Every student has certain memories from high school that they remember the most. For a Blue Streak fan in the stands it could be storming the field in the pouring rain, for the scholar it could be acing you final exam, or it could be remembering unforgettable experiences with your friends. Each memory is a tiny snapshot of high school that is embedded in your brain for years to come. This years yearbook centers around that concept. Each photo in your brain has a plethora of words to describe it. Throughout this yearbook, A Picture is Worth 2010 Words, there are a collection of pictures that are meaningful to every student. Each photo has a story, a memory, or a meaning to someone; the scholar, the fan, or a group of close friends. These photos capture a years worth of fun, living, learning, and special experiences. Every single photograph is worth 2010 words to someone and they will never forget it.

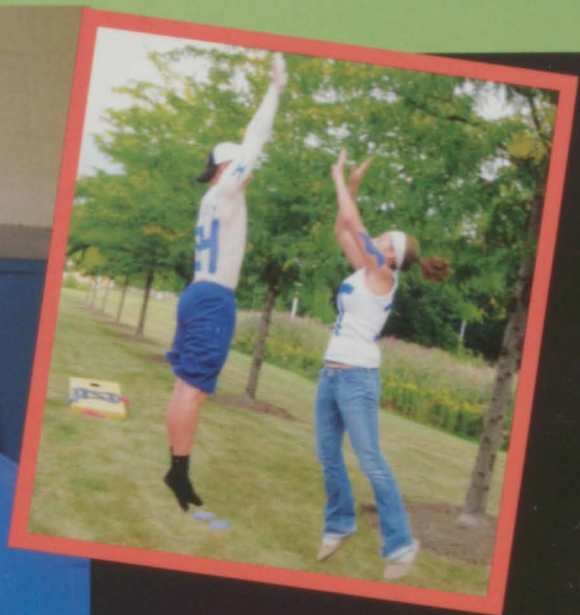

A Picture is Worth

2010 Words

Seniors Chris Wilson, Ethan Laing, Christopher Mullins, Garrett Jerome, and Eric Cornell celebrate their success and take in their last moments of high school.

What would it be like to not have a yearbook? Seniors, how would you like to not visually remember your last year? Whether you are a freshman or a new alumni, a yearbook perfectly frames your year. It helps you remember things important to you or points out events that have faded by the time of your 30th year reunion. But most of all, a yearbook captures and vividly highlights the moments that you never want erased from your memory. The yearbook "A Picture is Worth 2010 Words" is busting through its binding with the year's most memorable moments. Every single snapshot is loaded with words to describe the, classroom, an intense game, roaring crowds, and all the special activities that occurred at Madison High School. Flip through the pages, look at every photo, and remember that these are not just photos, they are memories and they are worth 2010 words.

Junior Garry Zehe and Senior Kaitlyn Oberstar soar through the air for an epic high five while tailgating before a football game.

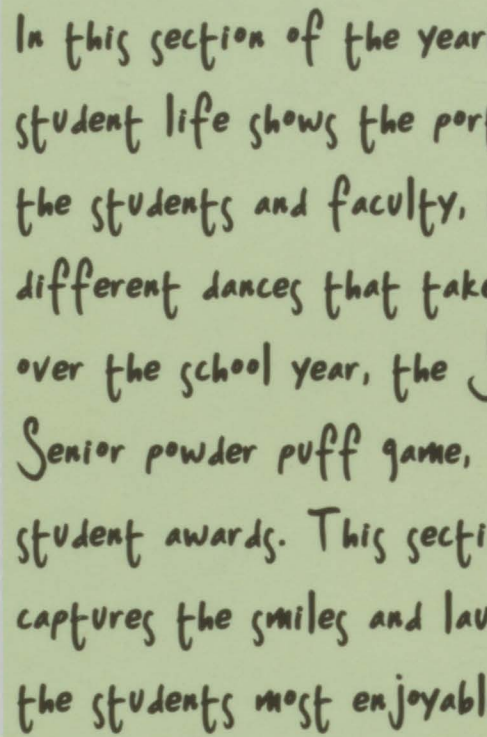

Assistant principals Mr. Potts and Mrs. Triana enjoy their pie in the face more than students were hoping they would.

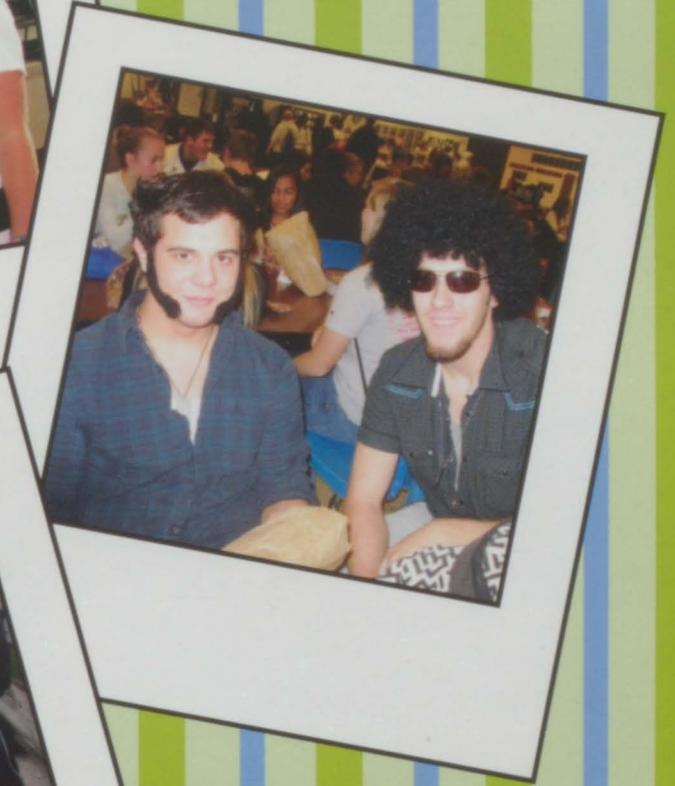

Junior Emily Rowe can not help but laugh as she gets "mummified" by her friends for the Octoberfest.

Senior Dustin Pengov and Junior Connor Gibb make safety goggles a new fashion statement.

Student Life

In this section of the yearbook, the student life shows the portraits of the students and faculty, the different dances that take place over the school year, the Junior and Senior powder puff game, and the student awards. This section captures the smiles and laughter of the students most enjoyable activities throughout the year.

Long Journey Coming To An End

A procession of blue and white gowns strolled into the hot and overly crowded gym on the morning of June 5th. It opened with speeches made by several students including the Co-valedictorian and the Salutatorian. Performances took place by many choir students as well as band students. The AV department put together an enjoyable baby picture video and senior highlight video that brought many laughs and tears. Often times graduation is considered a completion of high school; an ending to all the memories you have made with your friends over four years. However, graduation has another unlikely aspect, it is a beginning of something new. College life yearns in most students hearts, for others going to the military or starting a new job. No matter where life takes you your high school experiences will never be forgotten.

The room was filled with emotion as everyone prepared for the ceremony. Derek Holroyd and Stephani Stout are two of the many students that were hugging and sharing thoughtful words.

This years Salutatorian Marianna Smith entertained the audience with her humorous speech, easing the crowd during this bittersweet day.

Carli Graham, Sheryl Powell, and Mike Socosky performed a song written by Carli called "Goodbye, for Now" during the video presentation bringing laughs and tears to the audience.

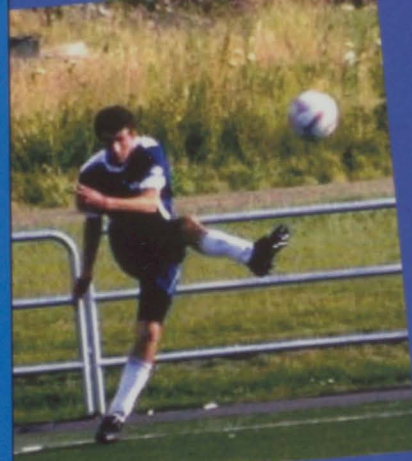

As they sit and await for instructions Rob Pollard, Joseph Pietrzyk, and Nick Paulus take a look around the room of their graduating class.

The Madison choir students performed for the last time singing "There You'll Be" by Faith Hill featuring senior Allison Misich.

Making New Friends From Foreign Lands

Sofia Balderrama

Making her way from Cristo de la Concordia in Boliva, Sofia's favorite teachers at Madison High School are Mrs. Kilpatrick and Mr. Hanes. She misses her family, friends, and soccer.

Silke Dannecker

Coming from the sixth largest country in Europe, Silke loves to play piano, swim, draw, and hang out with friends in her spare time. She misses her family, friends, and clubs in her home country of Germany. She likes school, people, and teachers of Madison.

Polina Svetlitskaya

Arriving from the largest country in the world, Polina misses her friends, family, clubs, and her school in Russia. She likes the people and school in Madison, and she enjoys dancing, relaxing, and hanging out with her new friends in her spare time.

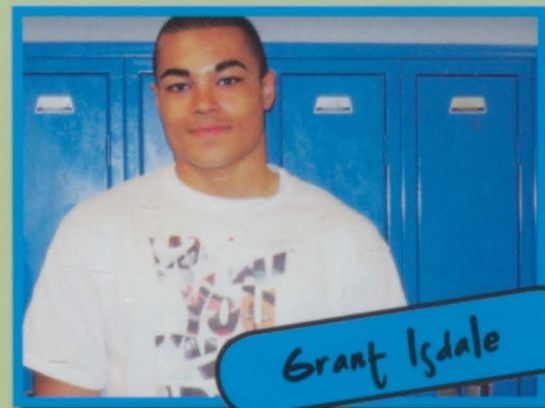

Lisa Roehr

Coming from the center of Europe, Lisa misses her friends, family, coffee shops, getting around by a bike, school, and weekends in Germany. She likes the people, and school in Madison. She enjoys relaxing in her spare time.

Benedikt Korinek

Making his way from the home town of the Brandenburg Gate in Germany, Benedikt enjoys playing soccer and meeting new people in Madison. Back home he misses his friends, family, playing soccer, wrestling, hanging out with friends, skiing, and snow boarding.

Grant Isdale

Coming from the 787 islands of Scotland, Grant enjoys playing football, and hanging out with new friends in his spare time. The thing he misses most about Scotland is family and friends.

Kathryn Bell

Traveling from the mountainous country of Scotland the thing that Kathryn likes most about Madison are the size of the houses. She misses family, and friends from her home country Scotland the most. She enjoys reading, listening to music, and hanging out with friends in her spare time.

Ayaka Fukazawa

Coming all the way from Japan, Ayaka misses family and friends the most. She enjoys playing tennis for Madison, and making new friends during her stay here. She likes to read, draw, and talk to friends in her spare time.

Brian Sampalo

Coming from the tropics of Brazil, Brian misses friends, parties, and his family the most. He likes the classes offered at Madison. He enjoys playing soccer, flirting with girls, and playing bass guitar in his spare time.

Leopold Beyer

Leopold lives in Germany, home of the Walhalla temple. Leo enjoys listening to music, and playing video games in his spare time. He misses family the most from Germany, and likes classes the most about Madison.

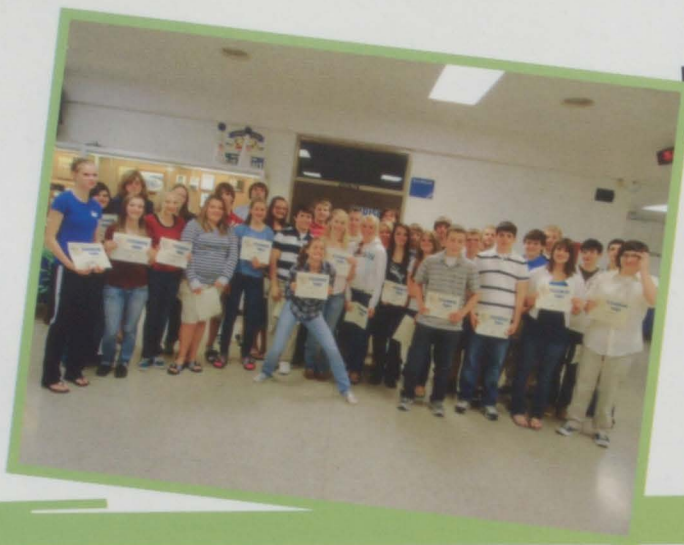

Enjoying their last few months together at Madison High School, foreign exchange students come together for a few pictures.

David Aumveller

Coming from the most populous European country David misses his family, and friends from Germany. He enjoys hanging out with friends in his spare time. He likes how Madison High School is a more exciting environment to go to school in than his school back home.

Achieving Success

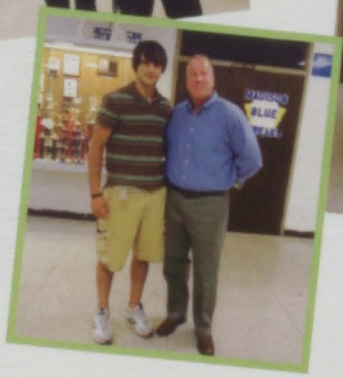

Sum It UP!

At the end of each school year Madison hosts an awards banquet for each grade. The banquet reflects on the accomplishments of every student for that school year. Students achieve awards for academic success, perfect attendance, or their participation in a club. At the senior awards banquet some seniors get the honor of receiving scholarships along with other various awards.

