. "Let's Go Blue Streaks!"

Josh Nunnally, Matt Patton, Paul Compton, Jon Earley, Rachel Pike, Dylan Morris and Sara Fike yell in encouragement to the boys basketball team during their overtime win against Geneva.

After cheering the boys basketball team through an all out brawl against cross-town rival Geneva, Jared Pikor, Kit Lashley, Chris Anderson, and Chris Zundel take a breather on the stage to show everyone who's number one in their eyes...Madison!

One look at these screaming fans is enough to get anyone on their feet, especially when trying to get the attention of Governor Taft, who paid the game a special visit.

Spirit Week 2003

1. We're gonna B-U-S-T bust 'em! Even with their valiant efforts, the senior powder puff cheerleaders got busted by the juniors.

2. Waiting for the volcano to erupt, freshmen Alicia Hess and Colleen Smith hang out in their hallway.

3. Getting jungle fever, sophomore Caitlin Kawalec tries not to go bananas during spirit week.

4. Prepared for a long day of hiking through the halls, seniors Nick Verdi and Chris Zundle wade in the river of the senior hallway.

Shaken Stars:
Senior Cassi Menko catches some rays in the Freshmen Hawaiian Paradise. Cooling off from the hot summer sun, juniors Amanda Argo and Tara Zgodinski stop for a drink at the lemonade stand. That has to hurt! Junior Joe McFarland demonstrates his flexibility. Two of a kind, junior Elena Casisas and sophomore Amanda Shepard look identical on twin day.

One Enchanted Evening

Capturing the magical moments at Manakiki

2003 Prom Court

The 2003 Prom Court: Matt Stanic, King Josh Ferra, Queen Jesse Hart, Jeremy Gerger, Vanden Kovacs, Joe Judd, Melissa Kuntz, Molly Gehring, Josh Dean, Kim Piorkowski, Stephanie Sparkman, and Monica Ungers.

IN A PERFECT WORLD

Brittany Kehn and Chad Butler cuddle together in the upstairs dining room of Manakiki.

Taking advantage of the beautifully decorated staircase, Cyndi Lee, Amanda Banker and April Batalion are all smiles as they squeeze next to their dates Jon Curran, Mike Crelin, and Matt Stewart.

"We're havin' a PARTY!"

Displaying the most popular colors for "The Enchanted Evening," Allison Izzarelli, Kaylee Emmett, and Lauren Kidder smile as brightly as their dresses sparkle.

2. Seniors Rachel Pike, Ingrid Brainard, and Lindsay Schmid show the boys how it's done on the dance floor.
3. Expressing his love for veggies, Mike Dunkle chomps down on his beans during dinner.
4. Chuck White and Heather Britton dance during a slow number.

Monica Ungers and Jeremy Gerger

Signing up to get their pictures taken, Tom Collinsworth gives fellow senior Ann Brackman a hand in filling out a picture form.

Sarah Piercy and Mike Samplak eye each other up on the dance floor.

1. & 4. At the end of the night these seniors will have to say good-bye to Hollywood and their final homecoming, but they will never say good-bye to the close friends they have made at MHS.

3. Wild and crazy! Sarah Johnson, Brittany Nowakowski, Val Johnson, and Cherish Thomlison chill for a second near the refreshment stand before they go strut their stuff on the dance floor.

5. The night before the dance premiere, Katelyn Orris and Liz Bettie take the first walk down the red carpet.

6. Let's go, girls! Danielle Cline teaches Ashley Wickert, Brittany Burkholder, and Dawn Bittner a new country line dance.

7. Volleyball anyone? Seniors Tess Polivka, Rachelle Orris, Kimothy Piorkowski and Melissa Kuntz take a dance break and play a quick game.

8. Having a blast! Alex Hearn gets really pumped and jumps off the stage and crowd-surfs over the out-of-control dancers.

A Hollywood Extravaganza

1. Getting ready for the dance floor, Mandy McCabe and Shannon Cavanagh ditch their uncomfortable shoes.
2. Working late into the night, Kristi Jackson covers the walls of the cafeteria with sheets of gold stars to add a touch of Hollywood.
3. In the spotlight, Stephanie Sparkman and Vanden Kovacs stole the show when they were crowned king and queen.
4. These "Rebels Without a Cause" chill with their new friend James Dean on the outskirts of the dance.
5. And the winner is Mike Walbeck sheds a tear as he accepts a giant-sized Oscar.

...Sense of Belonging

Long after we leave this place most of us call home, we will all take lasting memories which will be cherished for a lifetime. Most memories each of us have involve our friends and activities we took part in. We danced at the Winter Formal and gave blood for the blood drive, both sponsored by Key Club. FCA helped the community by putting on a soup kitchen for the Salvation Army, the drama club entertained us with plays such as Skin of our Teeth and Little Shop of Horrors, and NHS adopted a platoon in Iraq to support. Clubs and organizations helped bring us together to meet new people and work as one accomplishing many goals. From Ski Club to Student Council, students with all different personalities joined hands to make memories happen. Whether making a difference in the lives of the community and the school, or entertaining us with tremendous acting performances, or keeping us safe through grim reaper activities, these clubs and organizations taught us many lifelong lessons which will be carried with us forever, wherever the journey takes us.

1. She has the easy job. Junior Lindsey Taylor helps do her share by making some popcorn for guests at the Halloween party.

2. Just in time for the holidays. Club members Alison Fisher, Carolyn Fisher, Casey Toward, and Maria Soriano present a check from the club for their donation to the Madison Ministerial Association.

3. They must be whipped! Some club members find time to rest after participating in the March of Dimes Walk at Six Flags Worlds of Adventure. Members raised a minimum of $125 each to participate in the walk.

We're not cold...really! Sarah Robinson, Jason Wild, Shanon Weber, and Nick Verdi huddle together to warm up while doing some community service work at Bill Stanton Community Park.

Singing songs of the season

Club goes caroling to Inn-Madison

Juniors Monica Porostosky, Sarah Robinson, Bethany Moles, Erin Robinson, and sophomore Justine Harper seem to be having a great time at Inn-Madison. The Club traveled to the nursing home to sing Christmas carols and talk with some of the residents.

Did somebody say "Bingo?" Junior Amanda Sadowski and seniors Ashley Moles and Maria Soriano play a little game of Bingo with two of the residents of Inn-Madison.

Simplicity Is Just an Illusion

Key Club continues track of excelling in community service

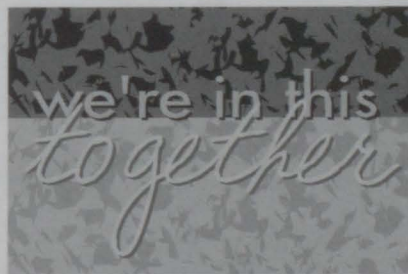

It's a party! These students take a break during the Second-annual Community Halloween Party at Stanton Park. The Key Club helped run the games, concessions, and events scheduled for the day.

Helping others do a good deed. Sophomore Ashley Wroblewski supports Junior Justin Nowakowski during the school blood drive. The club helps sponsor the event twice each year, along with the American Red Cross.

Between two worlds

'Oriental Odyssey' spices up Winter Formal extravaganza

Senior Elizabeth Beattie and sophomore Alicia Weiss have a great time at the Winter Formal hosted by Key Club.

Senior court members Ingrid Brainard and Eric Hughes walk down the runway at the Winter Formal.

“We had a girls night out in the Orient, full of dancing, laughing, and partying hard!”
—Kori Egeland”

These girls are having the time of their lives at the dance. Kori Engelend and Katie Varner brought their friends with them to the Winter Formal for a girl's night out.

The oriental theme of the Winter Formal reminded foreign exchange students Shino Yoshimoto and Sui Iino of their life-styles back home.

Work it! Let me see you work it! It looks like sophomore Sarah Mullen and juniors Brandon Seitler and Rose Gluvna show that they can flip and reverse it out on the dance floor.

Senior Mike Stoltz and sophomore Ashley Wrobleski take a walk on the bridge of love at the 2003 Winter Formal.

Who is that? It's none other than our own cameraman, Charlie Gorman, as he gets ready for the big event.

Mastermind Dana Poling offers his thoughts during the Winter Formal, "If you were lucky you might of gotten a dance.."

See, the king and queen aren't just dramatic on the stage. Joe Kuhlman and Kristen Andres give each other the thumbs up after being crowned.

Yah!!! These girls really know how to get down and funky. Jesse Rose, Jacqueline Bende, and Amanda Argo dance the night away.

Look at those crazy people clowning around at the Winter Formal. Vicki Smith, Felicia Zirkle, Jen Shafer, Carl Stahl, Mike Walbeck, Brittany Phelps, Shane Brennen and guest really get into the groove.

Ladies and Gentlemen, we introduce the cast and crew of Skin of Our Teeth.

Rachel Gerard delivers her monologue as Esmerelda, the fortune teller.

Henry Antrobus (Josh Dean) kindly asks Ms. Tremayne (Ashley Elder) for some saltwater taffy.

Sabina the maid (Audrey Leonard) shows her frustration with Mr. Antrobus.

Ashley Elder puts the finishing touches on Joe Kuhlman's makeup before show time.

"Ohh Mrs. Antrobus!!" cries Sabina (Audrey Leonard) as she clings to Mrs. Antrobus's (Rachel Klimkowitz) leg.

2002 Fall Play

After hearing the title, the audience assumed this year's play would be anything but normal, and they were right. From pet dinosaurs to the Greek philosopher Aristotle, this play kept the audience's attention glued to the stage from curtain to curtain. The story begins in Excelsior, New Jersey, at the home of George Antrobus (played by Joe Kuhlman) and his wife and children. The play takes the audience through the invention of the wheel and survival during the Ice Age. Using amusing situations, it portrays how we, the human race, have survived many crises and hardships and pulled through "by the skin of our teeth."

Behind the scenes, Jessie Scheve gets Rachel Klimkowitz ready for the stage.

The face of a genius, Homer (Brandon Egy) waits to go on stage.

Rick Boonstra ponders his next line before delivering his monologue.

After a long business trip, George Antrobus (Joe Kuhlman) arrives home to his wife, kids, and dinosaur.

Brandon Lichtinger and Matt Gehring in a last minute run-through discuss the meaning of life.

Sui Iino, a foreign exchange student who fit right in at MHS, gets snugly with Madison's very own white ape.

It was a girl's night out for foreign exchange students Sui Iino, Shino Yoshimoto and Camilla Gerbassi. All three of them enjoyed their first prom night.

During a spring International Club meeting, Rose Gluvna chooses the colors she wants to use for the flowers she is going to make.

Experiencing Other Cultures

Foreign Exchange students Juan Granda, Sui Iino, Katja Klose, Shino Yoshimoto and Camilla Gerbassi are happy to be at the awards banquet standing with Mr. Fisher and Ms. France.

Teamwork was the most important aspect of International Club. Everybody helped each other trying to get things done.

Maria Norman poses with an Asian dish she made for the International Club meeting.