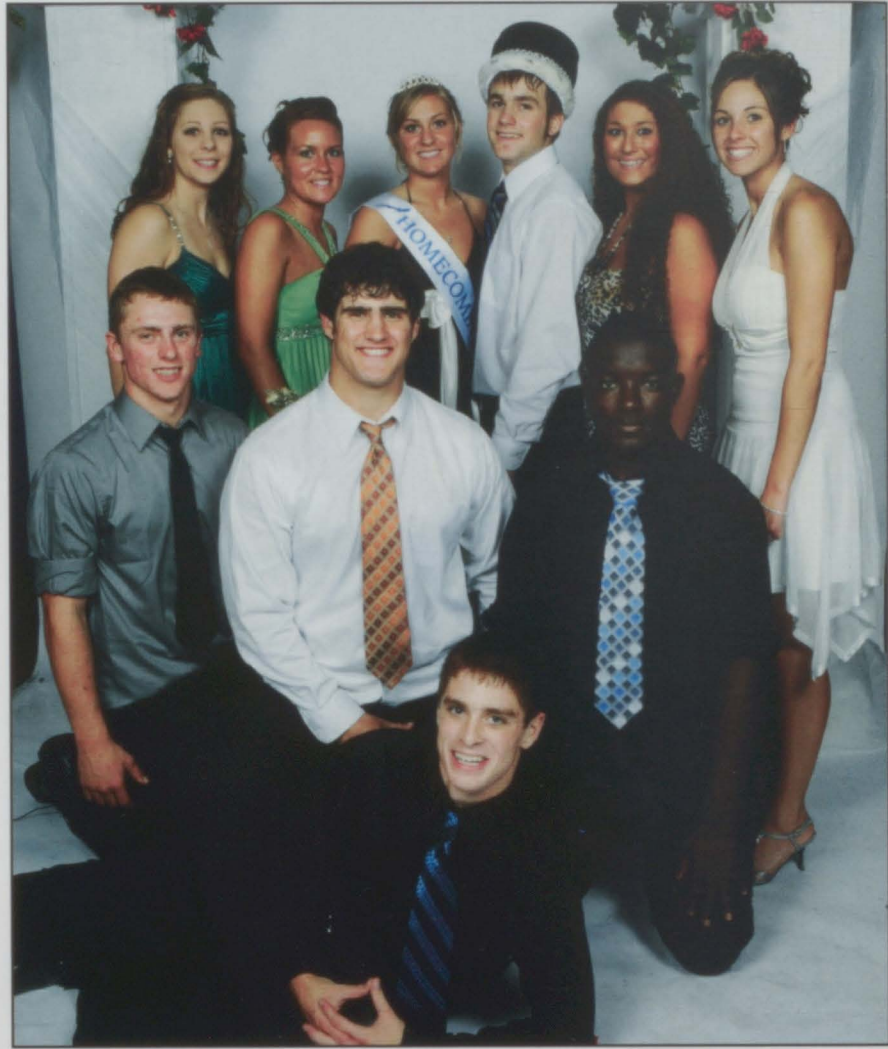

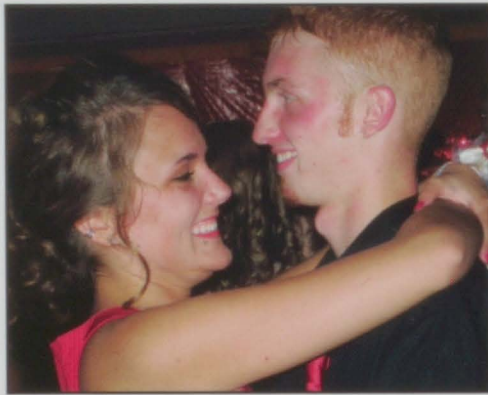

We did it!!

Senior Zach Fedele and junior Jake Montgomery look oh-so classy in their black and white attire.

Senior Matt Kosar and Rachel Pengov are all smiles as they dance to the last slow song of the night.

Seniors Jacob Pavone, Alex Greene and junior Jennifer White are having the time of their lives as they dance with their friends and go absolutely wild.

The entire student body was entertained at the Homecoming assembly as shaving cream was being thrown and dove into what used to be a tug of war contest, but was now a slip n' slide.

Madison Meets the Red Carpet

Homecoming Court:

Bottom Row: Matt Bruening

Senior Miles Iverson, is looking fabulous in a pink satin dress, he can only imagine how funny he looks.

The red carpet was rolled out and camera flashes filled the gym as the 2009-2010 homecoming court strutted out in pairs. The assembly brought back memories of previous years and certainly created some new ones, like one messy game of tug a war.

As Friday night quickly approached, Ashley Miller was crowned Homecoming Queen. To add to the excitement, our Madison Bluestreaks came off with their first win, defeating the Chardon Hilltoppers. An equally excited fan section stormed the muddy field throwing fistfuls of mud and messy high fives. Then the night everyone waited for had arrived, Homecoming. As tensions rose and emotions ran high, Jesse "Big Cat" Hart was crowned Homecoming King. At 11:00 the red carpet was rolled up and new memories will be looked back on.

Senior Christopher Maddox perfects the move of framing his face and makes the best of his last homecoming.

Queen Ashley Miller and King Jesse Hart are hand in hand as they dance to the song "Ocean Wide", by The Afters.

"For the rules being changed, it was pretty fun. I also thought that everything was very well decorated," concludes Amanda Curry.

A Night In The Jungle

Winter Formal 2010 arrived with many surprises and fun activities. A guest appearance was made by Jungle Terry and many of his animals. Students were enjoying taking pictures with the animals and helping themselves to animal crackers. This year was the biggest turnout ever with around 443 people dancing the night away. The jungle decorations were all well-liked at the dance. By the end of the night Seniors Kyle Coxe and Allison Novotny were pronounced as king and queen of the jungle. Advisor Mrs. Vacca added, "I thought the key club put on a great winter formal. The theme was a big hit and everyone enjoyed the music." She also commented on the amount of members who actively participated in planning and decorating for the dance.

Seniors Kyle Coxe and Allison Novotny dance after they were pronounced king and queen of Winter Formal 2010.

Freshman Tyler Levicki and his friends are having a great time as they dance to the latest pop music at their first winter formal.

Passionately dancing the night away junior Jeremy Childers and freshman Candace Schetterer are hand in hand during a slow song.

Students at the dance enjoyed Jungle Terry bringing his animals such as snakes, alligators, and turtles to their winter formal.

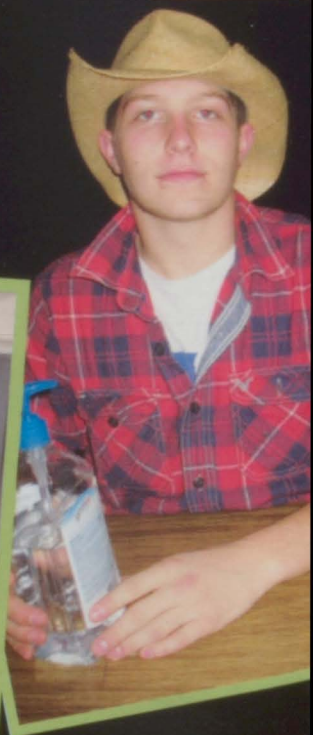

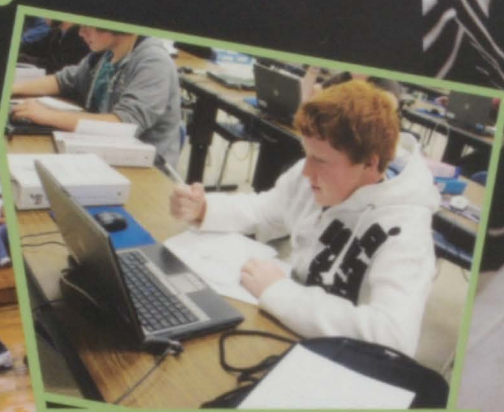

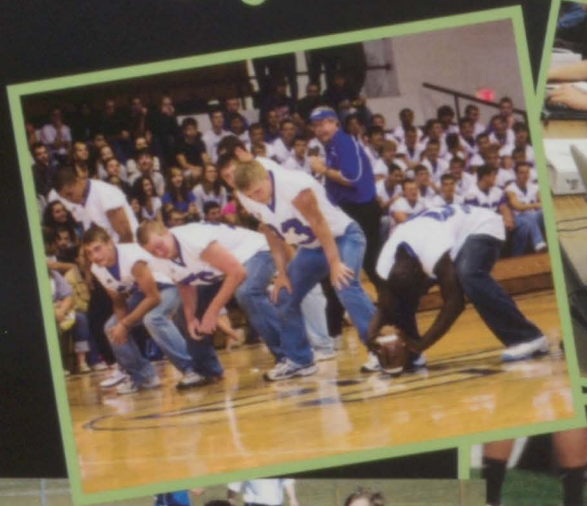

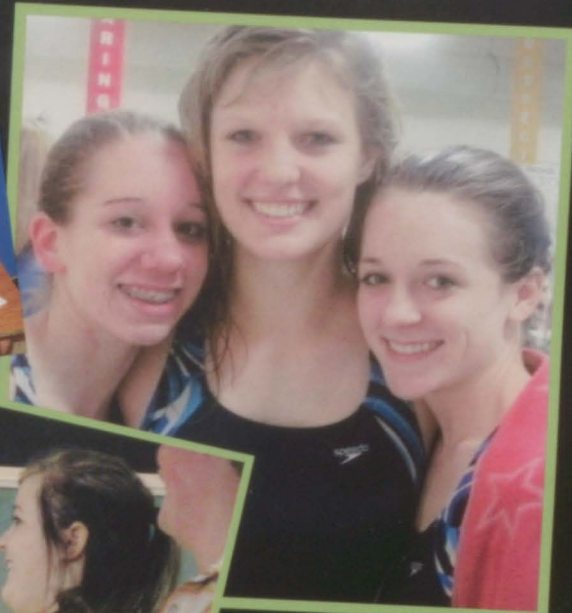

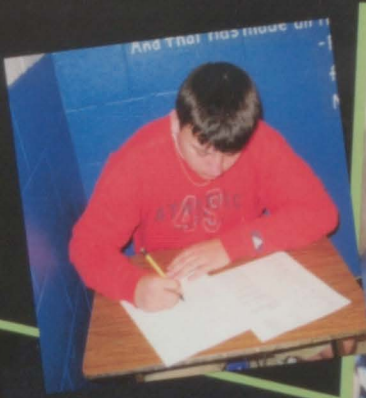

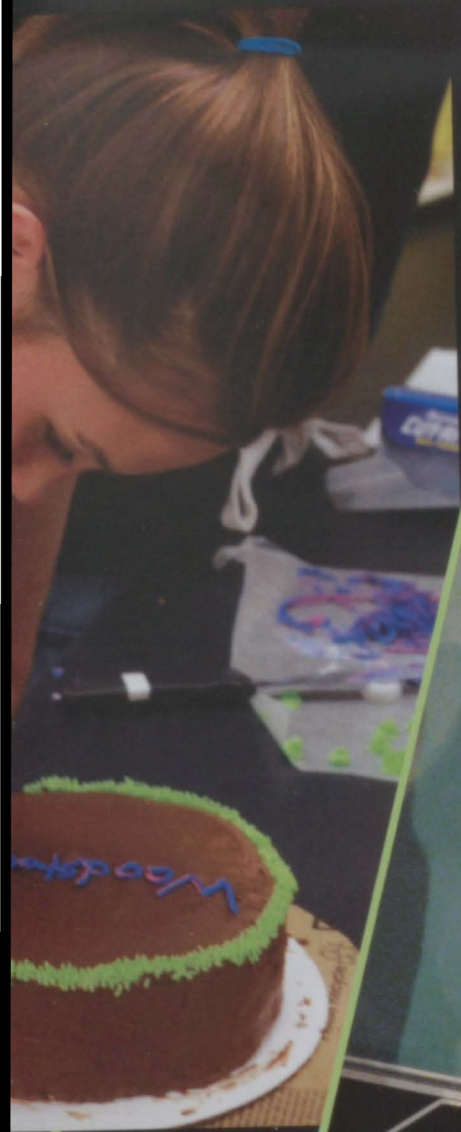

All dressed up for the jungle theme, seniors Megan Juratovac, Megan Johnson, and Jordyn Weir pause while dancing to pose for a picture.

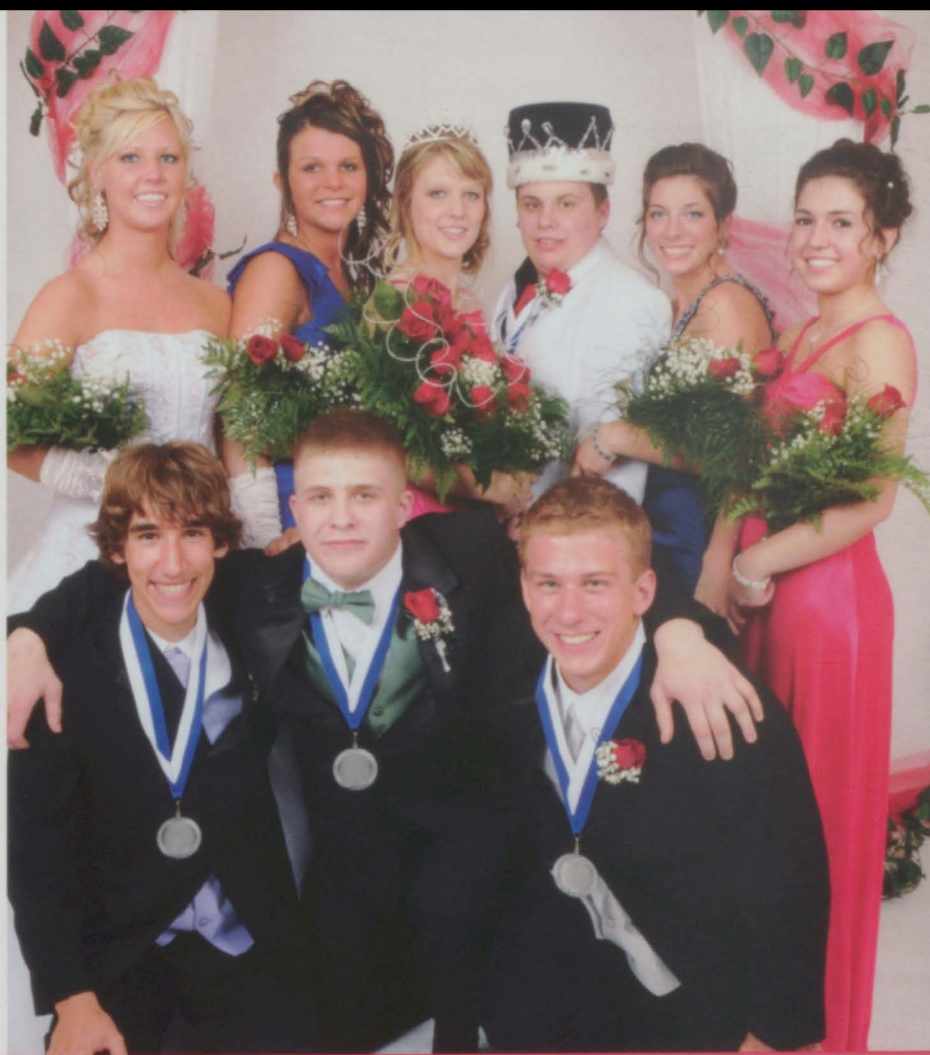

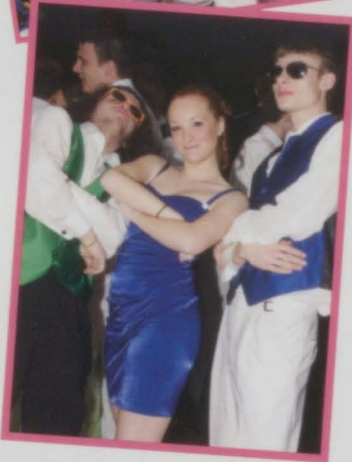

Junior PJ Trisket and senior Jake Shirer are not holding back as they kept their fist pumping all night long.

A Courtyard of Dreams

Juniors and seniors flood the dance floor taking in every moment of their last dance with their friends.

Prom 2010 was held at La Malfa with a beautiful black, red, and silver color theme that awed students as they walked in. "Prom was amazing, La Malfa was so beautiful and I had a lot of fun with my friends for the last time before graduation," senior Brenna Jones commented. Towards the end of the night, the prom king and queen were finally revealed as everyone crossed their fingers. Zachary Moore and Marianna Smith were pronounced prom king and queen. The two shared in a slow dance together as the rest of the prom court slowly joined in. "It's sad to know this is our last dance together as a class, but we still have graduation together, so you have to make your last memories be the best ones, and try to have fun before its over," said senior Corey Carsey. Even with prom being one of the last times together as a class seniors laughed, danced, and partied the night away making new memories that would last a life time.

Juniors Savannah Owoc and Joey Dunkle smile and laugh as they share new memories with their friends.

Seniors Hunter Legeza, Kyle Baker, and Seth Boggs show off their guns outside of the gym and take it to the dance floor.

Seniors Brianna Beasley, Hannah Reynolds, Brittany Studer and Morgan Winegard form a dancing circle of their own in the sea of people at prom.

Academics

The creative mind expands throughout the classes in Madison High School. Our basic courses, band, art, physical education, foreign language, choir, life skills, and Auburn, drive the students to further their talents and skills. Students in Madison choose the classes that suit them the best and are most qualified in. This section illustrates the hardwork and dedication students at Madison High School have.

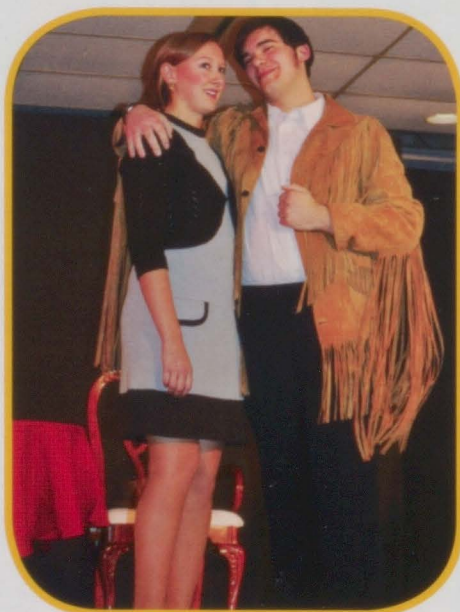

Feathers Fly: "Pillow Talk" is a Hit

The 2009 Fall Play, "Pillow Talk", was based on a Rock Hudson/ Doris Day film from the sixties. The plot consisted of a man and woman who share a phone line, Brad Allen and Jan Morrow. Brad always keeps the line occupied by talking to his girlfriends, which annoys Jan, forcing tension between the two. One day, Brad sees Jan, not knowing who she is, and decides to add her to his list of calls. Knowing how she feels about him, he plans to be a Texan named Rex to win her over, which eventually works. The stars of the play; Myrissa Yokie as Jan Morrow, Julia Kuhlman as Alma, Perry Quayle as Brad Allen, and Dillon Shenkel as Jonathon Forbes had outstanding performances bringing the total attendance to around 300 up from previous year fall plays. Although the play was a success, more publicity could have been made for an even better attendance rate. As of now, plans for next years fall play are still in discussion.

Seniors Myrissa Yokie and Perry Quayle play Jan Morrow and Brad Allen. "The most difficult part of my role was having to play two different personalities.", says Quayle.

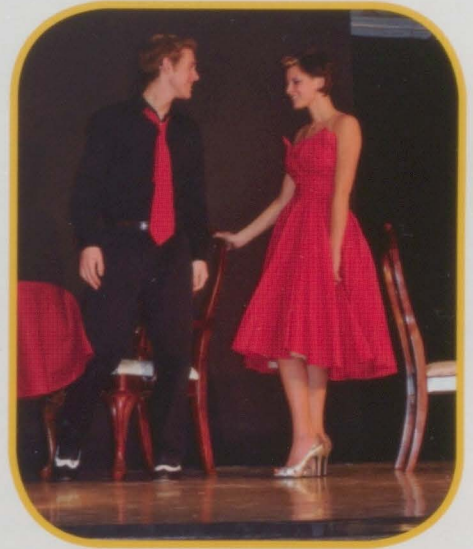

Junior, Thomas Visel played the role of Detective Graham. Visel's favorite memory of rehearsals was drawing pictures of Perry Quayle.

Row 1: Christopher Neira, Julia Kuhlman, Myrissa Yokie, Dillon Shenkel, Sofia Balderrama

Row 2: Mason Golden, Angelina Huber, Keirstin Longstreet, Savannah Owoc, Lynsey Dixon, Nichol Gabor

Sophomore Tyler Kensinger and senior Keirstin Longstreet don't forget their lines as one of their fellow actors did. Longstreet's favorite scene of the play was when Dillon Shenkel forgot his lines from being nervous after kissing Myrissa Yokie.

Junior, Haley Bodager played the role of Yvette, a flirtatious french girl. "Yvette was a difficult role to play," says Bodager, "French accents are not easy!"

Sophomore Mason Golden played a police officer, and was involved in a wacky scam to get a girl. Golden says, "My favorite part was probably when Brad Allen picked up Jan Morrow to take her to his house. Physical comedy is the best!"

"Drama is life

Wonderful One Acts

bits cut out."

-Alfred Hitchcock

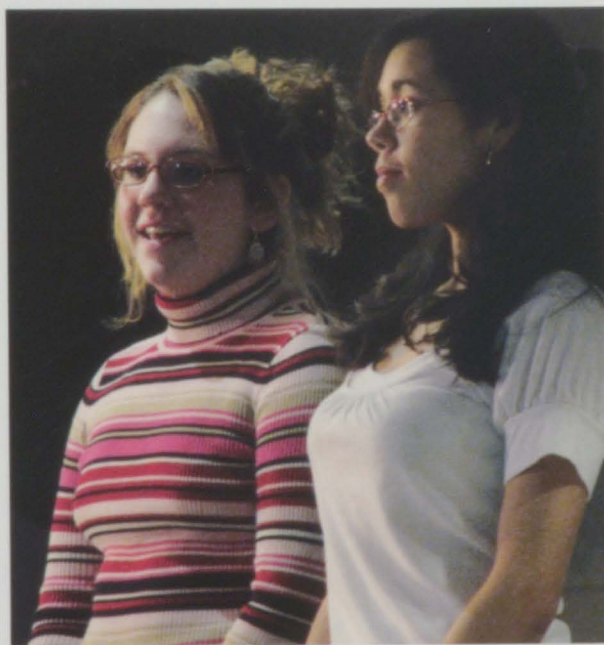

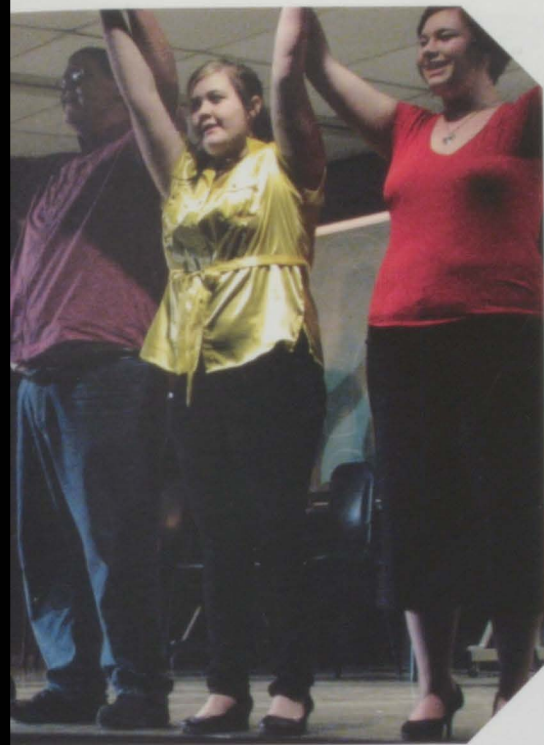

Each winter, talented Madison students put forth a considerable amount of time and effort to produce a show that the community and high school will enjoy. The Winter One Acts are a combination of several short plays, all which are sure to have the audience roaring with laughter and clapping their hands in satisfaction. This year, the One Acts were; "Naomi in the Living Room" by Christopher Durang and "All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten," by Robert Fulghum. Although it may seem that the aspiring student actors take all the spotlight, it is also shared with their director Ms. Groah, who has been involved in Madison plays since 2000. "The group of students that I had this year were ambitious, fun-loving, and adventurous. They were willing to try anything," reflects Ms. Groah. This year's Winter One Acts attendance was significantly higher than last year; with a total of about 250 people attending the performances.

Senior Alex Greene sits on the floor, reflecting his love for Mozart and the advanced intellect of his music.

Junior Jessica Cogar unexpectedly stands on the sofa, screaming at her son and his wife. Her split personality character has tendencies to say and do offbeat things.

At the end of the plays the actors joined hands for a group bow.

Senior Amilene Primer and junior Amanda Curry share the spotlight together as they sing a duet.

"My favorite part of the One Acts was the rehearsal and the fact that there was such a small group of people to work with"

-Junior Shay Trotter

The cast had volunteers each night of their performance to make a humorous point. The volunteers were asked to spell out words while the cast made it as awkward as possible for them.

Sophomore Cooper Legeza plays Mitch Mahoney, a comfort counselor. "My favorite line had to be 'man, you can not comfort these darn kids' because it was the very first line of the few lines I had," jokes Legeza.

The cast caught in action, dancing to a song in the musical, "The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee" written by William Finn.

S-P-E-L-L-I-N-G

Senior Alexander Greene played the judge in the spelling bee. Greene had a great time admitting people in awkward situations and flaunting sarcastic remarks every chance that he got.

"The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee" is a musical production written by Rachel Sheinkin. The musical was directed by Madison's coral director Ms. Groah. The story centered on six spelling participants with an added element of improv with different audience volunteers. One volunteer being Ms. Groah's father, who was called on stage during the Saturday performance. When asked about this year's musical selection Ms. Groah commented, "I was looking for a smaller show this year and I find "Spelling Bee" to be an extremely intelligent and fun show with great music!" The show brought a slightly smaller audience size, but still surpassing the cast of only 12 members. However, Ms. Groah was proud of all the members involved, and is in the process of planning 'something big' for next years spring musical.

Freshman Tyler Levicki plays Chip Tolentino. Chip was a Boy Scout participant in the Spelling Bee, who was eliminated by a distraction from a 'fine looking lady' in the audience. "I really enjoyed how the cast molded together," says Levicki.

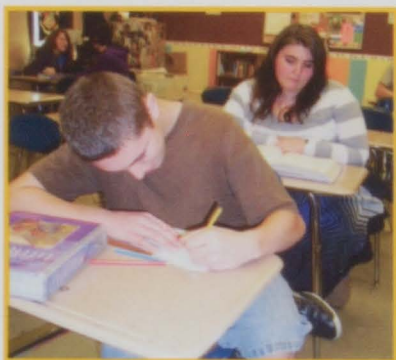

Junior Savannah Owoc played Marcy Park, an independent character who spoke six languages and was not allowed to cry. "I really enjoyed being able to be on stage with such a wonderful group of people," exclaimed Owoc.

Here at Madison High School, the English department offers a wide range of classes to choose from. Some of these include your typical English classes such as college preparatory, honors, Shakespeare, and journalism. Now which one you choose you take is entirely your decision. English is a great way to help students in many different aspects from communication skills to writing and reading skills as well. The world of English allows students to let their creativity escape whether it be flowing onto paper in the form of a short story, a poem, or an essay. Our English department here at Madison consists of Mrs. Bowden, Mr. Smith, Mrs. Vacca, Ms. Knisely, Mrs. Madore, Mr. Madore, Mrs. Kemper, Mr. Herald, Mrs. Kilpatrick, and Mrs. Wolfert. English is a great way to express your creative mind and let it come to life with a pen and paper.