2003 International Club: Mrs. Lennox, Branden Setler, Becky Wilson, Andrea Oliver, Linda Turner, Maria Norman, Rose Gluvna and Holly Engler.

Mrs. Lennox took over as advisor for the International Club and did a very good job this year.

Andrea Oliver proposes that the club sponsor an International Night.

President Kristen Andres welcomes everyone to the 2003 NHS Induction Ceremony.

Brandon Lichtinger and his mom share a moment of pride after the 2003 NHS Induction Ceremony.

Alison and Carolyn Fisher file into the lecture hall with all of the other inductees.

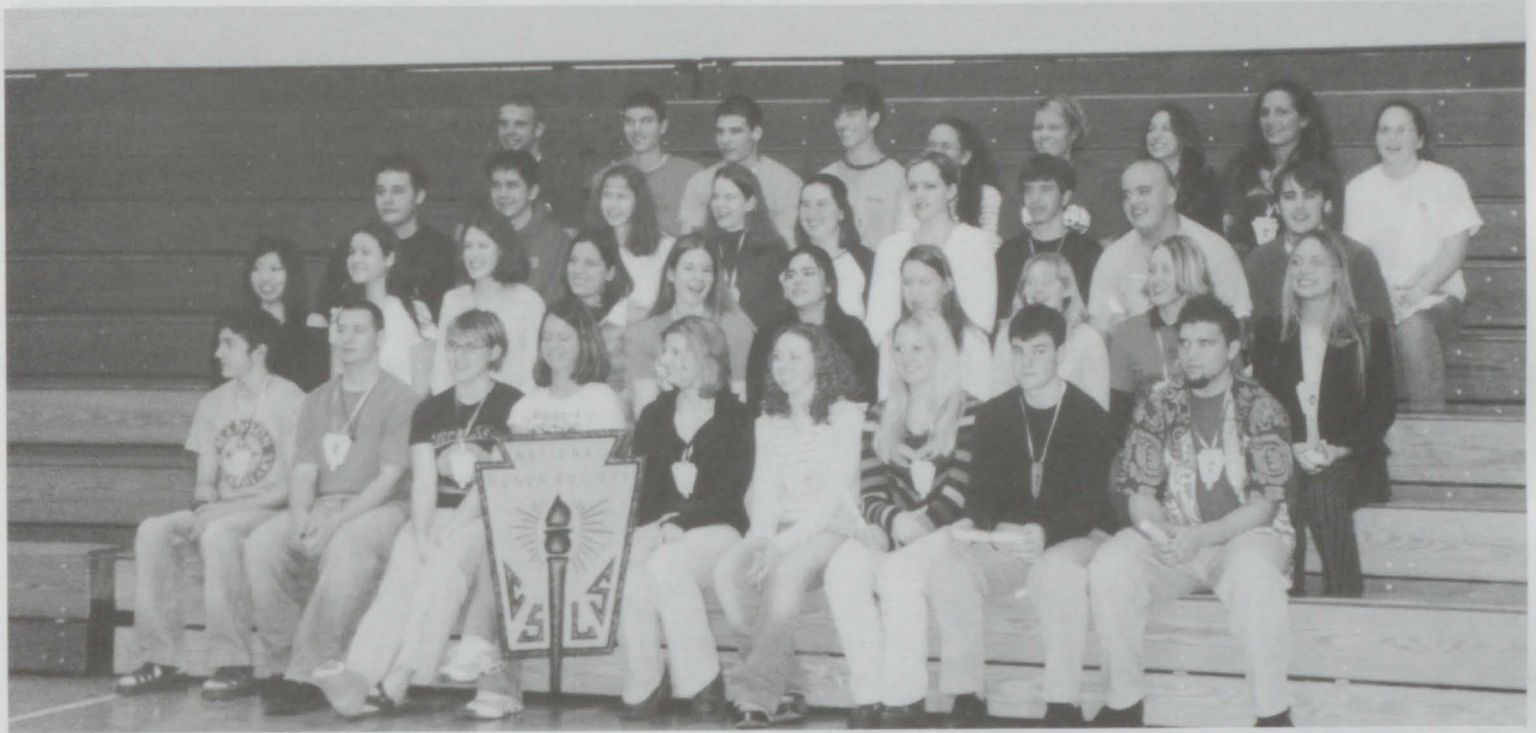

Junior Greg Church signs the induction book as senior NHS member Karla Kershaw looks on to serve as a witness.

NHS—The Honor of a Lifetime

Or at least of a junior or senior year

As new NHS inductees, these students are finally able to experience fully the acknowledgment of their hard work.

A feast fit for kings? Close. After the 2003 NHS Induction Ceremony the members and their friends and family members were invited to celebrate with some refreshments.

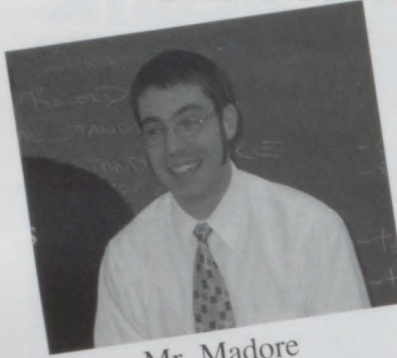

Rachel Klimkowicz and Alicia Egy hand Emily Byers her NHS pin and certificate.

Shelley Herron and Katie Nicholson spend a few moments together before entering the lecture hall.

"SADD was really successful this year, and I'm proud of everyone who helped out. Thanks guys!"- SADD president Katie Spath.

"Don't do drugs!" says everyone's favorite TI advisor Mr. Hertrick.

SADD and TI

Throughout the year students are faced with tough decisions. Students Against Destructive Decisions (SADD) and Teen Institute (TI) try to demonstrate the right choices to make. With activities like the Grim Reaper, Prom Promise, Rocking the Ramps, and various dances these groups work hard to raise money. The money then goes to specific organizations around the community, and also to help do other programs the rest of the year. Both groups do their part to show kids the right choice to make. Without them there wouldn't be the dances after football games in the beginning of the year and more importantly there would be less awareness of the dangers of drugs and alcohol.

Look at the beautiful flower Teen Institute planted!

The grim reaper and her associate find new ways to bring justice to those who drink and drive.

TI members Brandon Egy, Joe Kuhlman, Ashley Elder, Krystal Posavad, Sarah Holl, and Lindsey Taylor goof off instead of doing their work at the Rocking the Ramps.

Stay drug free

Katie! What in the world is the president of SADD doing out of the meeting?

Tom Weiss and Mike Delillo are so dedicated. They went to every event that TI hosted.

1. Seniors Kristen Andres, Maria Soriano and junior Jessica Rose strut their stuff for the audience.
 2. Baily Venable and Dawn Bittner love having the job of co-stage managers.
 3. This is one girl you don't want to upset. Don't be late for a date, unless you want to be the dinner.
 4. The men behind the music. Mark Weiss, Juan Granda, and Sammy Leonard make sure every song has its beat. They did have Miss Groah on piano to help them.
 5. Rachel Andres and Matt Gehring try hard to get Josh Dean to make the deal.
 6. Techies Kyle Garcia, Matthew Gilmer, Gregory Shaner, Hayley Kilroy, Michael Turner, Jessica Fleischer, Tabitha Zukoski, Sara Uveges, Brittney Holroyd, Baily Venable, Dawn Bittner. They give their all working backstage and certainly deserve a thumbs-ups.
 7. Members of the choir plead with the crowd to not feed the plants

Little Shop of Horrors

A romantic comedy that will eat you up!

"Lights, camera, action!" The stage goes dark, the music starts and the show goes on. With a dedicated cast and crew who worked hard during practices, the show was a huge hit. "I really loved it. It was so funny," says sophomore Nicole Meeker. That was the general response from everyone who went.

"It was a lot of fun working with all the crew, and meeting new people," says backstage crew member Jessica Fleischer. The cast and crew got along very well together and put on a great show. Thanks to all the cast and crew for an awesome performance.

The cast and crew thank Mrs. Bowden for all her hard work in pulling the show together.

Kristen Andres and her little sister Rachel love performing together. They just brighten the mood of those around stage with their smiles.

Just another day at the office for Brandon Lichtinger, but Josh should check to see if he has good medical insurance.

Parting is such sweet sorrow. The time has come for Audrey to leave, but she'll always be in Seymour's heart.

Techies Brandon Egy, Hayley Kilroy, Michael Turner, Tabitha Zukoski hang out backstage instead of working. Shame, shame, shame.

Heidi Baker, Maria Soriano, Emily Byers, Heather Kincaid try to remain calm as they hang out backstage.

...The Changing of Faces

No doubt all of us will nonchalantly flip through these pages, a barrage of faces, some known some not. However, this assortment of faces is also an archive of characters with eccentricities and personalities galore that filled our lives and hallways with moments of true friendship, or perhaps just a little conversation. These are the faces of Madison High School. At a glance they each seem to fit within a group such as the overachievers, the loners, or the jocks. Yet to label a face to a group is untrue to the individual. With forty pictures of telling eyes per page one ought to think of Helen Keller's famous quote, "I am one but still I am one. I cannot do everything but still I can do something." Deep within each pair of eyes in each face, in each picture, on each page lies a talent, a mind, and soul. These expressions and smiles will without a doubt change, but will hopefully greet us again, whether in the hallways or at class reunions, in the years to come.

Wisened seniors advise the underclassmen

Jeremy Gerger: "Work really hard for your first three years and do some partying, so you can party hard and barely do any work your senior year."

Joe Kuhlman: "Always bring a towel."

Amanda Venable: "If you plan on applying for a lot of scholarships, do a lot of service hours--plus they're good to do."

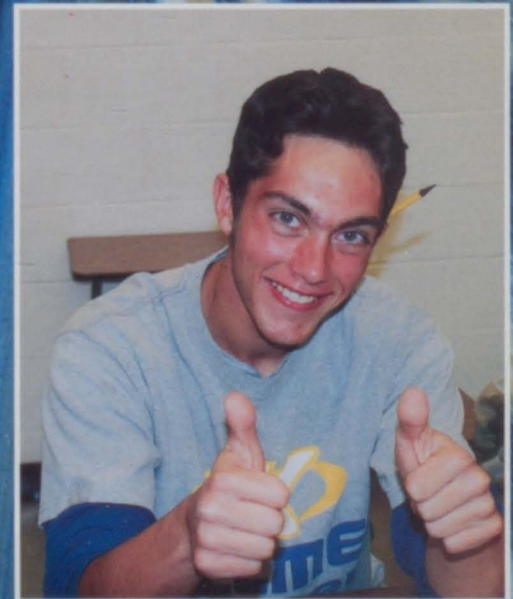

Beth Balaban: "Do Post-secondary. It'll prepare you for life after High School, and yes, there is life beyond Madison High."

Joe Judd: "(You) Can't be shy but don't be obnoxious."

Monica Ungers: "Enjoy it while it lasts because it will end before you know it."

And the Seniors Did It Their Way

And now, the end is near;
And so I face the final curtain.
My friend, I'll say it clear,
I'll state my case, of which I'm certain.