Writing Our Story

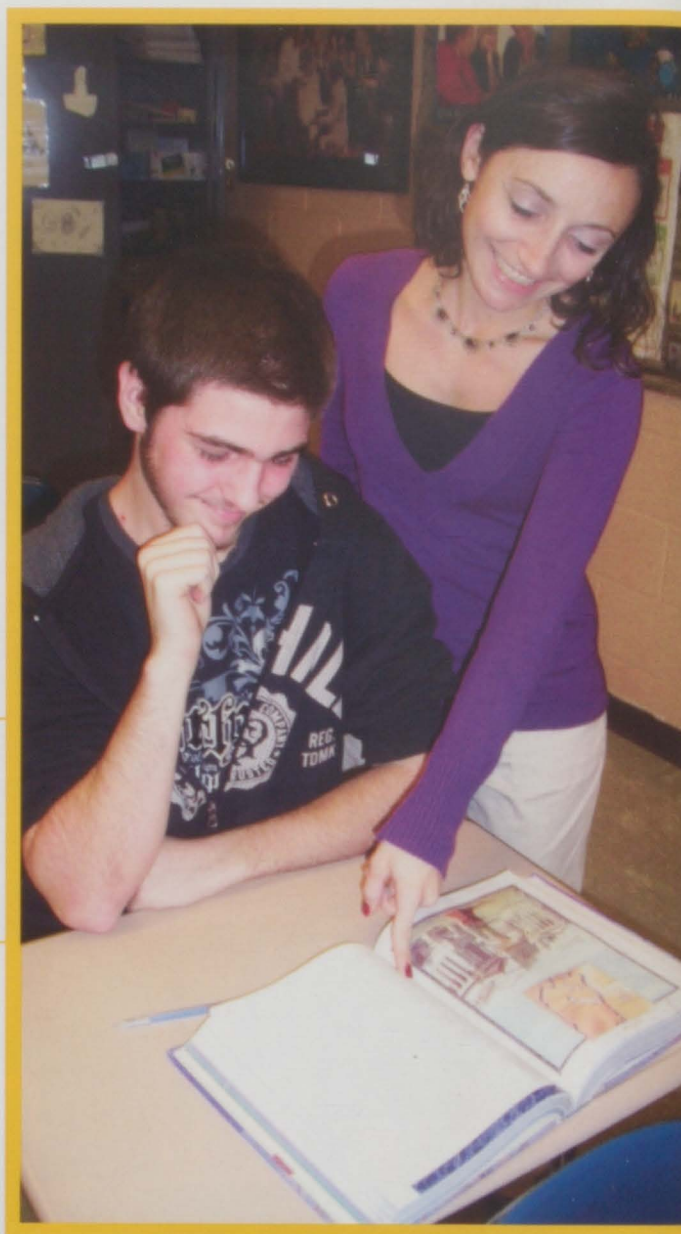

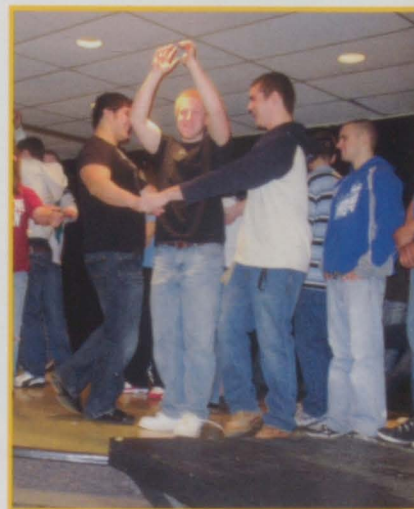

While putting a few final additions to his project, Christopher Jogan adds a little color to his work.

Kyle Baker and Juliana Brotzman pause from their "Beowulf" epic hero presentations to take a photo.

Seniors Tyler Law, Tyler Richmond, and Chad Wienhold participate in many of the activities planned by a guest speaker.

Senior Zachary Girton and junior Jillanne Mackey take a breather after just finishing their work in Mr. Mainello's Statistics class.

It All Adds Up

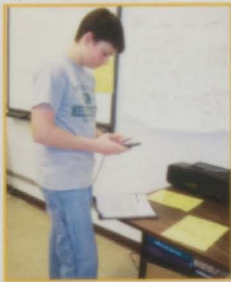

Getting a head start on his homework, senior James Leitch concentrates hard on the new lesson that he learned.

In the math department, Madison students experience new techniques of the math world. They learn to understand the concepts of math and how it is used in everyday life. Whether it is spending money at the grocery store or balancing your check book, you will need math. In the classes you learn about growth and decay, the dimensions of shapes, the canceling of x and y , and much more. There are many different classes offered to suit a students needs and abilities such as: calculus, geometry, algebra and statistics. Math is the only subject that is the same no matter where you are in the world, therefore it is very important. Math is not a waste of time, but a useful element for problem solving in everyday life. In the end it all adds up.

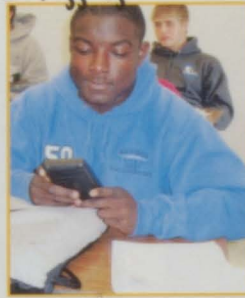

My Favorite Part About This Class Is . . .

Tawna Whited

Justin Saeger

Antonio Crawford

"The review games and Mr. Wagner was always entertaining, it made Calculus fun."

"The activity I liked the most in this class was the scavenger hunt. I also loved Mrs. Collins sarcasim."

"This class taught me about real statistics in the real world. I enjoyed the students in the class and I'm glad I took this class."

Finding The Solution

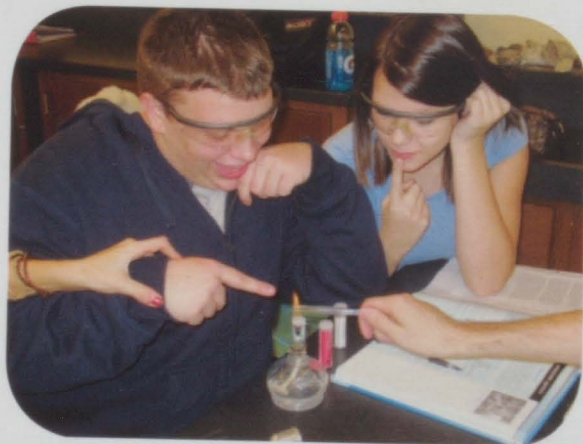

There is a variety of classes to take at MHS for a science credit, but the hardest thing to do is picking what class to take! Some of the classes offered this year are biology, chemistry, earth science, physics, anatomy/physiology, genetics and parasitology, and forensics. "The best part of anatomy was dissecting cats, and my cat was pregnant, so that made the experience even better," Senior Juliana Brotzman excitedly announced. Students learned by participation in classroom experiments, videos, and discussions that were driven by students curiosity and enthusiasm. "The best part of biomedical science was dissecting the sheep heart, it was awesome," said Sophomore Kyle Bock.

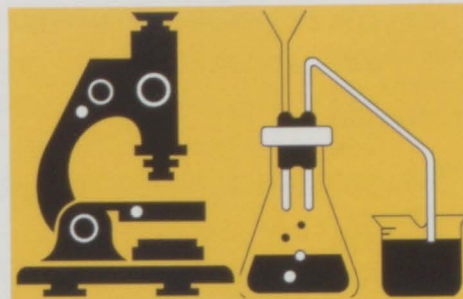

Senior Alex McCormick explains the solution to her physics experiment. "Science is always the best part of my year, and physics was one of the best classes I have ever taken."

Senior Juliana Brotzman shows off the surprise of a litter of kittens in her cat in anatomy class.

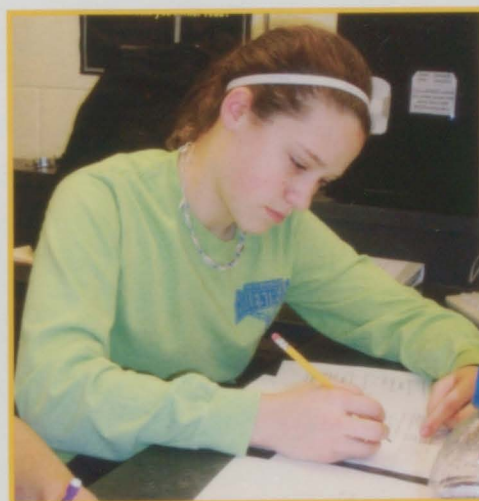

Seniors Zachary Moore and Bethany Lewis conduct numerous tests on there samples in genetics.

Showing his fellow classmates where they messed up, sophomore Nick Adams finds the solution with the aid of Mr. Hanes.

Each social studies class here at Madison has something to offer each and every student. Classes range from Government and American History to Current Events and Human Behavior. You can learn about how American government came to be or how American government functions now. In each class there is always something that can relate back to what is happening now in our society. "Social studies classes teach you how the real world works. You cannot be a great scientist, engineer, or doctor without an understanding of how the government and society works." Mr. Gilligan states after being asked why these classes are so important.

Junior Emily Summerhill is hard at work in Mr. Martins AP History class.

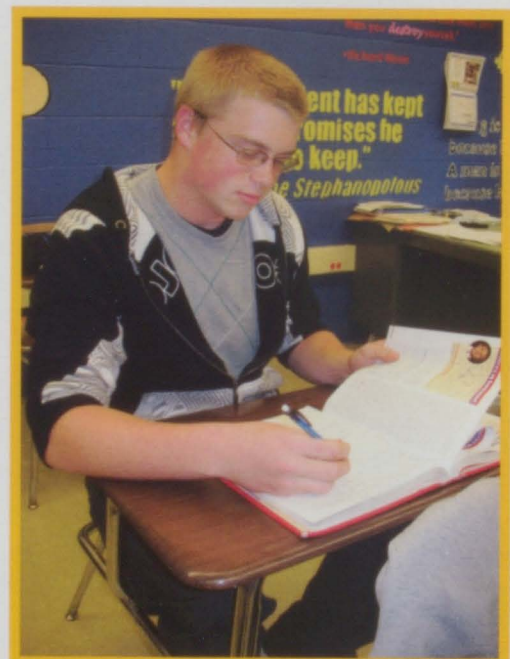

Quote Me. . .

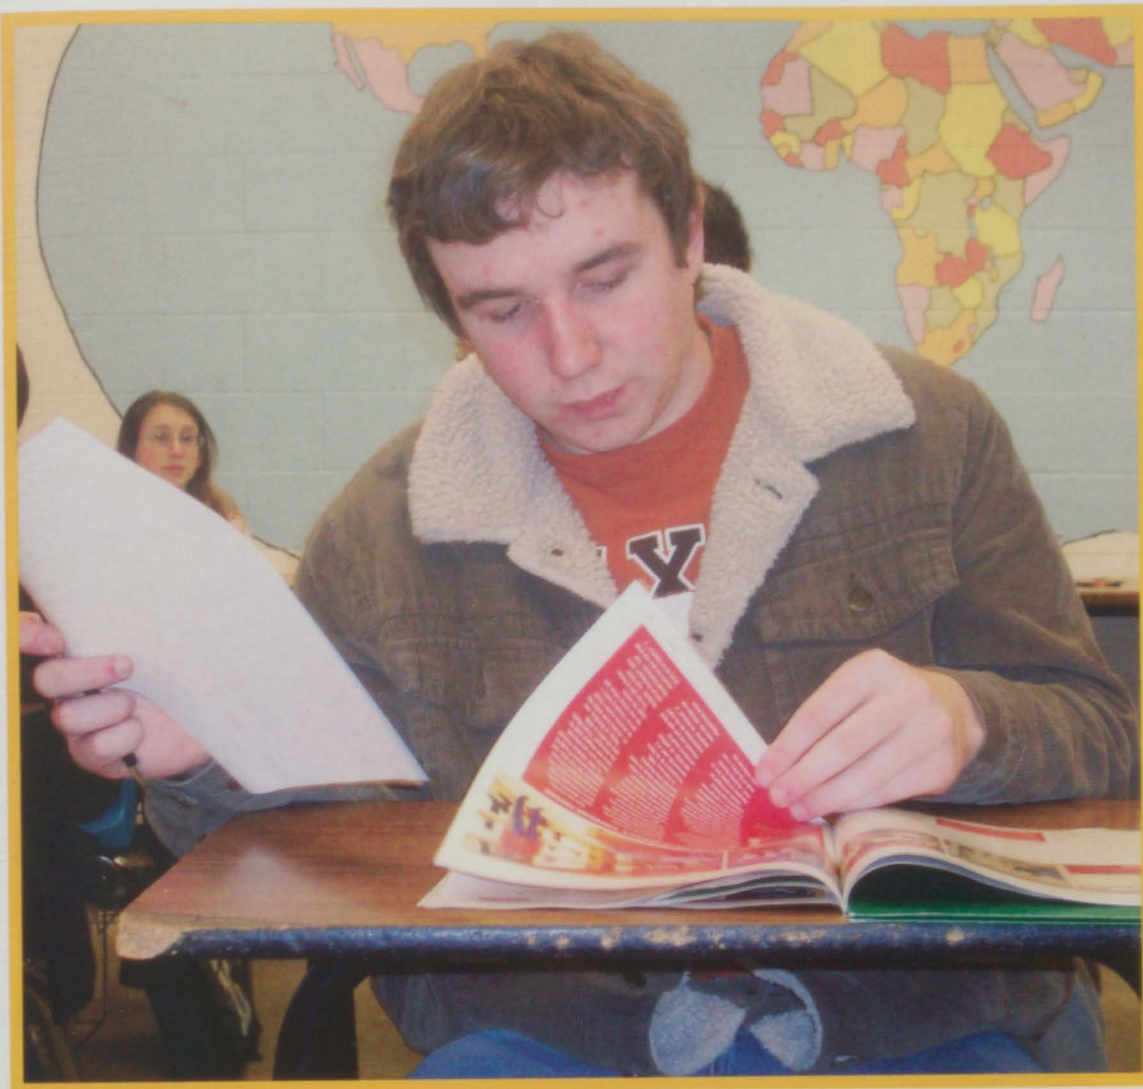

"Mr. Martin is the greatest teacher ever. Period. He taught me so much about history and life."

-Emily Summerhill

"My favorite thing about my government class was just hanging out with Mr. Dragas and watching videos."

-Collin Engler

Working his legs muscles, Alexander Byers focuses on his form to guarantee a great workout.

Serving at deuce junior Robert Bismark keeps his eye on his toss as he serves to his classmate.

Students of Mrs. Mullans team sports class shoot, run, and guard while playing a healthy game of basketball.

Junior Domenic Martorana shows off his tennis skills in racket sports during the fall semester.

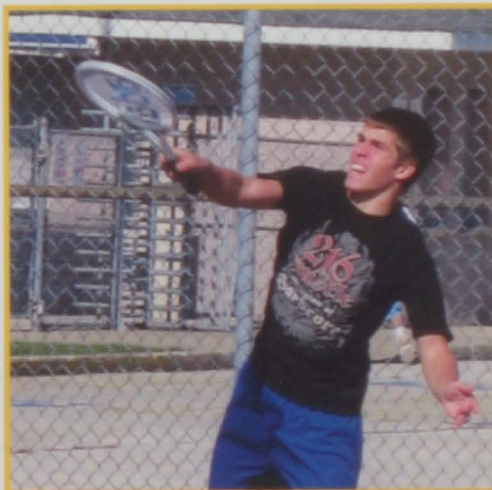

Staying Active Is The Key

Senior Sarah Lodge lets out a "grr" while pumping some iron in her weight training class.