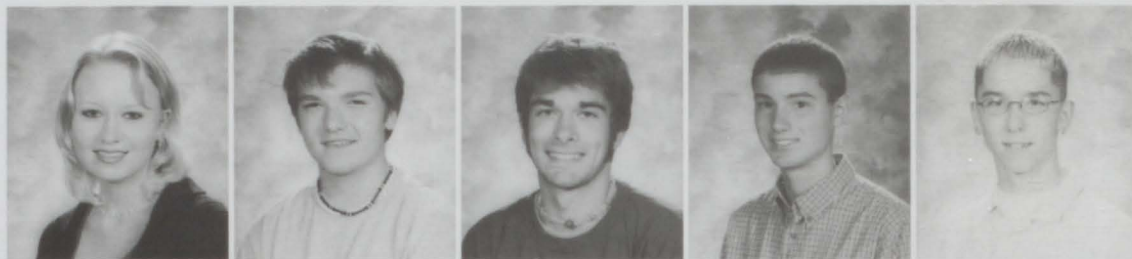

I've loved, I've laughed and cried.
I've had my fill; my share of losing.
And now, as tears subside,
I find it all so amusing.

To think I did all that;
And may I say - not in a shy way,
"No, oh no not me,
I did it my way".--Frank Sinatra

Showing Both Sides of the MHS Staff

1. Does Mr. Madore have a twin? No, that just Mark Nagy sporting a new look for spirit week.
2. Are there any future actress among us...or are these just the ladies of MHS having fun?
3. Mrs Bowden feels on top of the world at her wedding, or at least higher than all of her guests.
4. Clowning around, the cafeteria ladies show their Halloween spirit.
5. As an official pumpkin carving critic, Mrs. McKibben takes her last look before she casts her vote.
6. Mrs. May and her husband, Scott, bring in "Mini-May" for her first day of school.
7. Mr. Morgan tailgates with the rest of the staff before the first home football game.

1. At the beginning of the football team's reverse raffle, Coach Willis explains how to win the grand prize.

2. Wedding guests, Miss Groah and Mrs. Kilpatrick, get into the spirit of things and feed each other.

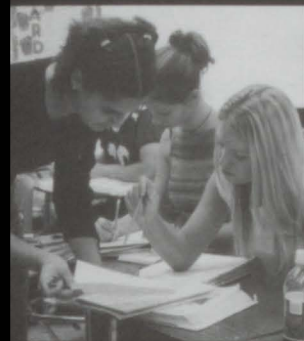

3. By making new friends at a Gifted and Talent Conference, Miss Thurston, Mrs. Kilpatrick, and Mr. Bezzeg get some new ideas to bring home to MHS.

Capturing

...The Sweet Smell of Success

Pictures can capture many things that words may not. This year was filled with unforgettable experiences that will forever shape our memory at MHS. Whether it was studying late for a math test, finally finishing a science project, or getting an A on an English essay, these tasks were the real focal point of our lives during school. These pictures help us remember the everyday ups and downs of getting an education. We experience again the setting and accomplishment of our academic goals. Although recognition may not come from a stadium full of cheering fans, accolades and honors that range from first place in a math competition or placement as a National Merit Scholar finalist, provide the school with a sense of pride and achievement that sets MHS apart from the others. Education helps to further every aspect of ourselves. According to Sydney J. Harris, "Most people are mirrors, reflecting the moods and emotions of the times; few are windows, bringing light to bear on the dark corners where troubles fester. The whole purpose of education is to turn mirrors into windows." All the memories of academics at MHS will be captured in pictures for everyone to remember.

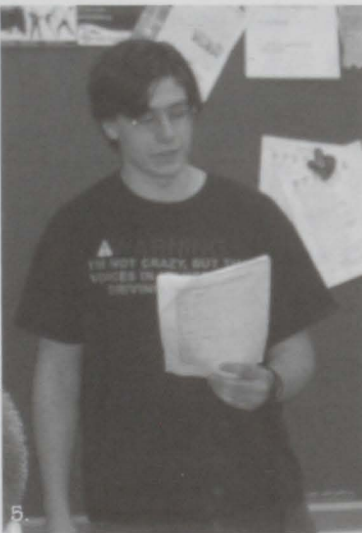

1. After conning Mrs. Smith to teach his class on her birthday, Mr. Bezzeg brings her a beautiful bouquet of balloons.

2. Taking advantage of a beautiful day, Mr. Bezzeg plays a game with his class.

3. An intricate map based on the book The Marines of Autumn by James Brady earns Alan O'Connell an A!

4. Josh McFarland, Shana Schrauf, and Matt Buchanan goof off during their English class.

5. Powerful presenter Sam Wilson gives his interpretation of The Rime of the Ancient Mariner: Part One.

Stories, Speeches, and Skits

English is more than just bookwork

1. & 2. Students from Mrs. Bowden's class present a sitcom to their class which they wrote themselves. These special skits were even tape-recorded!

Showing how far technology has really come, Jason Mausling dances on an electronic dance pad during his speech presentation for Mrs. Thurston's class.

4. With perfect skill, Kristina Romano presents her lines.
 5. Who's that mystery man? It's Steven Auciello all ready for his presentation.
 6. Eric Burkholder ponders his answer during a t.v. show skit in drama class.

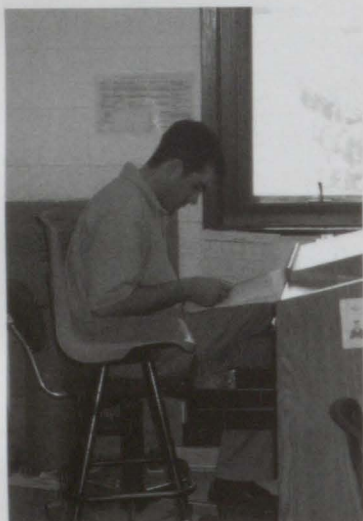

Who can resist a smile like that?
Mr. Gilligan looks up from teaching.

Paul Passerell works hard to get his homework finished.

Taylor Linden talks to Mrs. Gilligan's classes about the court system. Mrs. Linden is a Madison alumni who is a prosecutor for Lake County.

Mr. Hamilton takes a break to plan for his next class.

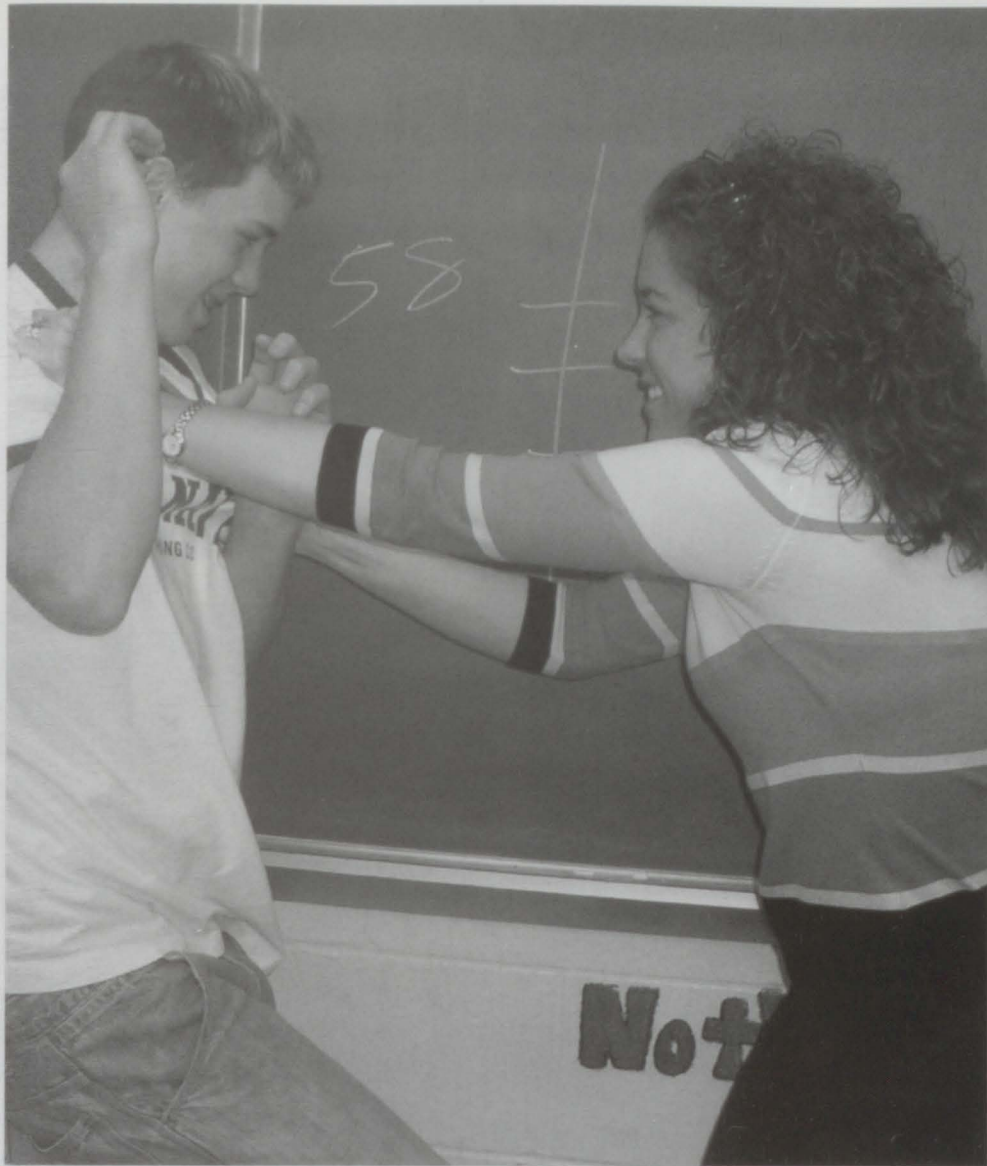

Tiffany Teske isn't afraid to show off her pearly white teeth.

Mr. Hamilton's class waits to give a presentation on the judicial court system.

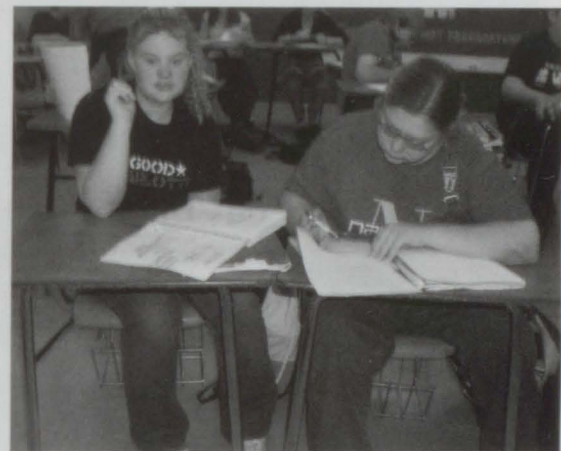

Valerie Booth, Joshua Rindin, Joshua Mickle, and Katie Bevan

"Did you do your homework?" screams Mrs. Gilligan as she grabs Zack Ruck. Ruck's work was done, so he survived unharmed.