There are many different classes to take for a P.E. credit such as weight lifting, modern dance, team sports, racket sports, and personal fitness. Students will do everything from ballet to hip-hop dancing in modern dance class as well as stretching everyday. In team and racket sports, student practice good team work while participating in sports such as tennis, basketball, football, and badminton. In the weight lifting classes, students practice the correct form of lifting and building up their muscle mass. Students work hard at squats, bench press, leg press, free weights, lunges, push-ups and sit-ups. In the personal fitness class you set yours own goals and work daily at your own pace. No matter which class you choose for your P.E. credit, you are guaranteed to get a good work out and leave school with healthier than ever.

Building Skills for Life

The Family & Consumer Science department at Madison High School contains several useful classes such as Home Economics, Advanced Cooking, Drafting, Nutrition and Wellness, Dating and Relationships, Career Field Experience, Parenting, and Wood Shop. Students will learn skills like cooking, cleaning, caring for a family, budgeting, time and money management, how to sew, drafting and designing, how to build things out of wood and many more necessities of life. The cooking classes do many fun and exciting projects including competitions in dishes such as casseroles, chili, and rib cook-offs, an iron chef and cake decorating contest. Doing these hands on activities will teach students of Madison to live independently and become successful society members. The new class offered at Madison this year was Career Field Experience. This is the class that senior students must take in order to be a part of Senior Project. Students learn about career opportunities and then get to shadow someone of their chosen career field. This helps students learn more about their major before they go off to college to pursue their dream careers.

Senior Alyssa Schiemann made two bean bag ball pillows for her craft project out of the Haunn Craft Book as her final project in Life Skills.

Christopher Campbell works very diligently sanding away trying to smooth out any rough spots that may interfere with his woods project.

During the Clothing and Crafts class these students have a blast tie-dyeing tee shirts and all sorts of objects of clothing such as bags and pants.

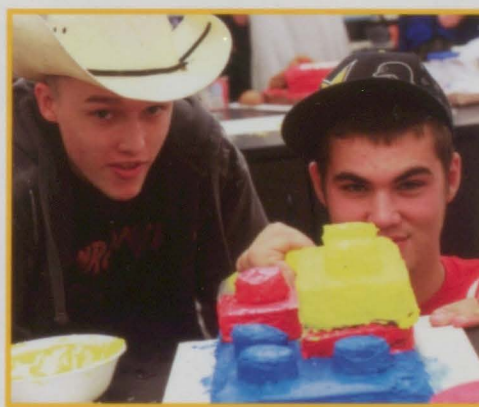

Working on their cake for the Cake competition. Sheryl Powell and Emily Schiemann make a 1960's themed cake. Senior Sheryl Powell commented "The hardest part was writing words on the cake and try so hard not to eat all the frosting!"

Senior Raymond Hanzak, sands his architectural project. He has been hard at work all year long on this classroom assignment.

Students must pass a test in order to use the sewing machines, they must carefully trace the paper shapes in order to test their accuracy of sewing properly. Nick Adams is working diligently to pass the test so he may start his craft projects.

Working very hard on their cake decorating, seniors David Bump and Chadwick Wienhold made a Lego themed cake in advanced cooking class.

Juniors Kelley McDonnell and Nickolas Jackson converse about their latest homework assignment in Ms. Taylor's Spanish 3 class.

Seniors Dennis Hughes, John Walker, and John Perkins have fun learning spanish terms playing Clue.

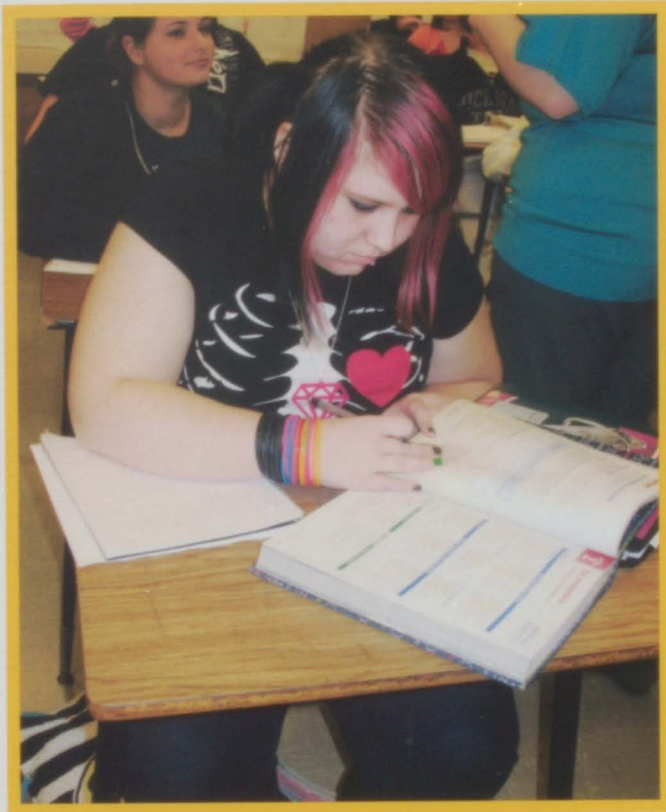

Junior Monica Kincaid and Senior Rachel McHenry work together in partners to finish a class assignment.

Creating Cultural Differences

Ms. Taylor's 3rd block class converses amongst themselves for the right answer.

Foreign language has been a hit with the new arrival of two new Spanish teachers to Madison High School. The new teachers for the Spanish classes this year are Mrs. Chandler, Ms. Householder and Ms. Edwards. They are pleased to be teaching such great students this year and are excited for several more years teaching at Madison High School. Russian has also been highly requested by students this year. Some major attractions are a performance by Russian dancers that a few select classes got to enjoy, and a field trip to a Russian Orthodox church complete with shopping in a nearby market with authentic treats and trinkets. "The best part of learning a new language is being able to teach a culture that kids don't completely know about and don't consider to have anything in common with," Mrs. Ryabtseva stated. Teachers, as well as the students have learned things about other cultures from their foreign students.

Quote it

"The hardest thing about Spanish was the vocabulary,"

-Michelle Brunson.

"Spanish is my favorite class because its easy and fun,"

-Kelley McDonnell.

"Russian is a challenge, but I enjoy knowing something different, not a lot of people can say they know Russian,"

-Jake Cassidy.

Jazzing It Up

The Madison High School jazz band is a group of talented students who love to play instruments and enjoy sharing their talents with others. They gather together 9th period to practice their songs. The jazz band only has a few concerts throughout the year. The instruments vary from guitar to saxophone and trumpet to piano. The jazz band played in a competition Chicago and placed first in their division for all of the events they competed in. Junior Joan Cerni stated, "all of our groups performed very well despite the fact we all ran on only three hours of sleep."

Senior Kyle Coxe sits patiently listening to director Mrs. May give instructions in jazz band.

The saxophone players freshman Jillian Wallace and sophomores Julia Kuhlman and Joshua Korth play a solo during the jazz band concert for the school.

Senior Michael Socosky and sophomores Cassandra Kahr and Jake Cassidy play the piano before jazz band practice.

Singing Out Loud

The choirs of Madison High School have been entertaining crowds for years. The choirs include: Eclectica, Concert Choir, Women's Choir, and Chamber Ensemble. Students interested in show choir have to audition for their spot. They have to complete a questionnaire, learn a song, and demonstrate their dancing abilities. In May, the Show Choir was honored to be on the Fox 8 morning show. "The choirs are the largest they've ever been this year and their overall sound has shown a lot of improvement this year," said Ms. Groah. She also added that some of her favorite songs the choir performed this year were: "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy" sung by Eclectica, "Wanting Memories" sung by Concert Choir, "Christmas Lullabye" sung by Women's Choir, and "Fruitcake" sung by Chamber Ensemble. Next year, Ms. Groah would like to see more guys involved in choir and is looking forward to starting an acapella choir next year.

Show Choir singing a tropical themed Christmas song dressed in lays and grass skirts at their Christmas concert.

Sophomore Mariah Cornell focuses on learning new choreography at one of show choir's after school practices.

Unleashing Our Inner Artists

" My favorite project was designing a collage on the computer and being able to add special effects with photo shop. I also enjoyed how we were able to socialize with friends, and still get work done."

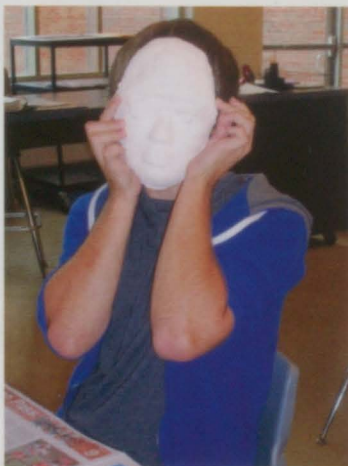

-Freshman Patrick Barton

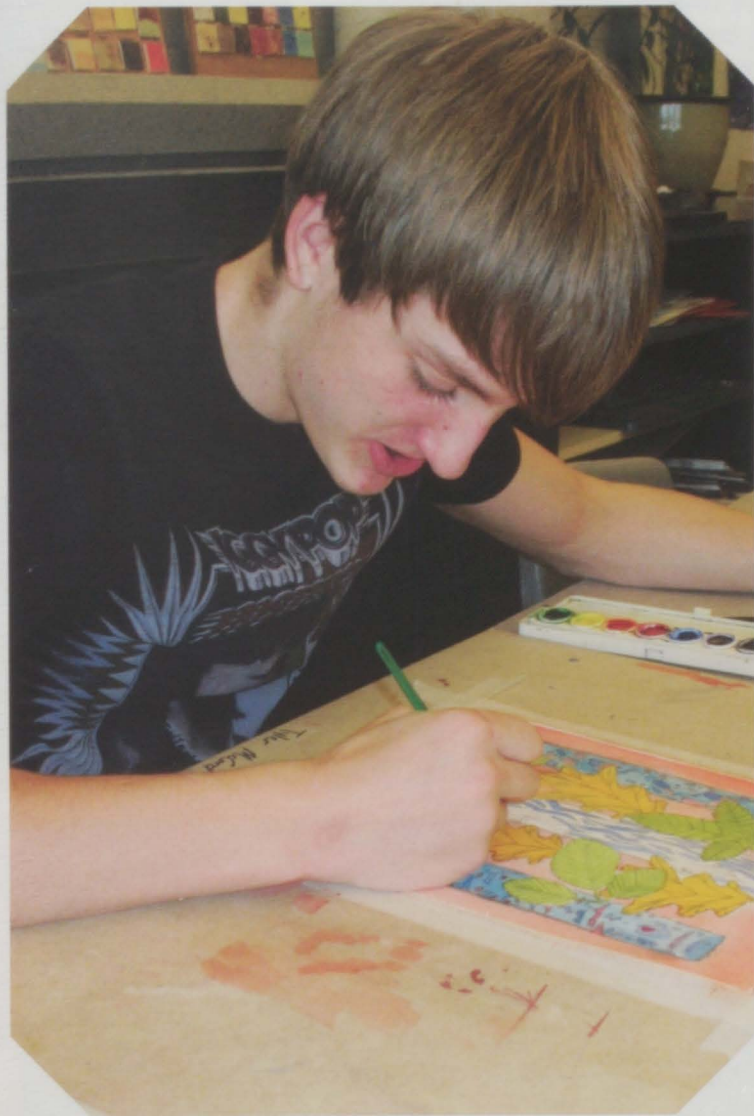

"Creativity is the soul of the true scholar."

-Nnamdi Azikiwe

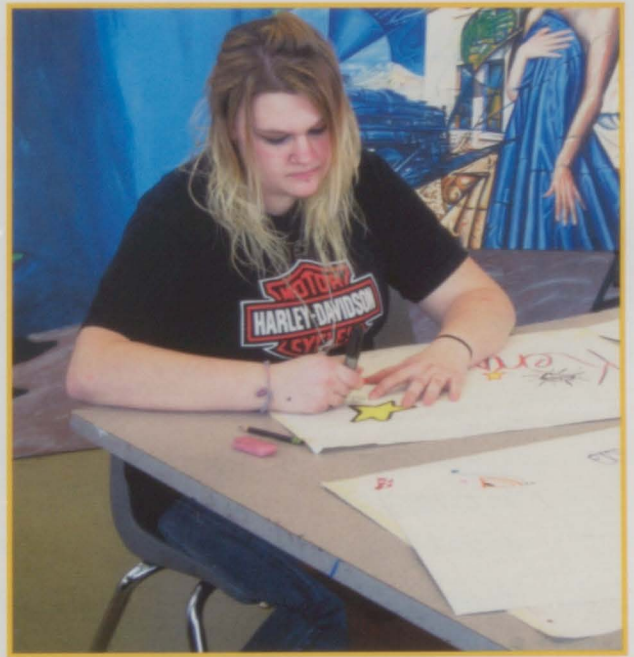

Senior Michael Lowery has a fun with his mask that he is making for his ceramics class with Mrs. Oravec.

Madison High School offers an array of art classes for its students to express their love for art and individual creativity. The talented art teachers Mr. Grier and Mrs. Oravec work together to teach art foundation, computer art, graphic design, drawing and design, ceramics, photography, commercial art, painting, and independent art. This year the students were privileged with trips to the Cleveland Museum of Art and the Lakeview Cemetery in Cleveland, Ohio. The students love to express their creativity in their art classes, which are displayed throughout the year in the art wing.

Senior Tyler McCord carefully adds colorful detail to his painting in hopes of getting another "A" in the grade book.

Sophomore, Kerri Kennison works on her class folder during Art Foundations II. "I liked that we got to paint and also work on the computers in class. The combination of both were a great experience to work with."

Junior, Alanna Dilley focuses on technique while structuring her whistle in Mrs. Oravec's ceramics class.

Behind the Scenes

Madison High School holds an AV class for the kids who want to learn about media and broadcasting. In this class Mrs. Grau teaches the students how to work behind the camera, make movies, load the videos to the computer, learn how to do editing, and much more. The AV class tapes programs around the Madison community. The AV department puts their creativity to the test by creating videos, performing and taping the morning announcements, and making documentaries. Many of their documentaries help to advertise against or for certain topics like depression and under age drinking. The AV department is a unique class in which students can express themselves in and out of the classroom.

Seniors Taylor Patterson, Mitchell Majernik, Daniel Ball, and freshmen Tyler Levicki and Mary Wynkoop sit around the table in AV making costumes for the children.

Freshman Tyler Levicki tries on the lion mask to see how it fits.

Senior Taylor Patterson stirs up the ingredients for the AV fear factor.

Senior Daniel Ball dressed in a box covered in newspaper, looking very fashionable for AV.