...The Thrill of the Action

These snapshots of MHS sports contain the thrills of victory, the agony of defeat, the painful sweat, the shrieking laughter, and the ties of teams. All of these innumerable moments are imprisoned vividly on brown sheets of film. Perhaps neither words nor pictures can substitute for the emotions our players felt and the effort they put into each and every play. Yet one will surely find that a simple photo will trigger a memory of the original raw enthusiasm. We are proud of our sports teams this year. They gave us a reason to stand up and shout--even if it was to honor a single improvement. Demonstrating the ability to work hard toward achievements and bring goals to life, our players set new standards. According to the Persian poet Rumi, "Life is a picture constantly undergoing change." Each moment, each day brought bright victories and disheartening defeats that only made the players' hearts pump harder. We tried our hardest to be there on the fields, courts, paths and pool side to put our teams' moments of glory on the page. Congratulations MHS athletes for a successful year.

1. "Hard work equals success. If you believe in something, it can happen," says senior Vanden Kovacs. This was a great outlook to the season and led them to a 9-1 record, which sent them to the play-offs.

2. "None of us are as strong as all of us," thinks junior running back Dylan Morris. This thought brought the team to the success they've had this year.

3. Concentrating on the play call from Coach Gilligan, senior QB Ricky Evans worked his hardest in every play.

4. Senior Keith Krejci works hard to hold on tight. He succeeded to get the first down against the rebels.

5. Getting his players pumped up, Coach Martin tells junior linemen Shane Brennen, "keep working hard."

Madison Earns Their Dues

Hard work pays off

United as one, senior captains Vanden Kovacs, Mike Bukky, Keith Krejci, Jon Early, and Aaron Parks stride out on the field together to see which team gets the ball.

The players weren't just paying lip service when they said this football season would be a great one. These boys paid their dues by working hard during the off-season, and it paid off.

They were rewarded for their hard work with a 9-1 winning record. They paid the price during their Homecoming Game with their only loss. However, losing to the Lakeside Dragons inspired them push themselves even more.

With all the hard work they put into this season, the boys earned the title of P.A.C.

Champs. The cost of one more loss could have meant not making it to the playoffs. However, when it came time to pay the piper, the team pulled through and earned a fourth seat hosting the Warren-Howland Tigers. They may not have won against the Tigers, but the team had a thrilling season and paid back their fans by making every game exciting.

The boys look forward to working even harder next season and earning the dues they think they deserve.

2. Down in a stance, junior Joe Franczek gets ready to make a big stop.

3. Working his hardest to keep his man covered, senior Jared Pikor's man never catches a ball unchallenged.

4. A team is only as strong as its weakest link, And Senior Mike Bukky was definitely not that.

5. Jon Early and Ricky Evans talk about the next play during a time-out.

6. Senior Taylor Pniewski is working hard to get the extra yard.

7. Coach Willis gives Mike Samplak a pep talk during the pregame stretch.

Freshmen & J.V. Teams

Tackle the competition

The Madison Freshmen Football Team finished the season with a 4-6 overall record and 2-2 in the P.A.C. This included victories over Lake Catholic, Willoughby-South, Chardon, and VA St. Joes. This year's team gained the first freshmen victory ever over Chardon. The young Blue Streaks were very competitive with four of their six loses by a margin of less than six points. The team was led by some outstanding players such as Clint Walker, Doug Deak, Dave Hobson, Matt Mauck, Chris Welniak, Brock Malinowski, Dominic Szabados, Ryan Vickers and Zac Hesketh. With a solid nucleus of 30 players, the future looks bright for this group of young dedicated athletes.

The J.V. team finished their season really well. Their total record was 7-1. Ben Pniewski, Dan Nebraski, Jared Spada, and Josh McFarland are just a few teammates who helped their team win the many games that they did. Maybe next year the team will go undefeated!

1. Though usually neglected, the Madison chain gang, Jed Powell, Jason Wild, and Ian Steager, are an important part of the team.
2. Freshman Josh McFarland really knows how to work it out on the field as he punts the ball.
3. Dave Bowins gets his offensive teammates ready to take their victory.

"Ready, 1-2-3-4, step back, take notice, we're going to steal the show!" chanted the Madison High School Cheerleaders at the start of their games, and they did steal the show numerous times. The squad of 15 was led by its captains and backed by its experience with only five newcomers to the well-known team. Four seniors supported the squad and pushed it to achieve its goals.

In addition to cheering on the football players, the girls were involved in two victorious competitions. The first was at the Ashtabula Mall. The cheerleaders prepared their routine for the whole month of August and by September 8 were ready to strut their stuff. The spirit spreaders captured the win and held the title for the third year in a row. The next title to take was at the Chardon High School competition. Their competitors were tough and all had great routines, but in the end Madison's name was captured at the top for the second year in a row. Junior Stefani Hines said, "The year was a lot of work but in the end it paid off."

While competing, there were fans that needed to be pleased and while cheering at games, there were players that needed the cheerleaders' spirit. The girls supported the victorious football team through the season as they captured many wins. The team made it in to the Play offs and had a special visitor at their game. Governor Bob Taft was there and ready for his cheer. It went to the tune of a crowd favorite with a few adjustments, "T-A-F-T, Welcome Bob Taft." The Play offs were broadcasted by WKYZ Channel 27, who captured the Madison and Warren-Howland cheerleaders telling everyone watching that they loved Friday night football. This was a high point in the season and an immense experience for the cheerleaders.

Overall this year, the cheerleaders captured the spirit of MHS, in all the right ways. The seniors made a year's worth of great memories and the underclassmen gained a good understanding of the way this sport works. "The season was very successful and was a great experience that will be missed," said senior Heather Britton about the season.

"Bluestreak Rumble," "are you ready to rumble with us"? The cheerleaders make a line to perform the crowd favorite.

"T-A-F-T, Welcome Bob Taft," the cheerleaders chant to welcome the Governor to the Play off Game.

Senior Heather Britton holds on to her mom and dad on Senior Night as she rounds up her last year of cheering.

Ashley Estabrook waits eagerly for the chant to start.

"Touchdown! You see it, so yell and spell it with us!" The cheerleaders try to involve the fans by using their flashy signs.

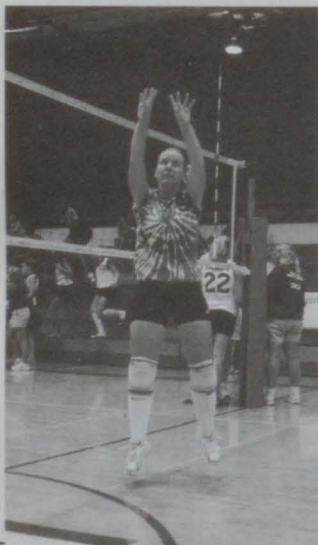

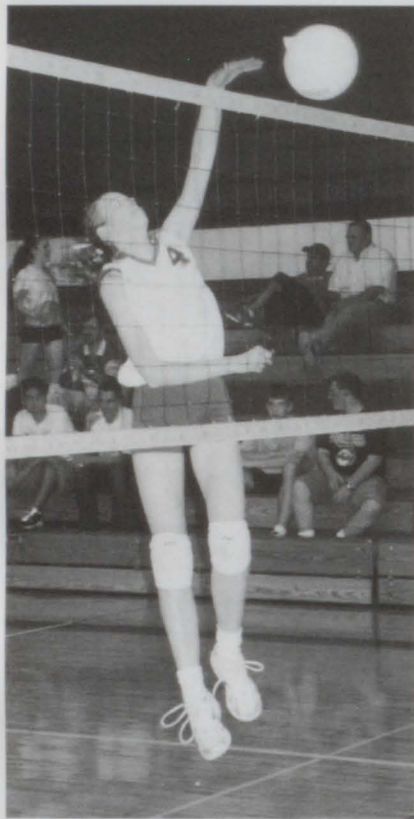

The four senior girls hold on to the memories of their last year as football cheerleaders for the Streaks.

A true team. The girls show their fun spirit with a little "endzone dance" after winning a huge rally. This became their trademark as the year went on, and they'll always remember it.

Showing a little finesse, Alison Fisher tips the ball over for a sneaky winner.

A Bittersweet Season...

Volleyball takes the good with the bad

A season of good-byes. The girl's 2002 varsity volleyball team said farewell to their mentor and coach, Paul Stofan. Also leaving were seniors Rachel Pike, Lindsay Schmid, Taylor Gondek, Kristi Jackson, Crystal Moniot, and Jessica Kallio. All seven were instrumental in the team's success. "The team won't be the same next year, so we definitely cherished the moments this year," remarked junior Amanda Titman.

Along with the gloomy times, days of sunshine came too. Eating their way to victory upon victory, the girls had spaghetti dinners and ice cream parties galore. Those carbs and sugars added up to an outstanding 18-6 record this season that resulted in a Co-PAC Championship.

Other achievements included first team PAC for Pike, Schmid, Jackson, and Gondek, and second team PAC for junior Alison Fisher. The Blue Streaks also took second in the Perry Tournament. The team was sad the season was over, yet they didn't have to wave good-bye to the memories, only those who helped make them.

With the majestic look of shooting a bow and arrow, Rachel Pike leaps up to make the kill. Rachel was key in intimidating opponents.

Amanda Titman and Carolyn and Alison Fisher laugh as the seniors open their gifts from the underclassmen during senior night.

The blocking duo, Lindsay Schmid and Taylor Gondek had some of the best verticals on the team. On the front line the two defended the team against fierce spikers.

In Micheal Jordan style, Lindsay Schmid leaps up to smash the down.

A team huddle to get pumped up before every game was always a must. Strategy was discussed and support was offered.

A Building Year

J.V. & fresh. volleyball learn what it takes

"One good thing that got built out of this season was friendships," said junior Bethany Moles.

This years junior varsity volleyball season did not quite stack up the way they might have wished. They had an unstable year, playing almost every match in three games.

"We came into practice one day after a rough loss and coach had our whole practice sketched out around building a together team attitude," said junior setter Vicki Smith.

The team then realized they all needed each other. They needed the passers as a base, because they started it all out with a steady pass. They needed strong support walls from the setter Vicki Smith, and she had to stay strong the whole game. The hitters served as the walls to put the ball down and block incoming hits.

Altogether the girls realized they were a great structure, but it came too late in the season. The girls can't wait for next season where they will start out strong and stay steady the whole year.

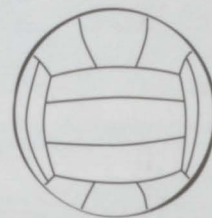

Learning what it takes to build a strong high school volleyball team, this years freshmen team had a tough season. The team had a lot of first year players who had to learn the base of the game. The team together learned to build an attitude on how to take a lose.

This was not only a learning year for the players' but it was also the coach's first year.

"I tried to teach the girls as much as I could about volleyball and I think we all learned a lot along the way," says coach Mindy Bartlet.

On the Court with

Starring . . .

This year's hottest, brightest, and strongest. The girls ran the courts ragged this 2002 season. With a phenomenal 14-4 record and two District qualifiers, this experienced team shined true. The drama played out on many stages, including the Dayton Tournament, Brush Sectionals, and rival Willoughby South's courts. First doubles team Erica Baird and Katelyn Orris took home the championship at the Dayton Vikings Invitational after a sweaty, harrowing three-set final. Karla Kershaw and Ingrid Brainard were the team's Sectional finalists. Underdogs the entire way, these two teammates battled their way uphill to find themselves victorious against top-seeded opponents. They finally met in a pinnacle match against each other that ended in a hug instead of a handshake.

Another aspect that characterized the girls was the almost tangible feeling of closeness. Since most of them had been friends since elementary school, there was a serious sense of support on the court that was always connected to the silliness off the court. With three sets of sisters, including twins, the team had a true bond. It was with those ties and tenacity that the girls of Madison Tennis walked onto the stage of competition and will walk into life.

1. A superb doubles team, twins Erin (back) and Sara (front) Robinson, intensely waits for the arrival of Erin's serve. The duo played the second doubles position often this year and had a great record there.

2. Ingrid Brainard, protecting herself against nosy photographers, knows how to play a little defense. She beat many top players with a little expert counter-punching.

3. Shining faces paired with sparkling shots and personalities, sisters Karla and Julia Kershaw relax together before their matches in the Miamisburg Tournament.

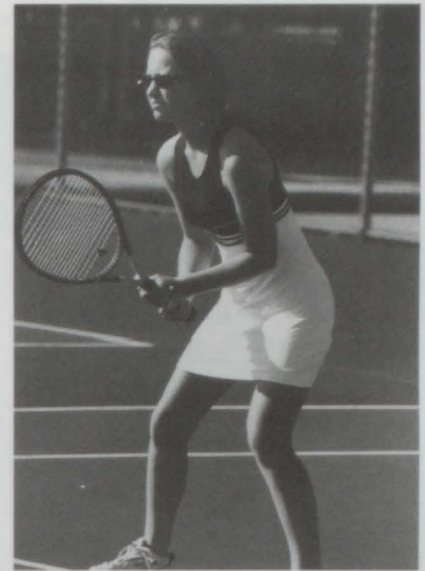

After four years of tramping these courts, Erica Baird, Karla Kershaw, and Katelyn Orris make sure they'll be remembered.

Karla Kershaw, Casey Toward, and Ingrid Brainard watch as their crisp, clean forehands and backhand clip the line acrosscourt for an eye-popping winner.

A New Kind of Victory

J.V. tennis team keeps it personal

Victory is "a successful outcome in a contest or struggle," according to Webster's Dictionary. This year's junior varsity tennis team brought this definition to life. Although most of the players started out as beginners, they conquered the game of tennis in their own way.

Sophomore Leia Gerard said, "The team really worked quite well together and that helped us all reach our personal goals."

Even though the team didn't always triumph over their opponents, each girl improved amazingly throughout the season.

Sophomore Stacey Bukovac said "I hope next year's team has the experience I did."

All in all it was a successful season in that the girls had their own personal victories.

Victory!

It's all the boys know

All their competition was crushed because the team was lead into battle by a very wise coach, Dave Zundel, and brave captains. This was a year to remember for the boys soccer team. They had a victorious season. Their toughest competitor was Eastlake North. In their crusade against North, they gained one victory and engaged in one stallmate. Their most honorable moment was when they had to combat Aurora. They came from behind and tied, keeping their opponents from victory. Some fierce warriors to keep an eye on next season are Chris Anderson, Josh Waltman, Ray Garcia, and Todd Anderson. Also, Jeremy Woodworth had his best season on defense. In the end, the team had a record-breaking season. Their record was 8-1-6, the best in the history of Madison High School soccer. This is one conquest that the seniors will never forget.

As the opponent breathes down his neck, senior Chris Durham does all it takes to keep the ball out of his reach.

While the team members catch their breath during a timeout, Coach Zundel gives his words of wisdom.

All for one and one for all. The team unites before their fight for victory.

Nothing but the Best

J.V. boys soccer delivers excellence

The best coach and the best team together make the best season. The team worked and played hard all season. With a record of ten wins, two ties and only two losses, this was the best season the J.V. team had in a long time. This record was achieved thanks to a superior coach and a talented team. The season went really well, even with two ties. Coach Granger commented on the two ties as "better than any of our ten wins."

Granger's team attributed their success to him. Everyone on the team loves Coach Granger. Freshmen Louie Nicholson said, "Coach Granger is the best, He lets us learn on our own." Coach Granger thinks just as highly of his team. "I had a great bunch of kids," said Granger.

This combination of the best players and best coach helped the team show their best side this season. We hope they will continue to strive for excellence next season.

"Can I Get a Heck Yeah?"

Seniors bring team together

Despite losing eight seniors from last year and suffering injuries, the girls tried to stay strong and stick together as a team. These girls had some rough times because they had little or no practice together before the season began. This young team realized they were in a difficult situation. There was hope though. According to Liz Beattie, "The seniors brought the team closer and helped the players come together to unite as one."

There were many rough injuries for them to overcome as well. For instance, Liz Beattie hurt her knees and ankles, Brittany Kehn got a concussion, Kim Grabel suffered from a jaw injury, and Kate Nicholson sustained a head injury. Despite the loss of players, they still had a positive attitude.

Because of the lack of pre-season practice and the abundance of injuries, they lost some games. However, they had a lot of ties as well. "This team overcame the frustration and never gave up. We may not have accomplished all of the goals we set this year, but we had fun trying," said Coach Burgard.

Making another great save, Kim Grabel leads the team to a victory.

Bouncing over Barriers

Girls J.V. soccer team overcomes

"Every time someone went down, we put someone else in and they bounced right along. They also bounced into different positions on the field," says Coach Curtindale.

This year, the J.V. soccer team had a great season, a huge team, and a large amount of injuries, and they learned to do a lot of bouncing.

The girls were led by Coach Curtindale and Captains Felicia Zirkle and Bre Granger. The team this year was very large, with 22 girls total. Coach Curtindale thought the large team would be a problem at first, but with all the injuries, the extra girls proved to be a good thing because she always had someone to substitute for the injured girls.

Even through all the injuries, the girls kept a positive attitude and an awesome willingness to go all out and give it their absolute best.

Captain Felicia Zirkle said, "It hurt the team to have so many people get injured and have a few girls quit, but we stuck together and we did okay anyway."

The girls finished the season with a record of 4-7-2 including an awesome big win against Lakeside with a score of 10 to 0.

Girls cross country advances to Regionals

Setting records is what it takes to bring a successful season to a close. The girls cross country team pushed themselves so that they could take their decade of victories in stride. The girls helped MHS reach their tenth consecutive appearance at Regionals. "I really enjoyed this year's season and I'm already looking forward to next year," said junior Rose Gluvna.

The team ended the 2002 season with a final record of 25-8 (1-3 in the PAC). The seniors ended the season by looking back fondly on the strides they have taken together the past four years. "Cross country has been the best four years of my life," said tri-captain and senior Stephanie Sparkman. "It has been a pleasure running with Rachelle Orris and Kimothy Piorkowski since we were all freshman."

Going the Distance

Boys Cross Country goes the extra mile

From late last season to early this season, Coach Pelich had no idea what he was going to do with his cross country runners. "They had the ability, but not the attitude," commented Coach Pelich. They needed runners to step up and lead the unmotivated team, and step up they did. Seniors like Chad Abrams, Coach Pelich's "shining light in a sea of darkness," shaved three minutes off his last year's time.

Captains Kitt Lashley and Randy Schultz gave the team solid senior leadership.

Runners like Captain Kevin Craigo and sophomore Derek Daughters helped make things happen. Suddenly the team wasn't just showing up for practice, they wanted victory, and they wanted it bad. The team became theirs; they made it happen. The almost-undefeated team was a turn around from last year, proving the runners now understand what it takes to win. "Last year we ran; this year we raced," bragged Coach Pelich.

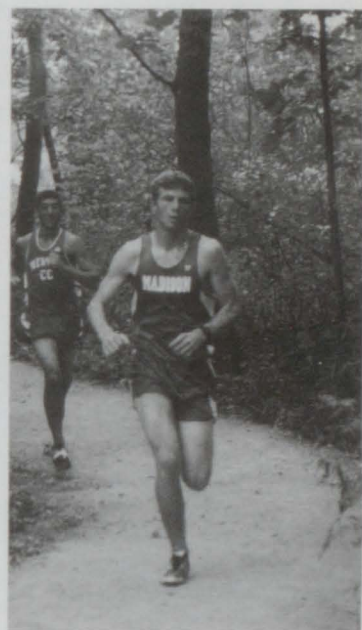

Sophomore Derek Oelbracht, junior Greg Church, and senior Kevin Zimmerman cross the two mile marker at this year's PAC meet. PRs of this year were: Oelbracht 20:22, Church 20:12, and Zimmerman 20:14

One more mile is all senior Josh Sumpter can think about as he crosses the two-mile mark at this year's P.A.C. meet. Sumpter's PR of the year was 20:59.

Senior Chris Zundel passes his opponent at this year's PAC meet. Zundel's PR of this year was 17:47.

Having a good putting game is an important part of keeping a score low. Freshmen Jordan Kreuter closely watches her ball approach the hole.

The Madison High School golf team came out swinging as they ended the 2002 season. The team had a regular season record of 17-6 and were 6-2 in the Premier Athletic Conference. Upon traveling to Sectionals on October 3rd at Fairway Pines, they placed 9th out of 22 teams. Senior Eric Hughes and Nick Horvath led the team throughout the season.

Horvath and Chet Delong were named First Team All Conference.

were named First Team All Conference. Delong was chosen as MVP of the league at the PAC Championship meet. The PAC meet was held at Fairway Pines and the team lost by only one stroke. However they came out with a strong finish earning 2nd place in the PAC. Hughes hit a 33 at The Reserve at Thunderhill Golf Course, one of the toughest courses in the area, to set a school record.

Capturing A New Style

Band brings on a whole new look

The 2002-2003 Marching Band brought a whole new style to their show this year. That was in part due to the addition of new director, Mrs. Kristy May. May had many plans for the band, which already possessed a lot of talent. The band was just waiting for someone to release it.

The beginning of the season started back in July. At first the band was nervous about whether there would be enough time to get all their goals accomplished. But in the end they pulled it together to create two crowd-pleasing shows.

Their first show took the fans back to the 70's with the tune "Freeride." Here the band performed some fancy footwork that got the crowd to clap their hands to the music.

Then during "Dance to the Music," the band whipped out a dance that amazed the audience.

Finally the show ended with the lovable bullfrog song "Joy to the World," featuring the funky tubas. They really got the crowd involved in their performance.

Midway through the season the band switched gears to their scary show by playing, "Lady Marmalade." Then the majorettes were featured in a dance to the mysterious theme to Ghostbusters.