"Auburn Career Center was a great place where I was able to get the hands on experience I needed to get my future started."

-Eric Cornell

While attending his last year of Auburn, senior Jeff Healy works on making the repairs under the hood of this car.

Window of Opportunity

At Auburn Career Center you can explore your field of interest hands on. While attending Auburn you can learn a wide range of skills, whether it be working underneath the hood of a car, cooking a gourmet meal, resuscitating a dummy, or even constructing a house to put up for sale. Auburn allows students to get a head start in the direction they want to go. It offers many programs to choose from that can benefit the career of a student's choice. Auburn is a unique institution that applies a different way of learning and gives students the opportunity to better understand their job interests.

Junior Kody Hollingshead works on taking the next steps in finishing the Auburn house during his construction class is building.

Athletics

Madison High School sports are a big part of who we are. The students go to games to support the school. When you're a part of a team you feel like you are a part of a family. You have a team to back you up when you make mistakes and to cheer you on when you are doing good. Madison sports have a way of bringing the school together.

Whether it was raining, or the sun was shining, Madison's spirit crew always made their appearance at Varsity football games. The spirit crew is a group of students with pride and joy in their school whether their team is winning or not. They have fun tailgating and painting up before the games, chanting and yelling for the players, and having a blast at their Taco Bell after-parties. At the beginning, the spirit section was having a turnout of an outrageous number of students but, by the end of the season the turn out diminished from 50 kids per game to around 20 loyal fans. The football team started off rough this season, but after the team's first win over Chardon the MHS spirit crew charged the field in celebration. Many of them would recall that slipping and sliding in the mud of the football field is their most memorable moment of their high school days. This year, the community became very supportive of breast cancer awareness after one of the football players mothers was tragically diagnosed with it. Showing support for breast cancer, the spirit section painted up for the Padua game in pink to support the family. This made the community members very proud that Madison has such a supportive group of students who take the time to acknowledge the two things that mean the most to them, their community and their school. When asked what makes our spirit section better than other schools, Matt Turek, this years' "Super Streak" said "Our spirit section is far superior to that of other schools in our area. Our spirit section is louder and bigger than other schools."

Loud, proud, and spirited, these three junior girls Skye Robinson, Alycia Fleischer, and Rebekah Skerl scream their hearts out showing they are BIG spirit fans.

Tailgating at Perry High School before the big game, Junior Clay Densmore serves up some grilled hot dogs to the hungry spirit fans including junior Jacob Freshour.

The spirit crew not only showed support for the Blue Streaks, but they also supported breast cancer, and many of the community members who are survivors or fighters of cancer by painting up with pink paint and the ribbon symbol.

Spirit crew seniors help build intensity at the pep rallies held before some of the major football games. These students yell and cheer their loudest helping the seniors' section win the "Which grade can cheer the loudest" activity.

The Spirit Crew Yells It Louder!

"It was a great honor to paint up because not only am I a freshman, but I'm also the shortest guy in the school" - Cameron Haase

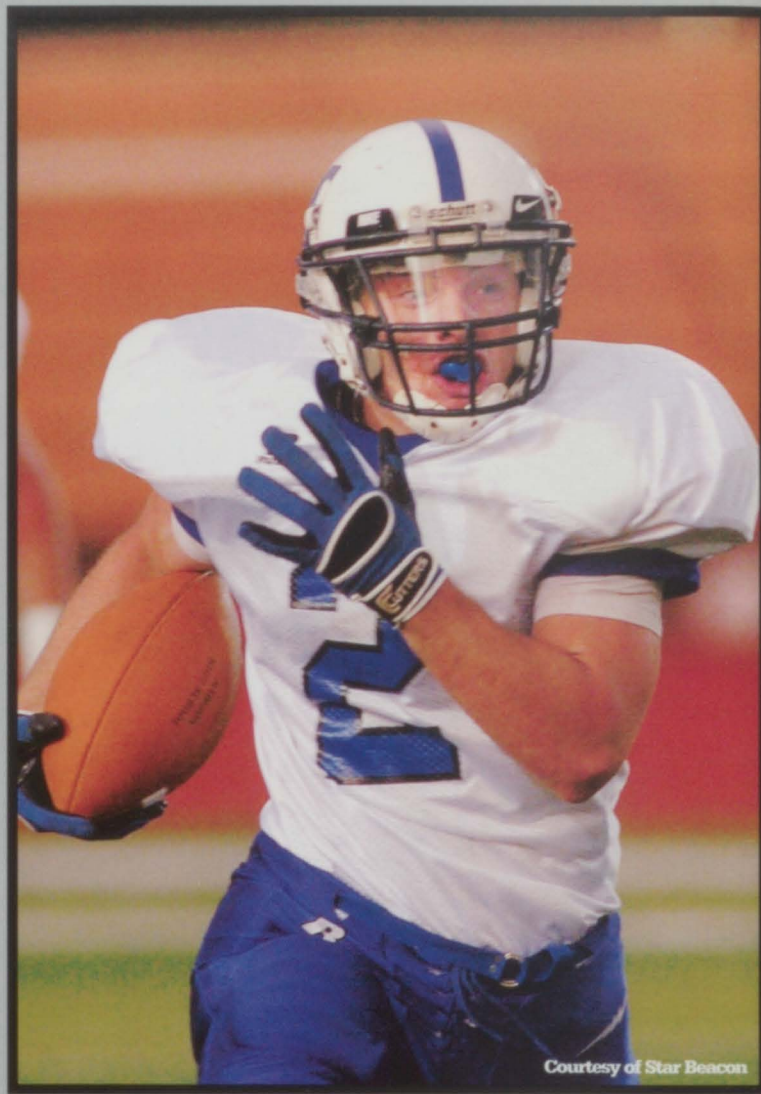

"The spirit section was awesome and had lots of fun. We decorated before games and had a drum and dance signs for props." - Joe Pietrzyk

"Super Streak" senior, Matt Turek saves the day during the Perry pep assembly as the pirates invade and begin to harass the football team. Matt called for help from the spirit section who came in and roped the pirates up and carried them off.

Crank up the Diesel

Madison Football traveled on a rocky road this season, but remained strong and never lost hope. The team was led by captains Ty Law, Miles Iverson, Matt Bruening, Hunter Legeza, and Steven Isabella. According to Coach Willis, "Ty, Miles and Matt showed great leadership on and off the field. They led by example." Senior Ty Law has been a starter on offense and defense for 3 years and was named Lake County Defensive MVP. Senior Miles Iverson had 1500 yards rushing and 600 passing to be named Lake County Offensive MVP. Not only were the captains a key aspect to the season, but a strong offensive and defensive line were a main component. Unfortunately, a major weakness was the inability to finish a game, which was reflected with a 0-6 record to start the season. There were also numerous injuries that ended two seniors seasons, but enabled younger players to get more experience. In contrast, the team overcame these obstacles to win their last four games with a record of 4-6. Many trials were faced throughout the season. However, the team applied themselves with dedication and perseverance to make it a memorable year.

Working together as a family, the band unites as one when they show up for football games on Friday nights to march. Madison's marching band is successful because of their family-like characteristics. Their ability to have fun rain or shine got them through a successful season. Some songs the band played this year were "Welcome To The Black Parade", "All The Small Things", "Hot N' Cold", "American Woman", and "We're An American Band". Some of the strengths of this years band is the quality of their sound, their great dynamics, and the fact they have overloads of energy. A weakness of theirs was little leadership at first, but eventually they all learned to get along and create enjoyable shows. Marching band is so enjoyable to Mrs. May because the combination of a great love of music, hard work, and the accomplishment of doing something well. When asked how she felt Becca Hord did as a drum major Mrs. May replied "Becca Hord earned the respect of her classmates quickly. She has a good knowledge of music which helped her run rehearsals. Becca had great presence on and off the podium!"

"We Are Family!"

Getting ready and warming up before half-time is only one half the task the band members must accomplish. These three flute players get ready and practice together before they go out to perform their very exciting half-time performance.

Showing some enthusiasm, senior tuba player, Danica Kirk marches her way back up into the bleachers after the pre-game performance

Fight to Finish it

Sophomores Quentin Cieslinski and Nick Swartzwelder get warmed up for their Saturday morning game against the Lakeside Dragons.

During Madison's last game against Riverside, Brennen Rojas and Kenny Krebs prepare themselves for the ball to snap.

This year, the JV football team was led by many players. According to Coach Herald these players were Jesse DeJesus, Soren Iverson, Nick Swartzwelder, Pat Kuntz, Garret Primer, Andrew Keates, Austin Beck, Quentin Cieslinski, Cooper Legeza, Brandon Alley, and Josh Ransom. Due to the fact that many of the JV players moved up to Varsity, the team was very short-handed. Despite that fact, "The team did very well. With a season of 5-3-1, there is still room for improvement. The players need to be smarter, stronger, and faster in order to be ready for Varsity," said Coach Herald. Looking forward, Coach Herald expects the next group of JV players to work as hard as possible.

With a record of 6-3 the Freshmen team started out strong and won their first five games. Unfortunately, there were some injuries, illnesses, and some players moved up to JV or Varsity. Coach Bradley said that the team had a good year and thought it was a bit better than average. He also thinks that all the players would benefit if they took Coach Willis' advanced PE class so that they can become bigger, better, and stronger for their upcoming seasons.

Maintaining The Spirit

This years football cheerleading squads consists of 8 girls both on varsity and JV. The Varsity cheerleading coach, Mrs. Fults commented on how well the captains Erin Maresco and Jami Burke stepped up and took charge. She also said "The squad picked up the material very quickly." The most memorable moment for the Varsity coach was when they did a mini cheer camp and the younger community girls were able to cheer with the Varsity and JV cheerleaders at a Friday night football game against South. Despite the pouring rain they all had fun and really looked great. The JV cheerleading squad equally had a successful season. At the beginning of the season each girl wrote on a note card what they wanted to improve and they worked as a team to accomplish these goals. Coach Evans commented on first year cheerleader Danielle Scheidecker stating, "She worked very hard and earned her spot on the squad." Some positive comments she had about the squad were that they had great attitudes, and they were creative. She is looking forward to coaching another great season.

A Little Dirt Won't Hurt

The girls soccer season started on a strong note, winning their first five games, and tying their sixth. Soon after, their luck began to change. There were injuries that fell upon a number of girls which caused them to fall behind. However, the girls pulled together to pick up the slack and bond as a team. This year, five key seniors will be graduating, Emily Kiess, Marianna Smith, Joy McFarland, Ashley Miller, and Moriah Robinson. Reflecting back on the 2009-2010 season, senior Ashley Miller wanted all the players to know that, "We started the season off well, the injuries slowed us down, but the girls pulled together and became a team, even though the season got rough. I feel we ended on a good note. I want to tell the girls next year, good luck." Senior Moriah Robinson added, "Good luck next year girls, and remember to play every game like it were your last!"

Attacking Their Goals

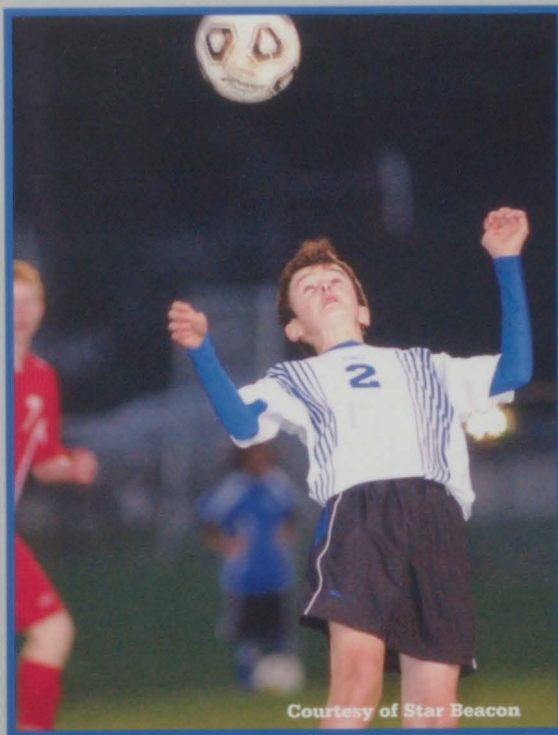

The Varsity Boys Soccer team improved greatly throughout the 2009-2010 season. With only 6 wins during the regular season, they still managed to land a spot in districts after winning the sectionals game against Eastlake North 2-1. A close game against Mentor took the win by 1 goal. Captain Brandon Grubb stated "This season turned out great. I was really proud of the team, it was an honor to be captain of such a successful group of guys. My most memorable moment was the close districts game against Mentor. Even though we lost, I was happy that we even made it that far." The team will be losing 5 seniors this year. But hope to gain new leaders for next year.

Going Down The Line

Sprinting down the field sophomore Brian Bismark fights to get the ball back in his control.

The Boys JV soccer finished with a 4-8-1 record. "Although our record may not indicate it, I feel we had a very successful season. We lost a core group of players to Varsity which probably hurt our win/loss record, but gave the younger players more experience. Our rookie goalie, Tyler Bohinc really improved throughout the season. Players such as Jake Steigner, Jake Davis and George Byrne helped an otherwise young, inexperienced defense. I look at this group playing varsity at some point next year, so having had a chance to give the other players more opportunities will help next year," reflected Coach Blabolil. The Girls JV Soccer team had a great 2009-2010 season. The girls finished with a 7-4-1 record. They had many exciting victory's and a close game with Geneva that ended with a tie of 2-2. "We developed as a team by improving fundamentally and understanding how to play as a team," said Coach Nikses. She also added that those that will remain on the JV team will provide leadership and depth to a quality returning squad.

Push it to the Limit

Nearing the end of the race, sophomore Amanda Guinn and junior Amy Nelson continue to push themselves through the PAC conference meet at the Perry YMCA.

This year, the Girls Cross Country team put forth great effort and dedication to have it turn around for the best. In the PAC conference they received a well-deserved second place, which hasn't been achieved in years for Madison High School. Junior Jillanne Mackey and senior Taylor Raines led the team as captains. "We have a very close team and everyone gets along, and I believe it's partly because of the great leadership we had from these two girls", echoed Coach Orris. Erin Hord was an excellent runner this season, she placed 22nd in districts, 8th in PAC and earned 2nd team in PAC. Although she battled injuries this year, sophomore Taylor Cline remained the number two runner; with strong motivation she earned 2nd team in PAC and placed 1st in the Wickliffe meet. A weakness throughout the season was the inability to overcome confidence. "As we get more confident, the girls will be more willing to train and push beyond their comfort levels", adds Coach Orris. Next year all seven varsity members will be returning with high hopes of another successful season.