Finally, the whole band showed the audience what they could really do as they performed a shocking dance to the hip Michael Jackson song, "Thriller."

This show was a huge success, especially when the band surprised the audience by dressing in Halloween costumes. Each squad dressed up in a different theme, and the directors had a style of their own.

The crazy directors were a dynamic trio. They were dressed up as "The Wizard of Oz" characters. Director May could have fooled anyone in her "Glinda, the good witch" costume. Then, assistant director Miss Nicole Groah tried to be scary and made you wonder about her true colors in her character of the "wicked witch." Last, there was the majorette advisor, Mrs. Sally Rogus. Rogus portrayed Dorothy.

"I have been in band for the past four years, but this year we really pumped it up. Our new band director really helped our band be all it could be and so much better," said senior Heather Britton.

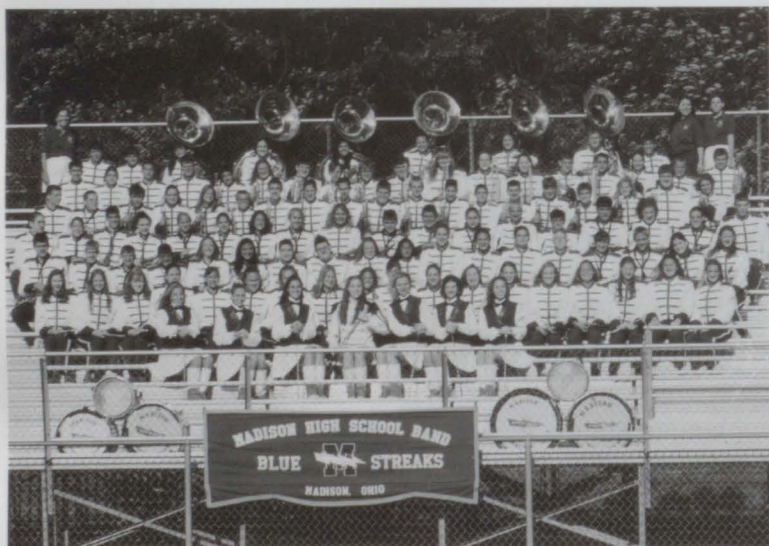

The shining and the shimmering saxophone players mimic Michael Jackson during the song "Ghostbusters." The clan was led by junior Greg Church and consisted of sophomore Shannon Weber, and freshman Keith Anderson and Kristina Romano.

Hangin' out and having fun is what the majorettes do when they are not performing. Seniors Shannon Davis, Ashley Moles, Stephanie Cline, and Lindsey Davis hang out on the bus before the game against Chardon.

The 2002-2003 Madison High School Marching Band

It's the freaky, the chilling, and the crazy! That is what sums up this year's band directors. Head director Mrs. Kristy May, assistant director Miss Nicole Groah, and majorette advisor Mrs. Sally Rogus got all decked out for the Halloween Show. It was there they showed a little bit of their wild side.

Look at that silly monkey. Freshman Steven Church practices his cymbals before the Halloween Show.

Cool, right? Band directors May and Groah get a bit groovy at the first home game against John Marshall.

Hey sister, go sister, let me see you throw sister. Senior majorettes Ashley Moles, Shannon Davis, and Lindsey Davis strut their stuff to the hit "Lady Marmalade."

Who is that scaring everyone out there? It's No one other than drum majorette, Kristen Andres. Here she performs her salute at the Halloween Show.

Those tu-tu wearing tuba players are always at it. Audrey Leonard, Ashley Elder, Amy Findak, Paul Bodager, and Jaqueline Bender get all psyched up before their Halloween Show.

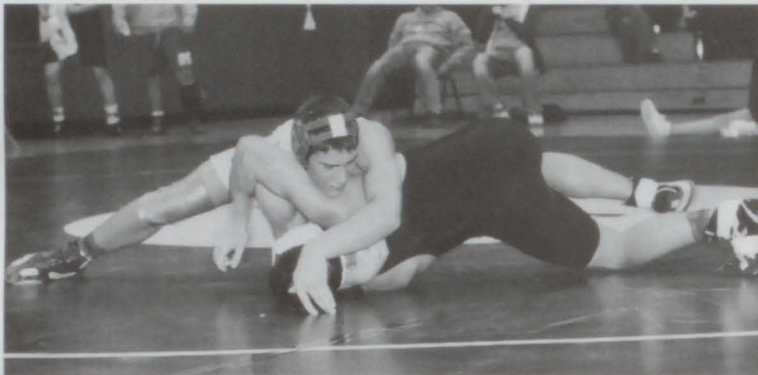

Thriller! Mellophone players senior Angie Wickert, junior Jesse Rose, and sophomores Aaron Knight and Peter Swanson get down and freaky to this hit.

Coming Together

Team work equals success

The varsity wrestling team had a goal this year--to come together as a team. They knew that they had to work hard together to get what they wanted. These boys had a difficult schedule this season and knew it would take the whole team to get where they wanted to be. By coming together as one, the team earned a P.A.C. Championship and had a 14-2 respectable winning record. Spending endless hours away from their families, the coaches and players became more like a family than a team. Together, they put in a lot of time... in the weight room and the wrestling room. The time and hard work was all worth it. They retained their reputation--the one that makes their opponents afraid to come to Madison.

Stretching out to get a better position, junior Joe Deak tries to put this North Ranger on his back.

Q How do you think this season started and finished?

A "We had to come together as a team or die as individuals. We came together, and everything was great." -Junior Joe Franczek.

Staying in control is important during a match and that's exactly what this match proves. The MHS J.V. Wrestling team had a great season and learned many new skills to carry over into their Varsity Wrestling careers.

Taking it to the mat

J.V. Wrestlers begin new journey

Flying without wings! Freshman David Hobson attempts to stay in control against one of his opponents, as he flies over his back.

New beginnings are always filled with worry, excitement, and anxiety. But through it all, confidence needs to shine through. Without confidence, people fall apart in new situations. As Plato once said, "If you have no confidence in self, you are twice defeated in the race of life. With confidence, you have won even before you have started."

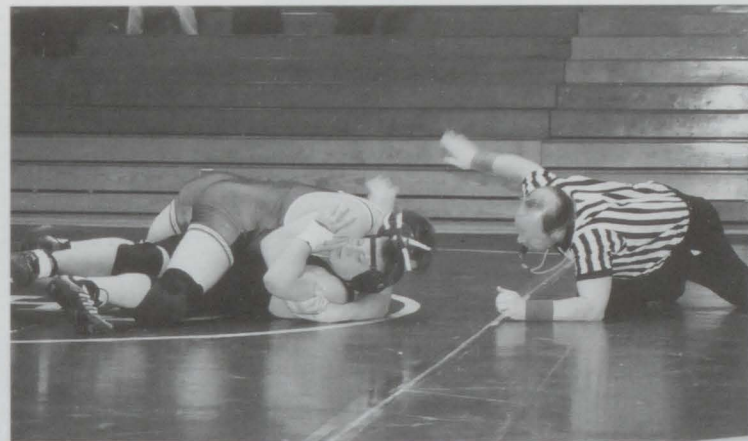

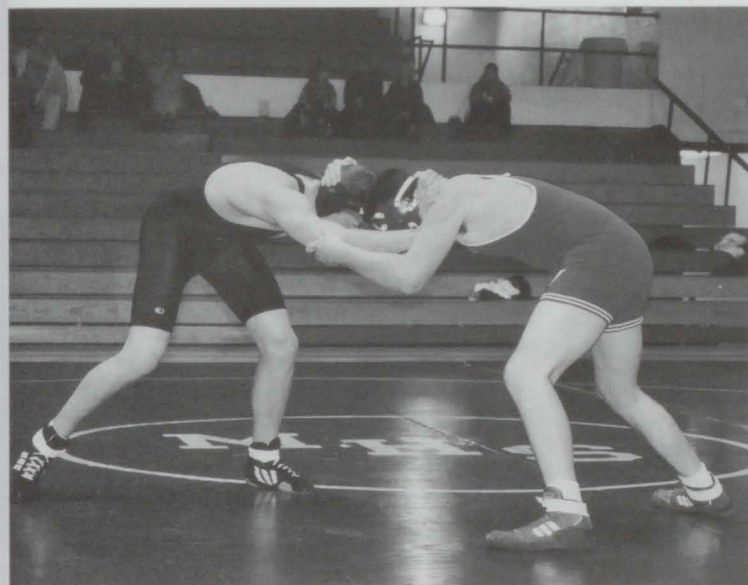

Confidence definitely made its presence known during the 2002-2003 Junior Varsity Wrestling season. With a lot of first year wrestlers on the team, the team did surprisingly well. Many first-timers won their matches, which doesn't happen too often.

"Coach Becca helped the team out a lot, especially the freshman," said freshman John Japcinski. "He helped us all prepare to be the best we could be at each match."

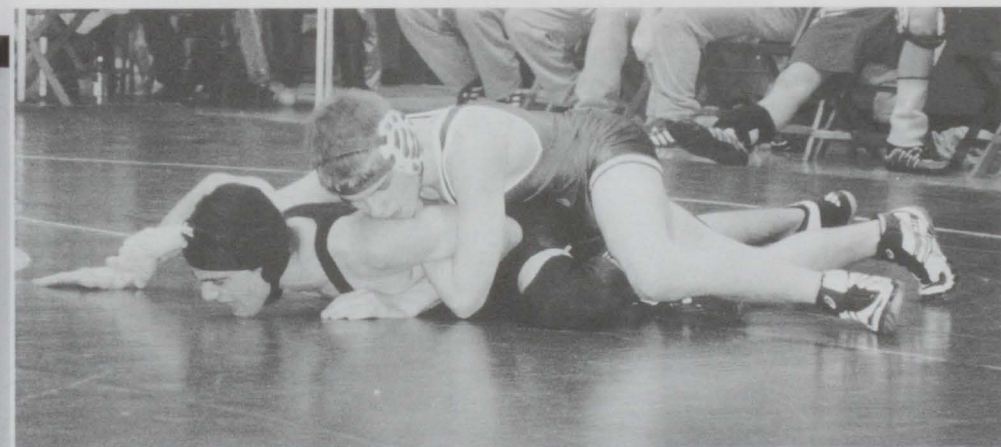

Along with Coach Becca's help, the team will use their newly-acquired skills and moves as a basis for upcoming seasons.

"The season was a lot of hard work, but it will be a big help when I go on to wrestle in Varsity matches," added Japcinski.

Reflecting on the Season

As the season came to an end, the swim team members took the time to reflect on how they did. As a team, the swimmers thought back on the many tough practices they endured and the meets they put their hearts into so that they could achieve their goals.

The girls were proud that they were able to bond and learn to work as one. "We're ally came together and felt like a team this year," said junior Jessie Rose.

The guys on the other hand came out of the water on top. They only lost three meets. All of the swim team members did extremely well.

An Experienced Line-up Starts From Scratch

A new foundation and a new gameplan

A new face graced the Madison boys' basketball program this year: the face of head varsity coach David Negin, who took the team to a new level and style of play, taught the players the importance of respect and working together, and brought some "Mad-TOWN" flavor to the Madison community. With him, Coach Negin brought the idea of teamwork and fundamentals, and enforced an aggressive, in-your-face style of play. Starting off strong, the Streaks racked in key victories over Conneaut, Geneva, and North and played one of their best games of the season in an all-out brawl against VASJ, coming up 3 points short as time ran out on them. They suffered a setback when junior starting point guard Kevin Craigo became sidelined for a large portion of the season due to a broken wrist. A solid win over Chardon displayed one of the best games the Streaks had as a team, and also provided them with a building block from which to regroup from. As their season progressed, the team faltered a bit with losses to South and Lake Catholic, but rebounded impressively in a nail-biting overtime game against P.A.C rival Riverside.

With an intensity and aggressiveness that they became known and feared for, the team's defensive pressure baffled many of their opponents. On the offensive end, they used a combination of patience and maneuverability, with acrobatic drives and dishes to the basket coupled with deadly perimeter shooting and solid fundamentals. With all this in their "bag of tricks," the team strived through a tremendous season, finishing 2nd in the P.A.C, giving Riverside its closest P.A.C race ever. Senior captains Aaron Parks, Eric Hughes, and Charlie Gorman always found ways to step up in the big game, scoring 29, 28, and 23 points respectively in games with Harvey, Riverside, and VASJ. Going into the Euclid Sectional, the boys drew a solid Cleveland South team and gave a heartfelt fight until the end, losing 66-73. They finished the season 12-9.

Although outsized by most of their opponents, both Max Ungers and Aaron Parks led the battle of the boards, combining for 212 rebounds on the season, leading the team with their 5.1 average.

BATTLE OF THE BOARDS

With their team having an average height of around 5' 10", boxing out became essential for these guys, as demonstrated by Dan Gund and Eric Hughes.

Captain's Corner

"This season was quite a challenge, losing our two leading scorers from last year and also adjusting to a totally new system. Our team managed to adjust and did well to compromise the losses. This was a successful season and was a great senior year," stated Eric Hughes.

"This was a great end to our high school careers, considering that it was a first year coach and a totally new system. I'm really pleased with how we did and I wish the teams of the future, Coach Negin and Coach Brainard the best of luck," reflected Charlie Gorman. Parks agreed. "This was a challenging season, since we didn't have any players over 6'2", but we made the most of it. Even with a first year coach, we were very successful, and I am going to miss it a lot."

BASKETBALL

Producing Results

Freshmen and J.V. basketball teams: proud of accomplishments

"Let each produce according to his own aptitude and his force." Louis Blanc said this over two centuries ago; however, his philosophy still applies today. The 2002-2003 J.V. and freshmen basketball teams both had productive seasons. However, each group produced results according to their own skill level.

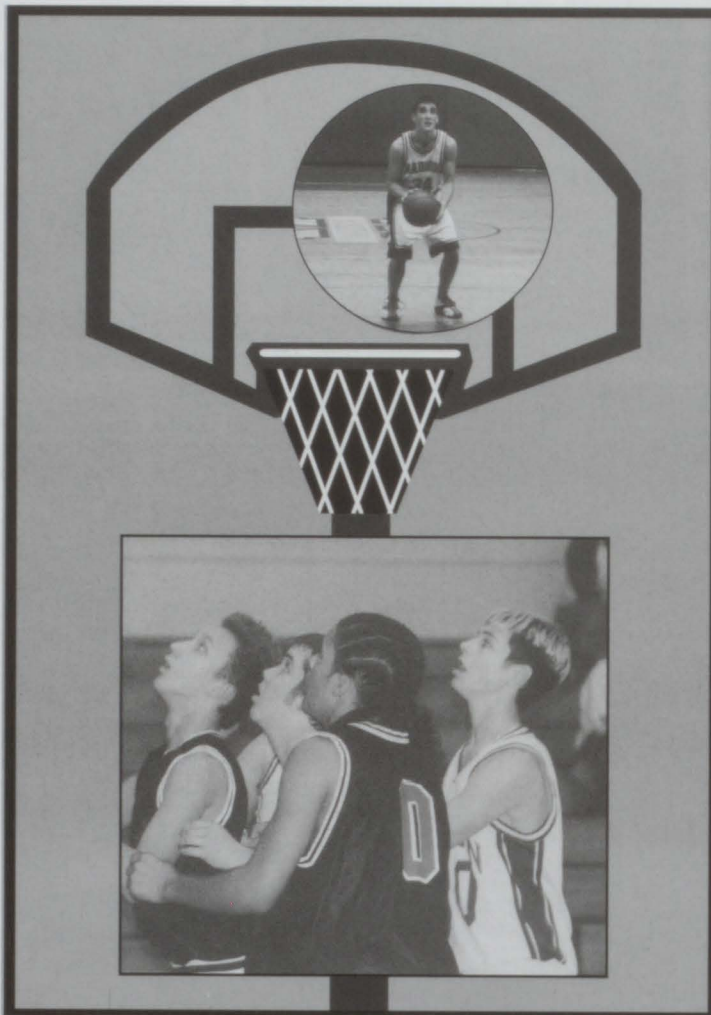

For the freshmen who were playing high school basketball for the first time, the season was primarily a learning year. It introduced them to the next level of competition and prepared them for future seasons. "We gave our best effort this season. Coming close against tough teams meant more to us than winning against easy teams would have," explained freshman Patrick Allen.

moment was winning their game against Riverside at the last shot.

The J.V.'s season started out great and only got better. They began their season on a foundation of three goals. First to go undefeated, second to win the P.A.C., and third to play more as team and try to work together better. The foundation proved strong. They won their first five games, only suffered one loss, dominated the P.A.C., and worked as a close unit to form a game-winning group. According to Clint Hardy, the most memorable moment of the season was when Coach Gorman fell while running down the court backwards.

Even though the results of each team's production varied, both the teams came out of the season being proud of their accomplishments. Also, the final product of their efforts remains to be seen. Next season they may produce even better results.

Gathering for a quick huddle, the J.V. boys listen to Coach Gorman as he motivates the team to keep working hard and discusses the next plan of attack.

Girls Rock the Floor

All eyes on them

This season was the year of change for the basketball cheerleaders. Striving to be unique, and the best, the varsity cheerleaders had an awesome on court year which seemed to attract many spectators. "It sometimes felt like the stands would get even more packed at half time, as if people were coming to see what we were going to do next," said Sophomore Ashley Estabrook. This season was the girls year to shine. With many years of pushing from their coach Linda Craigo, the squad finally reached their goal, an all-tumbling squad. While performing, the crowd was amazed at how well the girls had progressed over a period of a year.

Excited for competition season, the girls worked everyday trying to perfect even the smallest mistakes. Competing at the Baldwin-Wallace competition on December 15, 2002 really took a toll on the girls. "I think that we pushed ourselves over the edge getting ready for a competition that was that early into the season, knowing that we might not come out on top," stated Kaylee Emmett. With 6 out of the 10 girls being seniors, they just didn't have the time or energy to compete. Unfortunately the season for the girls ended with only cheering court side, and they did not receive any more "hardware". Captain Ashley Felleisen of the junior varsity squad had 5 new basketball cheerleaders out of 7. Working hard and fast the girls had to come up with a competition routine while working on season material as well. The squad competed at various competitions and over all had an awesome year.

Goofing around at Kent State Cheerleading Camp, freshmen Alicia Hess and Courtney Chernikoff show off their cheerleading skills.

"We are number one!" shout fans Justine Harper and Carly Locke. They cheered on the Blue Streaks all night long.

Best of buds Kitt Lashley and Chris Durham hang out at the basketball game, rooting on the Blue Streaks.

Friends, friends, and more friends. That is what these girls are all about. Juniors Rachel Haury and Bethany Moles and seniors Ali Izzarelli and Lauren Warholc had a ball at the basketball game cheering on their team.

Girls Basketball Reaches New Heights

A season ten years in the making

From November 1 to March 2, 2003, the Lady Blue Streak varsity basketball team started to see "the light at the end of the tunnel." They remembered the innumerable summers spent in sweltering gyms, they remembered the hours of repetitious passing, catching and dribbling drills, and they came to a realization that, with seven seniors playing together again for the first time in four years, it was now or never. It was their moment to seize, and the Streaks were not going to disappoint. "We knew that this was going to be our last year to win a P.A.C Championship and beat North, and it was nice that we were all together again to accomplished it," reflected senior Rachel Pike. Starting off strong, the girls won their Tip-Off Tournament, beating Conneaut and Collinwood, and then went on an impressive five game winning streak. As Christmas break rolled in, the team faced one of its greatest challenges of the season: North was hosting a holiday tournament with numerous state-ranked teams, and Madison was among the contenders. Taking on Canadian provincial champion St. Mary's of Ontario, Madison stuck with their fast-paced style of play, falling short in the final minutes, 48-59. The next day, they went on to lose to state qualifier New Albany by one point, then finished strong against Canada's St. Christopher's. With a weekend of preparation under their belts, the girls had no time to rest. They had a tough couple weeks of game in the near future. After losing to P.A.C archrival Eastlake North, the girls were determined to bounce back, and defeat Riverside, Perry and Geneve en route to beating North in their second meeting, clinching a share of the P.A.C title. Going into the tournaments, the girls got respectably seeded at 3rd and made it to the finals for the first time in eight years, putting forth a tremendous effort against Mentor, eventually falling 56-68. The Streaks will have six seniors going on to play college basketball.

A Young Squad; A Bright Future

A battle of ups and downs

The J.V girls basketball squad persevered through some complex trials this year. These include a broken wrist sidelining starter Colleen Smith, ankle injuries to Amanda McGill and Kristin Rediger, and the complications involved with blending two groups of athletes; incoming freshman and second year freshman, also known as sophomores. The girls were forced to quickly learn the plays run by the varsity, as well as get used to each other's playing style and physically get in shape in a period of about three weeks. They started off a little erratic, solidly beating Lakeside and Riverside, but then falling to South and Lake Catholic. They finished the season strong though, playing well against a tough VASJ team and solidly defeating Perry and P.A.C.

rival Chardon. "I felt that our last game was our best game, and I hope we can carry that momentum into next year," commented freshman Maggie Mackura.

The freshman team, moving up five starters from their eighth grade squad to J.V, had a year of learning the fundamentals and playing as a team. Though inconsistent at times, the girls worked incredibly hard, always staying positive and supportive of each other. By the end of the season, they were playing very closely the teams who had previously given them trouble. "We learned a tremendous amount about basketball, but also about teamwork and perseverance," stated freshmen coach Kevin Morgan.

1. Dribbling down court on a fast break, Denysse Myers leaves her Beaumont defenders scrambling in pursuit.
2. Courtney Smith looks to pass downcourt to an open player.
3. Samantha Wharram bodies up her opponent, keeping her arms straight to avoid fouling.
4. Hanging tough as a team...these girls stuck with each other all season, even welcoming Colleen Smith to participate in a few games after coming back from her wrist injury.