"Confidence is the secret to success"

Though the Boys Cross Country's season was not their best, they never gave up hope. "Though the team was hardworking and lacked some experience, we had 5 rookie juniors. They were very quick to learn the sport and will be very good next season," Coach Verdi enthusiastically stated. A major accomplishment of the season the qualification of Konner Lashley and Bobby Bismark to regionals. The top male and female athletes traveled to Wisconsin to compete in the footlocker championships. Key players this season were Konner Lashley, Bobby Bismark, Ryan Spangenburg, Mitchell Farnsworth, and Clay Densmore who proved their leadership through the heavy loads of pressure put on them by their coach. "Senior players Konnor Lashley, and Ryan Spangenberg are going to be hard to replace, but I hope the best for them". Can You Dig It?

This year's Varsity Volleyball team was led by four returning seniors, Juliana Brotzman, Sheryl Powell, Rachel Lomurno, and Morgan Winegord; who all demonstrated good leadership and remained positive through a rough season. An obstacle the girls faced throughout the season were remembering their defensive positions and reading hits. The Varsity team stepped up their game and applied all the skills needed to beat Jefferson and Lakeside, which are both tough teams. Although their overall record was 7-15, the team stuck together and fought through the thick and thin. Madison volleyball has had a bad reputation for years, but this year, the team received many compliments from other coaches in regards to their noticeable improvements. Coach Ryan expresses, "The girls are really nice individuals both on and off the court. Great job ladies!"

Teammates Kelsey Koskinen and Lorren Glaros stay alert while waiting for the ball to come their way.

Spiking with Spirit

The 2009-2010 Freshman Volleyball team started off their season with a bang beating the Chardon Hilltoppers for their first time in their volleyball history. The girls used their win as motivation to show up on game day and continue to keep the success going. These young ladies have been through rough times together. For example, everyone got sick towards the end of the season and got down on themselves if a play didn't go their way. However, adversity brought the players closer and helped them bond better as a team. The JV Volleyball team also had a successful season. Each girl grew as individual players and as a team; practicing hard and believing in one another throughout the entire season. Although they struggled with defensive playing, their hard work followed through into their first win against Willoughby South. Keep it up ladies!

Serving it up: Tennis Style

After a tough season of tennis with the girls giving all they had for their matches, we ended the season 5-10. Coach Vidmar was pleased with over all a great season "It was an honor coaching these fine young ladies who always gave their best, had fun playing, and exhibited class on and off the court." The girls returning need to play in the offseason and the JV players continue to improve as well to fill in spots left by seniors Hannah Reynolds, Allison Misich, and Brittany George. The JV and Varsity team this year had very similar records, but their weakness was an overall lack of experience playing competitive tennis. Through their tough season, and lack of experience Coach Vidmar looks forward to next years season as a fresh start and a new experience for all returning girls and wishes all senior girls good luck.

Driving Ambition

This year the girls varsity team started on a good note and to only ended on a even better one. Together they accomplished the first Division one sectional championship since the 2002-2003 season. Senior Kaitlyn Oberstar was one of the teams key players this season, being their leading scorer, steals, and assists. Junior Kelsey Koskinen was the teams leading rebounder and 3 point shooter. When asked how the overall season went Coach Smith replied, "I thought we had a very good season. After a 3-5 start we finished the season with a 10-3 in the regular season and won the Division one sectional championship." The teams strengths this year were the senior's depth and leadership, while the size was the biggest weakness for the team. Coach Smith also commented on some of the younger players such as Amanda Gervan, Lillian Zvosecz, Melanie Primer and Abigail Trivisonno as being players who showed the most improvement. The team will be losing six seniors this year including Ashley DiLillo, Rochelle Fisher, Chelsea Davis, Kaitlyn Oberstar, Brittany George, and Kaitlyn Thompson. Referring to next season, Coach Smith states, "We will be very young next year, with only one returning starter, but we will continue to stress team play and defense."

"The honor of having a banner to put up on the wall as a remembrance of a winning season with my best friends," says Senior Ashley DiLillo when asked about her most memorable moment from her senior year season.

Senior Kaitlyn Oberstar drives toward the basket in hopes of raising Madison's score bringing them to a victory.

"With a team of best friends comes too many memories to count. All I can say is there has never been a dull moment." explains senior Kaitlyn Thompson

Freshman Abigail Trivisonno takes the court after being announced as a starter for the home game.

Senior, Rochelle Fisher keeps her eyes on the ball and head in the game while guarding her Riverside opponent.

Junior Kelsey Koskinen expresses her aggressiveness as she fights to gain possession of the ball.

The Boys Varsity team this year "showed a great amount of improvement with the exception of 4-5 games," according to Coach Moran. The team showed many strengths ranging from playing hard, working hard, and being easy to coach. All these strengths could easily be seen by any fan watching the team really come together on the court. Unfortunately the team's weakness was the lack of experience after graduating eight seniors the past year. Senior Tyler Richmond was one of the team's key players. This year Tyler broke the 3-point shot record making 66 on the year. Along with breaking the record Tyler also finished 2nd team PAC, right behind senior Nicholas Mayer who took 1st team PAC. Not trailing far behind them Adam Sweeney and Mark Vaughn took the title for honorable mention PAC. The teams will be losing four seniors, Nicholas Mayer, Jam Panyathong, Tyler Richmond, and Joseph Pietrzyk. "I am looking for our young talent to have a great season and use this year of experience to get better," states Coach Moran when asked about the season ahead.

The Girls JV Basketball team can be summed up in one word: successful. They worked together as a team to pull off a 15-5 record and losing only 3 games in the PAC. "Different players stepped up in different games and they played very well together, great team effort," expresses Coach Collins. The JV Boy's Basketball season was just as successful with record of 8-12 to finish the season. Garrett Primer led the team in rebounds. Brett Monty benefited the team with his great ball handling skills. Quentin Cieslinski was a stand out leader who aggressively fought through each game. "It was fun to coach this year's team. They never quit, played hard, and improved," expressed Coach Rielly.

A strong group of freshmen boys came together all possessing the same work ethic. Every single member of the team came to practice and put forth their best effort, which reflected in their games. "They went to every game and competed at 100%.

They did not have a large amount of natural talent, but they made up for it with effort," explained Coach Wagner. The girls freshmen basketball season struggled through a consecutively rough season. A definite strength in the season was keeping the energy alive and not giving up when the score was not in their favor. "No matter how bad they got beat they would play hard till the end of each game," Coach Ziegler positively notes. For next year, both coaches have high hopes for another great group of freshman players.

"What I will miss most about basketball cheerleading is doing the band dances while the players warm up. What I will miss most about competition is working hard all season and seeing it all pay off with a win at a competition. My most memorable moment this season was goofing around on the sidelines. This was by far my favorite year of cheerleading and I will miss all the girls and wish them luck in the future."

This year's basketball cheerleading and the competition squads had great success during the 2010 season. They worked hard through-out the long basketball season and performed their best at all times. They work especially hard for their halftime performances which usually consist of routine dances. This year's competition squad traveled to Berea for a cheerleading competition and left with a first place trophy. They also competed at North High School and took home a third place trophy. "This season was memorable, we all got along very well. We raised a lot of money this year by fundraising for new pom-poms and new uniforms," said junior and captain Jami Burke. Since there is only one senior leaving the squad, the coaches plan to make the squad bigger for next year to open up more spots to incoming freshmen.

Just Keep Swimming

The 2009-2010 swim team had an exciting season this year. With all the fun and enjoyment, from the locker rooms to the pool, the teammates had some great achievements. One would be freshman Haley Dake. Dake made Madison girl's 10th place of the top ten swimming times in the 50 freestyle with a time of 27.79 seconds. Also, senior Derek Kuester made 5th place out of the Madison boy's top ten swimming times in the 100 freestyle with a time of 50.62 seconds. Finishing the season with 6 wins and only 3 losses in dual matches, and taking one wrestler to State as a freshman is a good season for the Streaks. This team was a very young, only consisting of two senior wrestlers. Matt Turek led his team as captain. Coaches feel Turek was a good leader, and a great motivational role model. When asked what he is most proud of this year, Coach Cianciolo said " Watching individuals with specific goals and the work they put in to achieve these goals. Having a freshman state placer is also a great accomplishment." The incoming freshman will improve the wrestling program bringing in many talented young men at the middle school level. Some strengths of this years team were a positive attitude, hard work and determination.

No Pain, No Gain

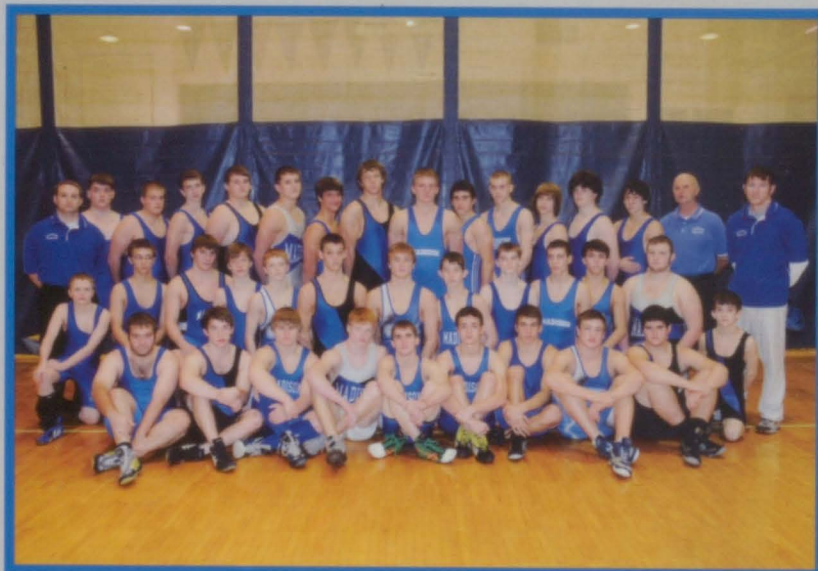

This year's wrestling team was a very young team. Madison only had two senior wrestlers and one senior statistician. Senior wrestlers, Matt Turek and Josh Burr helped lead Madison's team to a 6-3 record.

Row 1: Nathan Shelton, Daniel Land, Christopher Wood, Jacob Montgomery, Matt Turek, Josh Burr, Austin Beck, Brandyn Alley, Nicholas Lasko, Jacob Steigner

Spirit, let's hear it!

Madison fans brave the cold and snow to support their team during the winter months. The students and the rest of the community make a game between friendly rivals exciting and memorable. They cheer for the Blue Streaks whether they are up or down. Although Boy's Varsity Basketball team struggled with a rough season, it didn't stop students from supporting their friends and team. Not only do students attend the boy's games, but the girl's basketball games were never unattended. Fans congregated to support the swim and wrestling team as well.

Seniors Stephen Isabella and Hunter Legeza are anything but shy when it comes to battling with opposing fans.

The Pleasant Surprise that Won Districts

This years season was a pleasant surprise to Coach Pinelli. The 2010 season was a big improvement. The team went 9-3 in the PAC, coming in second place. This is one of the first years in many that Madison was tied for first place in the PAC although they fell short to South after losing to Chardon. Pitching and big hits were the key to success for this years team. The Madison Softball team was District Champions, and Regional Qualifiers. The team this year had a lot of chemistry having played together for several years. Nine of the Varsity girls have played four or three Varsity years together, along with several years of growing up and playing little league together. Some of Coach Pinelli's favorite memories with the team are defeating North at North's field in 2009, and defeating North and South in the District semi-finals and final games. Looking back on the season Coach Pinelli said he would not change a single thing about the year. Madison Blue Streaks will be losing 8 seniors, Brittany Hinz, Juliana Brotzman, Tawna Whited, Maggie Demko, Kaitlyn Thompson, Kate Oberstar, Sheryl Powell, and Brittany Studer. Leaving three remaining Varsity players for next year.

Trying to lighten the mood and loosen the nerves before the big District games at Mentor, the girls goof around on their "lucky bench".

Awaiting their big game against Eastlake North, the team is very proud of their accomplishments in making it to the semi-final district round. Where they didn't end the season, they went on to win districts.

Firing the ball into her catcher, senior pitcher Britt Hinz carried the team to their victorious season while leading the Northeastern part of Ohio in earned run average.

It's a Hit

Looking back at the season, their record may not reflect the improvements this year's team made from last year. Each and every girl on the team had the courage to try new positions, and were willing to listen and to do the changes coaches were asking of them. Some challenges they had to overcome this season were their lack of a pitching staff and the lack of knowledge for the game of softball. By the end of the season, the girls were playing better and understanding more of the game. One of the key players that did an outstanding job was Andrea Reynoso, she was willing to step up and play any position she was asked and she was a good team leader.

"I'm proud of the way the girls worked with one another in order to beat the teams we beat," quoted Coach Ryan.

Seniors Steven Richards and J.W. Leitch converse with junior pitcher Nick Lasko during their "mound meeting."

Although the Varsity Boys Baseball team faced a challenging season this year, they never lost their determination to get back on the field and play the following game. The boys' had some stand out moments though out the season, with their second game against Lakeside where both sophomores T.J. Davis and Tyler McCord hit home runs in the same inning, winning the game 20-4. Also with homeruns this season include seniors Jesse Hart, Joshua Caranci and junior Nick Lasko making the team have a total of seven home runs this season. The teams "stand out" players this year were Tyler McCord who held the teams highest batting average and Joshua Caranci who was the best pitcher. One a high note the boys' over all hitting improved as the season went on. "We had a good work ethic all season and we always trying to improve," commented Coach Dragas. The team will be losing five seniors including, Joshua Caranci, Jesse Hart, Steven Richards, J.W. Leitch, and Matthew Crosley. Coach Dragas stated about the graduating seniors is that "they had a great attitude and never quit." Over all the boys' placed sixth out of eight teams in the PAC. When asked about his season sophomore T.J. Davis said "I am looking forward to see if we have a better season but I am going to miss having the seniors around from this year and having Stevie and Jesse on second giving me signs. I'll also miss Caranci's famous games of pepper. I'd have to say my favorite part of this season was when Tyler McCoard and I hit a home run in the same inning twice, and when according to Tyler we had sophomore days."

Streaks Striving for Success

The 2010 Freshman Boys Baseball team had a very good season. They had a winning record in the PAC. When asked about next season Coach Titman stated, "the group has the opportunity to turn around a baseball program that has struggled for years." The weakness of the team was the lack of competitiveness. Key players were Brandon Smith, who had the highest batting average and Brett Monty, who scored the most runs.

The JV baseball team had a difficult season because of the number of injuries and eligibility problems. The team's strength was their batting because each player could hit the ball well. For next year the team hopes to better their defensive skills and average less errors per game. A key player was Antonio Nappo, he had five home runs and started seven games as pitcher.

The 2010 season for the Boys Tennis Team has remained positive despite of their record or inexperience. Varsity coach Mr. Vidmar commented "the boys compete well and show class and sportsmanship on and off the court. I'm very proud to coach them." He also stated that there were some injuries and illnesses but the boys filled the positions well for those not there. When asked about the strengths of the team he stated, "the players put forth excellent effort and are improving during every match." The JV boys tennis team built great potential throughout the season. Coach Brainard stated that Chris Waldron and Brandon Ortiz were stand out players. This was Brandons first year playing and quickly moved into the 2nd singles spot. When asked about the accomplishments the team made throughout the season Coach Brainard answered "The freshman made huge strides improving their strokes and serves. We improved each practice and each match." Next season is looking up for the JV boys with 5 of the rotating players returning.

Whatever it Takes...

The 2010 Varsity Track team was impressive, showing their their hard work throughout the season. The girls proved they have a solid distance team and the boys have shown lots of improvement. The girls defeated Edgewood High School and Lakeside High School and Senior Moriah Robinson went on to represent her teammates in regionals with her skills in high jump. The boys accomplishments included defeating teams such as Edgewood High School, Lakeside High School, and Geneva High School. Next year's forecast looks very good with plenty of underclassmen to be watching for. Although next year looks good for the Bluestreak track team, the current seniors will be missed. Their leadership and devotion to the track program was very inspiring. Keep up the good work runners, throwers, and jumpers. The hard work will definitely pay off!

Rising up to Par

Senior Zach Fedele studies the green to find the perfect shot.

With great seasons overall Varsity and JV coaches were proud of their students as Varsity made it to districts. JV played tough with more than 13 freshman students on their team this year. "Our weakness was inexperience," Coach Clark explained "More golfers make practice more competitive and difficult to get into matches, but a competitive climate challenged the golfers to become better." Coach Clark considered that the most exciting match this season was against Riverside as Justin Dingle had a hole in one. With a lot of key players this year on the JV team their main focus is improving the short game since that's what makes it to the varsity level. With hopes for another strong freshman group next year Coach Clark wishes them the best of luck, and hopes for a strong season next year. Coach Hupertz was proud of his varsity team for even coming close to districts let alone competing in districts. "It was a great honor to have such great players this year and make it to districts, the players enjoyed it as much as I did and they had fun in their season which is the important part of playing the game." Coach Hupertz could not pick his favorite moment with the varsity golfers this year and enjoyed every moment with them equally. Some key players this year were seniors Zach Fedele, J.W. Leitch, Dan Ball, and Junior Garry Zehe. Coach Hupertz expects a strong season next year with returning players and new faces.

CLUBS

Madison High School clubs are a great way of meeting new people and trying new things. Madison has multiple clubs like Ski Club for those who like to ski and snowboard, Key Club for those who like to be apart of the community, National Honors Society for the students who like to volunteer, Tech Club for the kids who like to learn a lot about computers, Drama club for those with a theatrical side and there are many others to choose from. Madison has a handful of clubs for whatever the students would like to do.

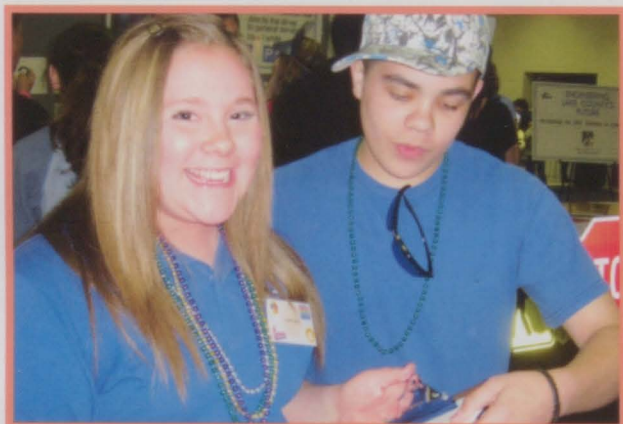

Officer Akerman the Resource Officer at MHS was one of the many tables making "Mocktails" for the students too try during the week leading up to Prom.

Seniors Halle Gerboc and Maria Nar are among many other students from Madison who showed up too support the Mixers and Shakers Traffic Safety Expo.

SADD & TI president Allison Novotny went above and beyond her duties as she participated in the Mock Crash a biannual event at Madison the week leading up to Prom.

Freshman Leah Shea and Chris Neira help out at the Mixers And Shakers event at St. John Vianney Social Center in Mentor.

The Madison yearbook staff attended the Mixer and Shakers to show support and to take pictures of this fun event.

S.A.D.D & TEEN INSTITUTE

To the right senior Kyle Markgraf is another member of SADD & TI who participated in the Mock Crash as a victim of a drunk driver.

The S.A.D.D and T.I club at Madison High School is a group of students that helps to educate the students and the community about the dangers of using drugs and alcohol. They also teach you the dangers of drinking and driving, and the importance of wearing a seatbelt. The advisor's of this club are Officer Teresa Akraman and Officer Rlaph Caswell. Officer Akraman had wonderful things to say about the kids in the club. She said "I work with such an enthusiastic and very intelligent group of kids, they are truly awesome." T.I and S.A.D.D stands for Teen Institute and Students Against Destructive Decisions. Throughout the year this club has a busy schedule. Their typical year consist of many projects including the Mock Crash which takes place the week before prom to show teens the dangers of drinking and driving. They also have Red Ribbon Week, prom promise, and a mocktail event. Many organizations help out with these events. The fire department is a big help as well as the village police and also the members of the club. This group has great influence at Madison High School. Not only do we appreciate all they do to inform the students about the dangers from drinking, drugs etc. but also all the effort they put into preventing destructive decisions.

Building a Stronger Home, School, and Community

The Key Club of Madison does more than most think for the community. They host dances for not only Madison students, such as Winter Formal, but for the community's seniors, like the Senior Citizen Prom. Key Club also sets up the Blood Drive and for the first time this year, the Prom Dress Sale. The prom dress sale sold used and new prom dresses for only 15 dollars along with accessories. Key Club also had the chance to tell Fox 8 News why Madison High School is a "Cool School" on the Fox 8 Morning News.

When asked what her favorite event Key Club did this year junior Shay Trotter replied, "For the first time in a couple of years we got to host the senior citizen prom. Everyone there really seemed to have a good time and I enjoyed helping out with a smaller scale dance. "This year Key Club helped raise money to aide Haiti after a devastating earthquake. "We helped Matt and Elise Bruening raise $1700 to send to an orphanage that needed repair." said Mrs. Vacca when she was asked what her favorite event Key Club did.

Madison High School Heads To New York

Jared Zuege lends a hand to friend Michael Lowery, as he straps him into his bindings. Halfway through the season Michael broke his arm while at Peek 'n' Peak but continued to board the slopes for the remainder of the season. Snow lovers are tough!

Every Saturday the members of ski club head to the High School either with their snowboards or skis to load the bus and start the trip to Peek 'n' Peak in Findley, New York. Leaving the school at promptly at noon, snow loving students arrive at Peek 'n' Peak around 2 o'clock. All the members flood off the bus and venture to the snowy covered slopes. While there, members are unsupervised, which means they all must be on their best behavior considering they are representing Madison.

Don't think you could stay out in the cold for 5 hours on end? Not to worry, Peek 'n' Peak offers many lodges where you can come in, warm up by the fireplace and enjoy some hot chocolate and good food. All the excitement starts winding down once 9 o'clock rolls around and everyone starts to load up for the trip back home. The bus arrives back at Madison around 11 o'clock.

After many attempts and though hard effort Daniel Zdraveff finally nails the back flip he has been working on though out the season.

Seniors Tad Davis and Jacob Shire sit with junior Annie Wolosonovich while they wait for their warm food at one of the many lodges the Peek 'n' Peak has to offer.

Several ski club members sit and enjoy Pizzolio's, the warm pizza lodge, at Peek 'n' Peak as they take a break from the cold snowy slopes.

This year's student council has had many great accomplishments to go along with organizing fun activities for students. The annual Octoberfest was a success with many students from each grade participating in various activities such as pumpkin carving, mummy wrap, pumpkin pie eating, and donut eating contests. Student council also raised money for a local family in need whose mother was diagnosed with terminal cancer. The group raised more than $1500 for this family and was presented with an award from the Board of Education. Student council also hosts the faculty vs. senior basketball game and all proceeds go to scholarships for graduating seniors.

Junior Julia Sawyer and senior Joseph Pietrzyk wait patiently for the National Honors Society ceremony to begin.

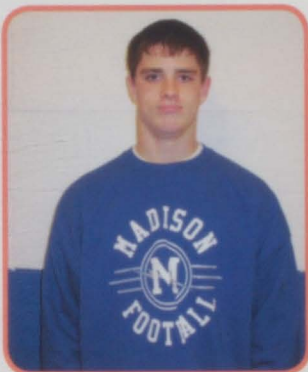

Volunteering Makes Everything Better

Senior Carli Graham is satisfied with the advanced cooking class that her brain senior Ashley DiLillo gets to accompany her in.

National Honor Society is a club at Madison High School that helps volunteer around the community. Each member of the club has to do three hours of community service a semester. The members can choose to do whatever they want in or outside of school. Some of the club members choose to tutor students in the school or help out the janitors after school. National Honors Society also does events and activities around the school like Buy-a-Brain and the teacher appreciation dinner. To join National Honors Society you must have a good gpa, good student in the class, not have been in trouble, and write a paper. The club may be hard to get in but it is worth it when you help out your community.

"It was an honor to be a representative of a group that is helping out the community." -Smith

"My role was to take attendance, it was a great group of students and I will miss them all." -Hord

Experiencing Cultural Differences

International club is an after school activity offered at Madison High School that makes students aware of other cultures around them. The group of students meet every third week of the month in adviser Senorita Taylor's room. Students learn about other cultures through that cultures customs, crafts, and how different foreigner's lives are compared to that of Americans. Some highlights of this year were salsa dancing, yarn paintings, and skeleton puppets. International club celebrated el di de los muertos, or day of the dead which is a big celebration in Mexico where they honor their dead ancestors. Foreign exchange students also talked about their lives in their countries, and what a typical day was for them compared to there new life in here in America. "Its always great to teach kids about new cultures and international club is the perfect opportunity to teach them with out the book and guidelines of a foreign language class." Senorita Taylor commented. What is expected of international club in the future? More salsa dancing, and a new look on other cultures that kids don't know.

The 2010 international club come together for a picture at their final meeting.

Junior Katelyn Zawacki discusses her question with foreign exchange student Benedikt Korinek on the differences between life here and in Germany.

Spending extra time to make sure its perfect senior Hannah Reynolds carefully glues her project.

Always Up For A Challenge

Academic Challenge is a club that is offered at Madison High where young students can exercise and challenge their minds with new tasks and figuring out new things. This year was hard for them to get new members. The team only has one junior, and the rest are sophomores. The team meets, and prepares themselves for trivia questions and tournaments against other schools. They are challenged with academic subjects and pop culture during practice and tournaments when facing other schools. Mr. Hupertz commented "Even though the team needs improvement in what they know and understand and remember, as they come to practice and tournaments, their knowledge naturally improves."

Team Members include: Cooper Legeza, Bridger Hahn, Justin Curry, Alex Byers, Julia Kuhulman, Savannah Davis, and Julia Szeekley, with Mr. Hupertz and Mrs. Kemper. (Not all are pictured here)

Putting the Pieces Together

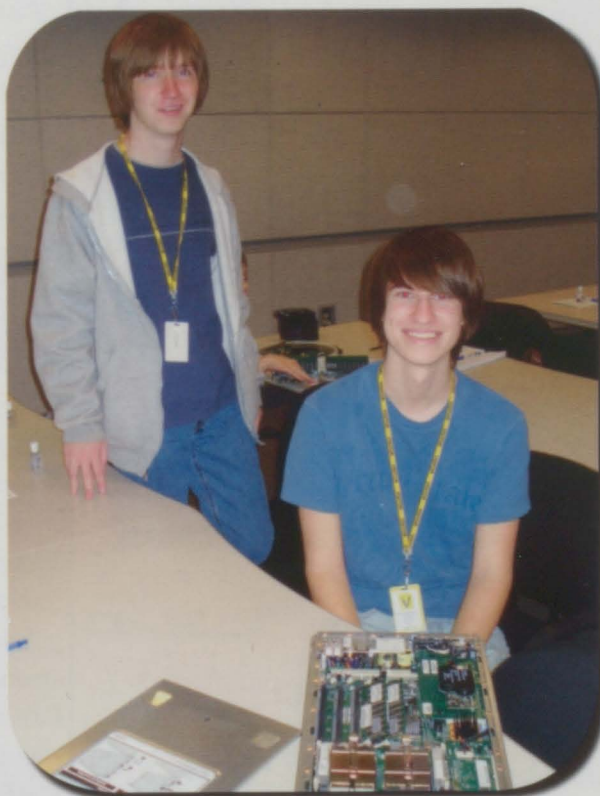

The tech members take time out of their after school club to pose in a candid for the school yearbook.

Sophomores Joshua Pilon and Joshua Korth examine the inside of a computer tower to see how the different pieces causes the computer to function while at an after school activity.

Sum It UP!

Tech Club is a collaboration of innovative students who meet after school to put their tech savvy brains to the test. Not only do they join this club to have fun, but they also are active within Madison High School. They gather the recycling bins from each room once a week, and they sponsor the "Love Surveys" for the student body to find their perfect match.

Sophomore Brenden Dorler and Junior Adam Griffin are attending an after school activity for tech club.