Striding To Achieve Team Goals

Working together to build a strong team

This year the boys track team achieved a winning record of 7-0 and came in 6th place out of 17 teams in the district meet. The boys' team came together this year and achieved many of their set goals. Their main goal for the season was to obtain the P.A.C. Championship title. Not only did the boys win the title but they also won the league meet. That was a major accomplishment for the season. Unfortunately none of the boys were able to compete in the state meet but Coach Wagner was very proud of the boys' performance at Regionals. The team had many Regional qualifiers which include: Dylan Morris in throwing the disc, Kevin Zimmerman in high jump, Nick Verdi in pole vault, Chris Zundel in the 800 meter race, and Derek Daughters in the 3200 meter race. With team unity and effort, the boys' team achieved a season that they can be proud of.

Despite the cold weather, Joey Lander puts forth his strongest effort.

Girls Track: Building For the Future

Strengthening the team's youth for next year

This season the girls' team had many ups and downs due to a year of rebuilding. Although the team was composed of many underclassmen, the girls still remained united and the upperclassmen showed the younger girls the way to achieve success. The team had three district qualifiers which included: Rachelle Orris in the 3200 meter race, Jessica Kallio in the shot put and disc, and Jen Butram in pole vault. In the league meet the girls team took fourth place with 52 points and took sixth place in the district meet. The team also had many P.A.C. Champions which included: Jessica Kallio throwing disc, Jen Butram in pole vault, Kristina Romano, Nicky Chaves, Kim Piorkowski, and Rachelle Orris in the 4x800 meter relay, and Rachelle Orris in the 1600 meter and the 3200 meter race. All together the girls team reached a record of 1-4. The younger team members are excited to continue running down the path in which the seniors of 2003 showed them.

Relaxing and having fun, Kate O'Brien, Bri Granger, Julia Kershaw, Monica Porostosky mingle with Kyle Piorkowski and Mark Porostosky as they wait for their next event.

Serving Up Success

on the tennis court

The Madison Boys Tennis Team rounded out the season victorious. The boys finished 7-1 in the Premier Athletic Conference and 16-3 overall. The team performed well in the P.A.C. making key victories in the final match-up against Willoughby South. First singles was played by Todd Anderson, second singles was played by Eric Hughes, third singles was played by Evan Larned, first doubles was played by Keith Anderson and Chip Whipple, and second doubles was played by Mike McGuire and Mike Blauman. These seemed to be the winning combinations the team needed. The boys also participated in the Perry Invitational, which they conquered with ease. "Team chemistry and fun helped propel the team to work hard, do well, and win matches," said Hughes. The effort paid off in the end for the Madison Boys Tennis Team.

Madison Loses a Coach, Heaven Gains an Angel

Living in the NOW

Sitting in the pews of Zion Lutheran Church in Painesville, listening to one of the bravest women I've ever known stand in front of a congregation of family, friends, and strangers, telling them to receive her son's death with a smile on their faces and joy in their hearts, is enough to give hope to even the most tragic of situations. Looking at this woman, laughing and dancing among a line of clapping, teary-eyed softball players, it is no wonder Terry Hietanen was the amazing, caring and positive individual that Madison High School was graced with for the few precious years he taught and coached. Mr. Hietanen always said he was first and foremost a teacher, constantly emphasizing the importance of education and studies. There was no end to his caring, and there was nothing he wouldn't do to help a student; countless students have said that without him, they would not have graduated high school. As a teacher, he was in a class of his own. Students will forever remember his witty, goofy sense of humor and his creative antics, such as standing on top of the science tables dressed in his "Einstein" wig and reciting everything he knew about science. His enthusiasm for learning was contagious and he instilled the curiosity, the drive and the hard work that he believed was irreplaceable in every student he touched. "People can take many things away from you, but they can't take your knowledge," he would say.

As a coach, he inspired and motivated like no other. He always seemed to have the right words to say to bring the team together before a game, and he always took the blame if the outcome wasn't what he expected. "When your world around you might be crumbling, when your relationships fail and your job is lacking, come to softball. This is the constant that is my escape." The softball field was his second home, and Hietanen Field will forever be embedded with memories of his presence.

A question that was never far from the lips of our beloved coach and teacher was "Why?" Now more than ever that small question with such monumental answers plagues us. But whether or not we ever figure out why he was taken from us, his memory will forever be alive in our hearts.

New coaches

Positivity bring girls together

This season brought many changes for both the freshmen and J.V. softball girls. Along with new coaches came new attitudes and a new sense of the game.

Before the season started the girls picked a secret pal who they were to exchange inspirational quotes and sayings with before each game. This allowed the girls to get to know one another and brought the team together as one. "I really liked the idea of exchanging notes with one another. It helped each of us get pumped up before the games," explained sophomore Alyssa Hill. Also, to get psyched up, the girls would meet in a team circle before each game. In this circle they would discuss what they hoped to accomplish for that game. This helped the girls to keep focused on their goals and brought them together as a team.

All in all the new coaches and the players learned to work as a team and hope to gel again next season.

Breaking Even in a Big Way

And producing star players

It was an up and down year for the varsity boys baseball team which eventually broke even with a 10-10 overall record. In Japan a tie is considered a victory because neither team loses. Using that mentality, it could be said that this was a victorious baseball season with the record reflecting a tie between wins and losses. Regardless of the score the team made the most of it by always having fun and never leaving anything on the field. When one considers that the team produced four all-stars (seniors Jeremy Gerger, Matt Stanic, Keith Krejci and Taylor Pniewski) and one Division I scholarship winner (senior Jeremy Gerger), it can be said that this season was indeed very successful.

Pitching from the stretch, senior Jeremy Gerger looks for a sign from the catcher.

Pushing Through

The 2003 JV/Freshman baseball season

The 2003 J.V. and freshman baseball seasons can be summed up as physically-testing seasons. The freshmen team was plagued by bad weather, injury, and personnel changes, but despite it all the season ended positively. By the end of the season, the defense had completely turned around becoming tight and efficient. "The most memorable moment of the season was when we came back to beat Riverside," stated Coach Hamilton. Chris Welniak helped save that win with a diving catch in centerfield.

The J.V. team's season wasn't very different this year. The team steadily got better with continual teamwork and communication. The team showed great spirit by playing to the last out even when losing. "Overall I think we could have done better, but I can't complain about how we ended," said Coach Copeland.

Despite the struggling seasons they had, Coach Copeland and Coach Hamilton believe they successfully built Coach Dragas some key players for next year.

Capturing

...A Feeling of Home

Everyday, people strive to make a difference in the community in which they live. Students from Madison High School are a big part of their community. From singing Christmas carols at a nursing home, to donating blood at the blood drive, to pitching in with a canned food drive, Madison High School students are always on the lookout for ways to help better their community. At the same time, the community also looks to better the lives of these students. Whether that means buying ads in school publications, providing food and prizes for different events, or attending sporting events, concerts, or plays, the community never forgets to support the students. After graduation, the senior class of 2003 will become an even bigger part of this great community, while the underclassmen will continue to lend a helping hand to it. As the years go on and we all get older, Madison High School students will continue to teach others how to truly capture the spirit of community.

Senior Project

1. That's an awful lot of bubble wrap...but Audrey Leonard looks like she knows what she's doing amongst her tools at Chapeldale Florist.
2. Are they testing their medicine or serving up a helping of sugar? Katie Schultz makes a toast to her favorite doctor at Lake East Hospital.
3. Outside the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, Casey Toward smiles on the steps of the sidewalk at her senior project job.
4. Samantha Orogvany kneels to participate in an archaeological dig.
5. After giving her presentation, Casey Toward poses with her advisor at the high school by her booth.
6. Erin Ditto proudly displays her elementary school teacher's booth to Mrs. Collins.

Co-Editor-In-Chief Brad Eckert and Advisor Ms. Julie Thurston spend time going over the workshop itinerary at the 2002 Jostens Yearbook Camp.

The theme Capturing the Moments embodies many ideas. It shows people being quiet, being crazy, being competitive, being proud, and being real. We have dedicated 240 pages to show the different ways students made the past year into what it was. Even though the 2003 school year came to a close, every student can still run through the rolls of film inside their mind, bringing to life the memories and magic that defined the year. From the first football game of the season to commencement rehearsal, the days, weeks, and months of the year flew by.

There was that crush that you fantasized day after day about. There was the friend who you passed notes with during English class. There were days where you thought of ideas on how to cut class or stay home from school. There were all those minutes lost, waiting in line for lunch day after day. There were those classes that you thrived on, that challenged you to achieve your full potential. And there were those classes that you spent catching up on sleep missed the night before. There were teachers who made learning fun no matter what the topic was. There were days where you laughed so hard that your stomach ached. There were the weekends of parties and excitement that provided good stories for Monday at school. There were all those lost hours spent studying until the wee hours in the morning to finish a project or cram for a final. There were those last few days of school when the excitement for summer began to swell and everyone's attitude changed.

Even though the classes, games, dances, and exams might not have played out like they do in the movies, you came to realize that not much really does play out like it does in film. Life threw some curve balls and you either took a swing and missed or hit a homerun. But the thing to remember is that you swung...you took the chance and tried to make the most of the situation.

No matter how busy your days get this fall, this coming year, or at any point in your lifetime, take time to stop and relax. Otherwise, you'll allow so many memories and moments to just slip right by you, without any time to enjoy the power and awe that one simple moment can have.

Capturing the Moments of 2003, Volume 74 of the Madison High School Yearbook was published during the summer of 2003. A total of 550 copies were printed by Jostens Publishing Company in State College, Pennsylvania. The total cost of the book was $55.

For this first time, The Cauldron used the Direct Solutions ordering system through the Yearbook Processing Center. Pages were designed using Adobe PageMaker 7.0 and Jostens Yeartech 2003 program. Student portraits and some other event photos were taken by the MHS school photographer, Eileen Findak. The cover design was produced by Jostens Design Consultant, Bob Eyster in August 2002.

Ad prices were increased to help cover the addition of extended full-color throughout the book. For the first time, the entire senior portrait section was produced in full-color. The cover, theme idea, deadlines, and yearbook ladder were created during Jostens Yearbook Camp 2002 at Hidden Valley Resort in Pennsylvania. The camp was designed to generate theme ideas and offer educational classes to learn more about Jostens yearbook programs. Advisor Ms. Julie Thurston and Co-Editor-In-Chief Brad Eckert attended the 3-day workshop.

Headline font was set in Dancing Comfort, with Subheadlines being captured in Esence Bold. Captions were set in Chase and Body Text was created in Lynn. The yearbook staff would like to extend special thanks to Mr. William Fisher, Ms. Kathy Jackson, Mrs. Eileen Findak, the Board of Education, and all the teachers, parents, faculty, and staff who helped create this year's book. Thank you, also, to the student body for helping the staff Capture the Moments of 2003.
